Thirty car loads of York Imperial apples passed thru Clayton last week. They were shipped from the apple farm at Nassau to New York from there to England, where they sold at $10 per barrel. The farm was the property of the late A. L. Burton, of Lewes. Now it is owned by a syndicate.

Farmers, and others complain, and justly so, about autos parking in front of the hitching racks, leaving no place for horses. This is thoughtlessness on the part of autoists. Certainly with all the places in Chestertown to park cars and the few hitching racks the drivers of autos should not block the way in front of the racks.

In the Baltimore City Court Tuesday Mrs. Alice H. McCauley, of Kent county obtained a verdict for $5,125 against the Hippodrome Company for injuries suffered by her November 7, 1921, while attending a performance at the Hippodrome. While changing her seat in the lower balcony Mrs. McCauley tripped over a carpet in the aisle. She was thrown to the floor. Her left ankle was broken. L. Wethered Barroll was her attorney.

Instructions to clerks of courts to refuse dredging licenses to oystermen whose boats are equipped with motor power Tuesday were withdrawn by the State Conservation Commission. Coupled with the withdrawal was a notice to deputy commanders of the oyster fleet that they will be required to arrest all watermen using power in dredging.

While enroute to Elkton Saturday with a number of college students, J. Lewin Parsons, driver, allowed one of the boys to take the wheel temporarily, and in making a sharp turn upset the car. No one was hurt except Mr. Parsons, who was bruised on his right side. The auto was also damaged slightly but Mr. Parsons was able to return home in it. Lewin says he'll drive himself hereafter.

The Chestertown Council No. 58, Daughters of America will hold a Masked Hallowe'en Social at Fraternal Hall on Monday evening next.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Skirven have purchased of Arthur Clifton the Durding farm adjacent to Rock Hall for $8,000. This farm contains 87 acres with 5 acres in asparagus, good buildings and fencing.

Painters have improved the homes of Mrs. Lydia Vannort, Lee Robinson and several Cannon street homes.

William Smith Hall at Washington College was well filled Thursday evening with an appreciative audience. The occasion was the lecture "How to Fail" given by Mr. Amburg, of New York, under the auspices of Chestertown Business Men's Association. P. M. Brooks presided and Dr. C. P. Gould introduced the speaker. Lively music was furnished by College orchestra. The lecture was unique and interesting. It was along the lines of Russell Conwell's acres of Diamonds" which has for its theme the opportunities at our very door make diamonds for each of us. Loyalty to oneself was Mr. Amburg's motto.

A meeting in the interest of the $100,000 road bond issue was held in the Court House Tuesday. Engineer W. G. Applegarth stated what was proposed if the money was voted. B. Howard Haman, Esq., of Baltimore, also spoke in favor of the Bond Issue. Committees were named from the various districts to boost the matter.

The following are the officers: Chairman, E. Thomas Massey; treasurer, Thomas W. Perkins; secretary, Charles L. Dodd. Chairman of committee for each district were First, H. L. Woodburn; Second, J. H. Clendaniel; Third, A. L. Harris; Fourth, Robert Moffett; Fifth, James M. Wood; Sixth, Page Gale; Seventh, D. W. Ingersoll.

The committee will publish a letter next week setting forth its reasons why the $100,000 Road Bond Issue should be adopted.

The barn and contents, consisting of a number of loads of hay and a quantity of wheat and corn, on the farm of Wm. E. Davis, in Broad Neck was burned Wednesday afternoon at about one o'clock. The timely arrival of several neighbors saved a pair of horses that were fastened in a box stall at the rear of the barn, not being able on account of the fire to enter through the barn, they were forced to tear away the siding in order to extricate them. The origin is unknown and the loss was a total one, Mr. Davis having no insurance on barn or contents.

Sweet Potatoes Galore.

1922 will go down as one of the greatest sweet potatoe years. Clarence Newcomb, of the Peerless Company, brought a six-pound potato from W. B. Gord's farm near Laurel and says he averaged 500 baskets per acre off 30 acres. Virginia has glutted northern markets. Sweet potato storage houses in and around Seaford are being rapidly filled. It is estimated that when all the houses are filled there will be stored in the locality over half a million baskets of "sweets." The price is still low, and the growers and brokers are holding them for better figures. Chestertown citizens are paying 40 and 50 cents per basket.

Loss In Blind Pool.

The collapse of the blind pool operated by Smith, Lockhart & Co. in Baltimore, with liabilities of over $3,000,000, has taken its toll from Kent County. It is reported that a number of residents here had invested in this scheme and that their loss will amount to as much as $15,000. Receivers have been appointed for the defunct concern, and the losers may recover a portion of their money, but it looks like this will be a very small part of the loss. This is not the first time that Kent County people have been bitten by schemes of this kind, and it probably will not be the last.

The large birthday cake in the center of the table was decorated with lighted candles.
