STENGER TO CAPTAIN WASHINGTON ELEVEN

At a meeting of the letter men Friday Wilbur J. Stenger, of Williamsport, Md., was chosen to lead Washington College on the gridiron next fall. Captain-elect Stenger's football experience has been limited to his three years as a member of the Washington elevens and during that time he has truly earned the honor awarded him. He is a hard worker, but has been greatly handicapped by lack of weight.

As it has been customary at the local institution for seniors to captain the athletic teams, there were only four men eligible for the position, namely, Stenger, Bischopf, Ruark and Bankard. Had it not been for this precedent, Edward F. Keenan, all-Maryland guard, more than likely would have been the recipient of the honor.

Prospects for a winning football team next fall are somewhat brighter than at any time for several years. In the last few years the Eastern Shoremen have been handicapped by the lack of heavy and experienced material. More weight was in evidence last season than usual, but, with the exception of Crowe, Keenan and Captain Bounds, was green. Since 1919 the lack of one or two men with which to round out a balanced combination has spelled disaster for the teams. Only four men will be lost this year by graduation and indications are that Washington College is about ready to regain in football the place she holds in basket ball and base ball.

Alumni, college authorities and students are planning to make great efforts to secure a winning eleven this year. The candidates for the team will go training camp two weeks before school opens in the fall.

EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS

New telephone plant costing $3,113,000 will be added to the system in Maryland in 1922 according to plans for additions being made by engineers of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company. Every section of the State will benefit through the expenditures, as the company is laying plans to add new lines and increase its Central Office facilities wherever population and business growth justifies.

Preliminary estimates from managers in the different towns indicate that the business growth is general. In many sections the requests for telephone service and the increase in calls is so great that much new plant must be added. More than $780,000 is estimated as the cost of installing the telephones, protectors, inside wire and other apparatus at the subscriber's premises, exclusive of the outside lines, cables and central office equipment that must be added.

In addition to the general amount for installations throughout the State, many specific appropriations will be made for local improvements. The tentative plans provide for the expenditure of about $167,000. This is divided among towns of the Eastern Shore, and also includes numerous additions in the cities and smaller places in the western and northern sections.

Many of the toll and long distances lines are to be improved and in some places it will be necessary to increase the number of trunk circuits, because of additional business. One job alone entails the spending of more than $100,000 — constructing new cable lines along the Frederick road, and between Frederick and Middletown.

Some of the towns which the company hopes to give considerable increases in their telephone plant are:

Annapolis, $11,000 for new switchboard equipment and additional aerial cables.

Berlin and Havre de Grace, $11,000 to provide general facilities for more telephones.

Cumberland, $43,000 for new cables and $35,000 for a new switchboard necessary to handle the increased business.

Frederick, $10,000 for central office equipment and aerial cables.

Hagerstown, $36,000 for switchboard equipment providing 300 additional line facilities, and additional cables in the northern section.

Hyattsville and Laurel, $46,000 for new line facilities and underground and aerial cables.

Salisbury, $34,000 for switchboard equipment and outside plant relief.

Cambridge, Easton, Crisfield, Chestertown and Princess Anne are given appropriations sufficient to care for their increase in telephone needs during the year.

SPRING DOLLAR DAY IN WILMINGTON FEBRUARY 15

Wilmington merchants under the auspices of the Mercantile Section of the Chamber of Commerce have decided upon Wednesday, February 15, as the 1922 Spring Dollar Day, and are bending every effort to make this event even more successful, from the united viewpoint of the purchasing public and the merchant alike, than last year's Spring Dollar Day, during which the majority of Wilmington stores were compelled to close their doors several times during the day in order to accommodate the throng of shoppers.

These semi-annual Dollar Days have been conducted by the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce for the past nine years, and experience long ago has taught purchasers, not only in Wilmington, but all over the Delmarvia peninsula and the adjoining territory in Pennsylvania, Maryland and New Jersey, that absolute reliance can be placed upon the assertion of Wilmington merchants that never before have they been in a position where they could offer to purchasers in this territory such bargains as will be given in Wilmington for one dollar on this coming Dollar Day.

A feature of Wilmington Dollar Days for several years back has been the ever increasing number of motor parties who take advantage of the splendid system of roads provided by the State of Delaware to make a distinctly pleasant and profitable visit to Wilmington on Dollar Day.

Tractor Price Cut $220.

The Samson Tractor Company, of Janesville, a division of General Motors Corporation, announces the new price of its Model M tractor as $445, the lowest list price ever quoted on a tractor of this size and capacity. The former price was $665.
