This community has been very much disturbed this week by the sad tragedy which resulted in the death of R. Groome Parks. This young man had the respect and esteem of everyone. His high sense of honor, his sympathy for the distressed and his gentle, courteous manner made him especially popular. The sympathy of this community go out to the aged parents.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS IN TOWN

The raise in the price of electric lights in Chestertown is giving the citizens much concern. A protest has been filed with the Public Service Commission but no attention paid to same. A raise was made last July and a protest filed but not answered. The public want to know whether this arm of the State Government is for the public or especially for the public utilities. It would seem just to give an opinion on all requests before action may be taken. But, in this case, all a utility has to do is to decide to boost a price, file same before the Commission and proceed to collect the money. The same thing holds true in the case of the raise in price of gas.

The Town Commissioners have "struck" against paying the increase and so notified Mr. Tracy, of the Electric Light Company. In another column Mr. Tracy answers the objections to the raise and his argument will be read with interest.

To say the least, the Public Service Commission should grant a hearing and give a decision as to the right to increase before this increase is put into effect.

TOWN COMMISSIONERS ACT

At a meeting of the Commissioners of Chestertown Monday a resolution was passed notifying A. H. Tracy, of the Chestertown Electric Light & Power Company that the increase in price of street lighting will not be accepted and that on and after March 1st, 1921, the contract is abrogated. In view of this action the following is interesting:

J. W. Stowell, Robert Eddington, W. B. Bell representing Federalsburg and many other heavy users of electricity from several of the Shore towns went to Salisbury Thursday and presented their case to C. O. Culver, general superintendent of the Eastern Shore Gas & Electric Co. In view of the reduction in the price of most of the commodities that go into business in these reconstruction times and since the company when it raised the rates promised to go back to old prices as soon as it was possible, the consumers want to know if that time has arrived. The committee was cordially entertained and was given assurance that the matter would be taken up immediately with headquarters in Philadelphia. Superintendent Culver has no authority to lower the rate but has expressed the belief that a lower rate would be put in effect in a short time.—Federalsburg Courier.

RACE TRACK GAMBLING

Last Friday The American printed an interesting symposium of views of Baltimoreans on the racetrack issue, the regulation of betting, and participation of the State in the receipts of race-tracks. The opinions of nearly 200 persons were given, and a great preponderance of them seemed to regard with favor the present plan. In order to find out the sentiment outside the city The American asked the editors of the various newspapers throughout the State to tell how the people of their respective communities regard the racetrack issue, and says The American, "If opinions of Maryland editors represent the thought of the county people, there are rocks ahead for racing."

It is indeed marvelous to read the almost universal opinion against this evil. The Kent News' reply was as follows: "We are firm believers in doing all we can for the betterment of the youth of our State, and if we can make their environment cleaner or more wholesome we should esteem it a duty as well as a pleasure. Gambling at race tracks has brought untold shame to our State, misery to scores of young men, and inculcating habits which get such a grip upon them that they are forever lost to right living. We do not believe in the State selling the honor of its citizens for any sum."
