BRUCE CAMPAIGN HAS STRONG START

Candidate For United States Senate Given Enthusiastic Reception In Initial Speeches.

The campaign of William Cabell Bruce, nominee of the Democratic party for United States Senator, has had a most auspicious start. In his initial addresses at Leonardtown, Prince Frederick, Upper Marlboro and other points in the counties, as well as in Baltimore city, he was received with an enthusiasm which makes his supporters sure that he will be elected in November by an overwhelming majority. The outstanding feature of all these meetings was not only the developed fact that Mr. Bruce would receive cordial support from thinking voters who have made up their minds to elect a representative to the Senate from Maryland whose personality and ability assure for the Commonwealth a forceful and proper representation and who can take his place beside the leaders of that body, but that he will be backed by all voters who are determined that Maryland shall no longer be misrepresented in the highest legislative body of the nation by a man who they class as a blatant demagogue.

From every quarter of the State the Bruce campaign headquarters is receiving assurances of support. It is particularly pleasing, say the Bruce workers, that every class in the State is included, and that the pledges to active work for Mr. Bruce are coming from representative groups of working men, from men in professional circles and from the best thought in the business development of Maryland. The quick popular response to the first active campaigning by Mr. Bruce is making his workers say that the question is already one only of majority, but they are determined to have no letup in their drive until after election day, as they feel that Senator France must be smothered by such a majority as to discourage for all time such illogical radicalism as he has openly fostered and proclaimed both on and off the floor of the United States Senate.

An energetic campaign for Mr. Bruce is assured in the appointment of his executive staff. The selection of Carville D. Benson, former congressman, as chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee, and of Clarence K. Bowie, as treasurer, at once gave confidence to the workers, and this was added to in the subsequent announcement that Philip B. Perlman, Secretary of State, and for a number of years an active newspaper worker, would have charge of publicity and advertising.

The following have been selected as members of the executive committee:

Governor Ritchie, John R. Bland, Frank A. Furst, John Walter Smith, John M. Dennis, William I. Norris, E. Brooke Lee, Van Lear Black, Howard Bruce, Philip B. Perlman, Hugh A. McMullen, Clarence K. Bowie, Robert B. Ennis, Michael Polencki and Dr. George Heller, of Baltimore; M. H. Magruder, Upper Marlboro; S. Scott Beck, Charles L. Dodd and Harrison W. Vickers, of Chestertown; J. F. Strange, Annapolis; Malcolm Grahame, D. Russell Talbott and Samuel Owings, of St. Mary's county; Mrs. S. Johnson Poe, Mrs. Andrew Annan, Mrs. A. C. Butler, Miss Mary E. W. Risteau, Mrs. R. Green, Mrs. Douglas Thomas, Mrs. E. C. Harrington, Mrs. Mortimer West, Mrs. Frank Z. Miller Mrs. J. Gustavus Whiteley, Miss Kate M. FARMERS MULCTED BY AN UNAUTHORIZED JUDGE

Reports show at least 129 farmers in Maryland were penalized by an unauthorized judge during the month of September. The penalties imposed were from ten to several hundred dollars.

It would appear that the fines inflicted were more in the nature of blackmail. This judge, who also acted as jury and executioner, took advantage of unsatisfactory conditions which he knew existed to inflict the penalties. He did not take money, but he mulcted the farmers by destroying their hogs.

Upon investigation this relentless judge was found to be Mr. H. C. Germ, better known as Hog Cholera Germ.

At least 30 of the farmers suffered fines as a result of feeding garbage, table refuse or kitchen swill to their hogs. Warning has been given time after time that hog cholera infection is often in such products, but many failed to heed the warning, and laid themselves open to blackmail.

Five incurred losses because they purchased hogs, and brought them to their premises without using due care.

Forty-four drew heavy fines for the reason that they persistently refused to have their animals immunized after they had been warned that hog cholera existed in their immediate vicinity.

In the remaining 50 cases, it was impossible to get reliable data as to how they laid themselves open to extortion. However, there is no doubt that in every instance it was due to neglect or carelessness, either on the part of their neighbors or themselves, to observe the advice given to prevent this inexorable judge from reaching their premises.

It has been found that where persons refuse to comply with the State laws and regulations of the State Board of Agriculture, that Judge Hog Cholera Germ invariably inflicts penalties far larger than those which any Justice of the Peace would impose. True the innocent sometimes suffer but frequently they plead innocence when they were aware that unsatisfactory conditions existed in the neighborhood, and they failed to report the matter to the authorities that it might have been corrected.

Any person that gives aid, in any manner to the introduction, harboring or spread of hog cholera infection is an accessory to the crime and will almost always suffer accordingly.

Attention Voters!

Senator France was the man who lead the filibuster in the United States Senate which caused the loss to Maryland of $3,500,000 in Federal improvements, planned to be carried out in practically every part of the state.

Senator France deserted his post in Washington to visit the Bolshevists, Lenine and Trotsky, in Russia, at a time when Federal aid of good roads was being attacked and when a Republican Congress, during his absence, cut the good-road aid bill from $100,000,000 to $50,000,000 annually.

MENTHOL COUGH DROPS

TRIAL OF WOLF STATE'S BIG JOB IN NORRIS CASE

With Walter Socolow out of the way, convicted at Towson Saturday of the murder of Wm. B. Norris August 18, and sent to join "Wiggles" Smith and "Country Carey, two of his companions in the crime, at the Maryland Penitentiary for life, officials are concentrating on the Harry B. Wolf conspiracy case.

Wolf is indicted jointly with Socolow and John Keller for conspiracy to obstruct justice.

Great care has been exercised by the police and by Mr. Leach to prevent any of their plans for the trial of Wolf to become known.

In spite of precautions the fact that Detective Lieut. Harry M. Hammersla called at Wolf's home the night Socolow and Keller were there came out during the Socolow trial. Hammersla's visit was being held, it was admitted, as a surprise attack on Wolfe's defense.

During the trial of Smith and Carey it was observed that Mr. Leach piloted Keller when he was on the witness stand very cautiously to prevent his disclosing anything relative to the Wolf case. Keller, who says he was with Socolow at Wolf's and who told the police what he confessed later was a fake story, contrived to throw them off the trail of Socolow and Hart, is one of the State's chief witnesses against Wolf.

Public interest in the Wolf case has been aroused by the startling circumstances. Wolf's prominence as Baltimore's leading criminal lawyer, his ostentatious home with its white pillars on Park Heights avenue, puts the case in a distinct class of its own as contrasted with the other prosecutions growing out of the Norris murder. The other defendants were only underworld habitues, criminals with records.

Of the five principals named in the Norris murder, the cases of two — Frank L. Allers and "Jack" Hart—remain to be disposed of.
