RECOMMEND BROWN FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Democratic State Central Committee Meets And Unanimously Agrees Upon Successor To Dr. James M. Corhran.

Members af the Democratic State Central Committee for Queen Anne's county met in Centreville Tuesday and unanimously recommended Jas. P. Brown, of Church Hill, to be a member o fthe Queen Anne's county Board of Education to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Dr. James M. Cochran, of Centreville. The recommendation has been forwarded to Governor Albert C. Ritchie who is expected to make the appointment at an early date.

Mr. Brown is president of the Church Hill Bank of Maryland, a progressive young farmer and is a man of splendid ability. He should carry to the Board of Education the admirable business traits he has manifested in his banking and agricultural connections. Well-known professional and business men in the Third, Second and First districts had been recommended to the Committee by the Queen Anne's County Teachers Association and various friends. There also had been considerable discussion concerning the advisability of recommending a Democrat or a Republican, in view of the fact that the minority party heretofore had always been represented on the Board of Education.

At the meeting of the Committee on Tuesday, however, it was first decided that a Democrat should be recommended, and then the Committee members agreed to submit the name of Mr. Brown to Governor Ritchie.—Centreville Observer.

The News congratulates Queen Anne's upon its selection of Mr. James P. Brown. He is an ideal man for this place, with one exception, and who knows but what his association with the body of fine ladies may overcome this exception. Queen Anne's has made a fine choice.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE LOSES TO CATHOLIC UNIV.

Putting up a splendid fight against a much heavier foe, the Washington College gridiron team went down fighting to the last before Catholic University in Washington Saturday afternoon. The score was 7 to 3. The game was in nearly every respect a replica of the battle at Annapolis with St. John's College the week before.

As in the game with the Johnnies, Cavanaugh chalked up the points for the Eastern Shoremen when he sent a pretty dropkick squarely between the posts.

Cavanaugh and Keenan were the stars for the losers, the little quarterback showing great judgment in his choice of plays, in addition to his running with the ball, and Keenan being literally a tower of strength both on defense and defense.

Fines for Motor Vehicle Law infractions last week numbered 500, an increase of 200 over former weeks. The amounts collected totaled $7,197 of which $2,189 was imposed in Baltimore and $5,008 in the counties. Ten drivers were fined $100 each for running cars while drunk or drinking. A Cumberland driver got a fine of $10 extra and a year in jail for failing to stop after an accident. Thirteen licenses were revoked and thirty three were suspended for various periods.

—Fines totaling $5,236 for Motor Vehicle Law infractions made last week record, of which $3529 was paid in the counties and $1707 in Baltimore. Of 460 fines imposed, 146 were for speeding or exceeding the regular limit. Nine licenses were revoked and seventy-two were suspended.

—The Kent County Board of Education, has made the following appointments: Miss Jessie Wilkins, teacher at Millington school; Mrs. Acca V. Crew, teacher at Kennedyville; Miss Ruby K. Ahern, assistant teacher at Millington High School; Miss I. T. Clark, assistant teacher at Galena High School.

KENT NEWS $1.50 PER YEAR

The Baltimore American of Saturday publishes the following editorial. Its reading should convert every Republican to vote for Mr. Bruce.

MR. BRUCE HAS STRUCK A RICH LODE.

Mr. William Cabell Bruce, Democratic candidate for the Senate, has been culling over some of Senator France's speeches and he proposes to give the people of Maryland extracts from them. They will make interesting reading. In many of them, The American is prepared to affirm, the most careful perusal will fail to disclose to the man of average intelligence whither the Senator is going. In many others, which make more plain which way he is headed, The American is prepared to affirm with even greater emphasis that the man of average intelligence will see the Senator—shall we say further?—before he will agree to follow him. By way of illustration we reprint an extract that Mr. Bruce spreads before us, assuring our readers it is worth studying. In this remarkable flight of eloquence the Senator, though you would never guess it, is talking about reconstruction of damage wrought by the World War. He says:

> We must invoke a profound political philosophy and seek, as we grope through a veritable world-chaos, to lay hold of a faith which shall disclose the direction of the movement of the everlasting and resistless forces underneath the world. If we seek to interpret the revelation, as it is written, not on the imprinted sacred parchments alone, but within the glowing retorts of science, in the ancient tombs of historic and philosophic lore and on that brilliant-colored, gorgeous, fire-and-sun-illumined manuscript of nature, which, is a ceaselessly unwinding scroll, lies vast-expansed before the gaze of all, we cannot escape the conviction that, if human reason is in harmony with reality, if the human intuitions are capable of catching any vision of the infinite plan, then the purpose of the whole world process must be a steady evolution of all men toword a larger freedom.

Just study this extract and make up your mind if you think a man who talks this sort of nonsense is the sort of man you want in the United States Senate speaking for the State of Maryland. And the Senator talks more than nonsense at times. He has a political philosophy, and it was because The American, after long study of his speeches, discovered in them what it believed to be a dangerous philosophy, a philosophy foreign to anything the Republican party stands for, that it refused to support him for the Senate.

There is another quotation from Mr. Bruce's speech accepting the nomination that we would call attention to. It is this:

> The truth is, that he (Senator France) has never had the slightest weight, standing or influence in the Senate. Since he has been a Senator he has poured out an almost perpetual stream of vain words (once in a gush of two days' duration), accompanied by vehement gestures and loud whicks and bangs which have at times even provoked the mimicry of his brother Senators and the Senate pages.

So far as the Congressional Record shows, nothing that he has ever said or done has ever been treated at all seriously by his Senatorial associates. He could not complete the first two sentences of one of his speeches without being constrained to say in the next, "The Senators smile;" and a smile really is the most favorable response that his parliamentary talents has ever elicited from his brother Senators.

A bitter comment on the Senator's record at Washington, and yet a comment that is justified by facts.

Old Kent Chapter D. A. R.

An enthusiastic meeting of Old Kent Chapter, D. A. R., was held in the Perry Point Club House, Cecil county, Saturday, October 14th. The Chapter being entertained there by the Cecil county members.

Luncheon was served to about fifty members and friends of the Chapter.

Through the kindness of the commanding officers and their wives, Col. and Mrs. Willhite and Dr. and Mrs. Smith the guests were given the privilege of seeing the soldiers hospital and the Government's school there.

The guests of honor were Mrs. Adam Denmead, State Regent, and Mrs. Reuben Ross Holloway, State Chairman on correct use of the Flag.

Historical papers were read by Miss Deborah Jackson and Miss Stump, and vocal music was given by Miss Ruth Jackson and Mr. Little.

Elementary School

Columbus Day was observed by the sixth grade with the following program:

Song, "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean,"; "The Origin and Meaning of Columbus Day," Esther Peacock; Essay, "The Work of Columbus," Grace Wright; "The Necessity of a New Route to India," Mary Cosden; Recitation, "Columbus," Joaquin Miller, Mildred Covey; Singing, "America, the Beautiful"; Debate, Resolved, that our country should be named Columbia instead of America. The affirmative was taken by Henrietta Newnam, Ida Spielberger, D. B. Ford; Negative, Louise Simpers, Frank Hines, Jr., Donald Kunes; Presiding Officer, Margaret Rasin.

This was their initial debate, but the work would have done credit to much older and more experienced pupils. Each contestant gave excellent points in his argument, expressed in good English and presented forcibly. We hope they will do more work on this line.

CALL FOR AID

Blame whom you will for the Smyrna horror, the least Americans over here can do is to contribute promptly and generously to the Smyrna Emergency Fund of the Near East Relief. From Constantinople headquarters Director Jacquith of this organized American relief agency for Anatolio (chartered by Congress), was sent immediately to Smyrna on a United States Destroyer with a medical unit and supplies. Responding to the request of the U. S. State Department to do its utmost, Near East Relief advanced $25,000 and then a second $25,000, first in food, medical supplies and stores collected at Constantinople for its regular work; and, since the fire, some steamers besides destroyers have been secured to transport refugees. The call now is checks for this special emergency fund to Maryland Relief, John E. Boisseau, treasurer, 14 W. Franklin street, Baltimore, Md., or to Kent's treasurer, Allan A. Harris.
