LOCAL NOTES

Billy Snuday sent President Harding a 22 pound turkey for Thanksgiving. It was raised on Billy Sunday's farm on Hood River, Oregon.

A. M. Culp has started another bungalow on Mt. Vernon street.

Hog cholera has made its appearance at the following places near Chestertown: John Matthews, Wesley Broadway, Jerry Carroll, Earl Lomax, Wm. H. Gibson.

T. W. Addington, of near town, has sold nearly 6000 eggs from 60 hens during the past year and also sold 400 chickens. He lives on a small place too.

Never have rabbits been scarcer in Kent county than they are this year, according to the statements made by gunners. The reason given is that foxes have killed them by wholesale. If the fox continues to be protected by law rabbits will soon be extinguished.

The Chestertown Literary Society held a most interesting meeting last Friday afternoon. The subject was "Queen Victoria." Mrs. E. P. L. Bell, of Chestertown, having been close to the Queen's official family at one time, gave a most delightful and instructive address based upon personal reminiscenses. There was a large attendance.

Gunners here had a great day Friday killing wild ducks. A party of four kilt 50 on Wm. J. Maslin's shore in Chester river before dinner. Frank E. Duyer and brother, William killed 18 in the river just off town early in the morning. There are more ducks in the river this year than has ever been known.

Two men made an attempt to get into Vansant & Newsome's store on High street Sunday night. A brick wrapped in a hat was thrown thru the door window in rear of store. Mrs. John S. Vandegrift saw the men when they threw the brick and called to them. Upon hearing the voice, the robbers ran away. Sheriff Hadaway has the hat and is at work on the case.

In another column will be found B. S. Sutton & Son's Christmas advertisement. These are wide-awake merchants at Black's Station and News readers will find their offerings worthy of trial.

The lecture given at High School last Friday night by Prof. Burgess was well attended and pleasing to all.

Mrs. Mary B. McCauley, 281 Frisby street, Baltimore, was granted in the Baltimore City court an absolute divorce from Jerome H. McCauley, to whom she was married September 22, 1915. He left her in August 1919, she said.

Henry Gill says where he went rabbit hunting there have been a hundred. He jumped two at a time. Henry killed three after using a whole box of shells.

J. C. Loud and Edw. Wilkins bagged the limit off Riverside last Friday each getting 25 ducks. S. L. Wilkins killed 18 at two shots!

Wm. Medders & Co., Still Pond, are making great preparations for the holidays. Read his column adv. on page 2.

Prof. Louis C. Robinson and Miss Lanvick and a number of teachers in the county will attend the 55th annual State Teachers' Association in Baltimore, Friday and Saturday, December 1st and 2nd.

In order that the Women's Clubs of the county may have all the help possible in making 1923 a successful year, a county-wide meeting is being planned for December 13th at Chestertown.

In addition to the business meeting, a splendid program has been planned with the idea of helping the busy house-wife and it is for this reason that the women of Kent county are urged to be present at the meeting. Miss Venia M. Kellar, State Home Demonstration Agent, will be one of the speakers. Miss Kellar has made a study of conditions in the farm homes of Maryland. Every farm woman should hear Miss Kellar. Another speaker of interest to the farm women will be Mr. W. H. Rice, Poultry Specialist of the University of Maryland Extension Service. Mr. Rice will not only discuss poultry questions but will give a demonstration in "Selecting the Laying Hen." Miss Ramsey, Dean of Home Economics at Washington College, will also take part in the program.

Inasmuch as the County Exhibit was called off for this year, a request has come from many club members for something to take its place. It was therefore decided that every woman who has an idea that is worthwhile will pass that idea on by bringing to this meeting anything that will

The first snow of the season fell last Friday.

Thieves stole ten fine turkey gobblers from Mrs. Hicks Tucker, Queen Anne's county, Monday night. The turkeys were valued at $80 to $100.

The Flatland School entertainment which was given so successfully this week will be repeated at Worton Hall next Thursday evening.

Make your Christmas gifts electrical. Owen C. Smith, Corner Mill and Calvert streets, has a fine line from which to select just such a gift.

There will be a meeting of the League of Women Voters Tuesday, December 5th, at 2.30.

"CONNECTICUT YANKEE" COMING TO THE LYCEUM

The William Fox special production of Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," which comes to the Lyceum Friday and Saturday of next week, deserves to rank with the best picturizations of famous literary classics which Mr. Fox has given to the public.

"A Connecticut Yankee" is a purely American classic. It has been translated faithfully to the screen, and all the rollicking humor of the book is heightened by the visual appeal.

Mark Twain was not a humorist alone; in each of his books, even the funniest, he pleaded a cause. In "A Connecticut Yankee" he argues for the modern way of doing things, and proves that we are lucky to be living today and not in the days of old when knights were bold.

SACHS & SON'S SUCCESSORS

Bonnett & Co., sucessors to H. Sachs & Son, are advertising on the eighth page of this paper an introduction sale. This sale started Friday, December 1, and will continue for fifteen days. Bargains galore are to be found in this advertisement. Bonnett & Co. come to us well recommended as reliable, up-to-date merchants. It will be an opportune time for the public to get acquainted with this new firm during this sale. We have had pleasant and satisfactory dealings with Messrs. Bonnett and Dahne, and we find them pleasant and courteous. We believe the public will find them most agreeable. Their store is centrally and conveniently located on High street, opposite the large square. Read their bargain list on page 8. Their store is clean and well lighted and is quite an addition to our business community.

RACING MARE LOST

Montfort Jones, a horse breeder of Virginia, went to Baltimore recently to buy racing stock. He closed a deal with James B. Dunn, owner of the St. Quentin Farms, Chestertown, for the purchase of Phantom Fair, a racing mare. She was stabled at Pimlico.

Mr. Jones found the mare in good shape and is reported to have paid $1,700 for the animal. Monday Mr. Jones went to Pimlico prepared to take Phantom Fair to his stock farm in Virginia. He was unable to find any trace of her. Surprised at the disappearance of the animal, Mr. Jones communicated with Mr. Dunn.

Mr. Dunn went to Pimlico, made an investigation and then called the police Headquarters. Detectives T. W. Quirk and R. T. Porter were assigned to make an investigation. According to the detectives, they found that Phantom Fair's saddles, bridles and blankets were gone. The mare, according to Detective Quirk, was being cared for at the Pimlico stables by Patrick J. Brennan, a stable man. The detectives were unable to find either the mare or Brennan.

Phantom Fair is described as a bay mare, 15½ hands high, with a scar on each hind leg.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Queen Anne's National Bank, last Tuesday. A. Sydney Gadd, Jr., son of A. Sydney Gadd, of near Centreville, was appointed teller of the institution to succeed Miss N. Lucille Bailey, who resigned to accept a position with the Pleasantville Trust Company, at Pleasantville, N. J. Mr. Gadd entered upon his new duties Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Marion Walbert and daughter, Mrs. Grace Aldridge and little daughters and Miss Ida Crew left on Thanksgiving Day for St. Petersburg, Fla., where they will spend the winter.

Among those who witnessed the Army-Navy football game last Saturday at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, were Mr. and Mrs. Hope H. Barroll, Mr. and Mrs. S. Scott Beck, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Perry and Misses Inez and Evelyn Russell.

Edward Duyer has accepted a position with an electric supply house and is now in California.

Wm. F. Russell, Jr., Esq., has just received a communication from Dr. Paul M. Pearson, of the Swarthmore Chautauqua Association inviting the guarantors of the Chestertown Chautauqua to select a representative to attend the Lecturers' Conference on Public Opinion and World Peace, to be held in Washington, December 7, 8 and 9th, 1922. The Lecturers' Conference is an event of international importance. The purpose of the conference is to present information regarding social and economic world problems. The conference is held under the auspices of the International Lyceum and Chautauqua Association embracing all of the important Lyceum and Chautauqua organizations of the world. President Harding has indicated his personal interest in the conference by becoming one of the honorary presidents of the International Lyceum and Chautauqua Association. Dr. Paul M. Pearson, director of the Swarthmore Chautauqua Association, who conducts the Chautauqua in our own town, is president of the International Lyceum and Chautauqua Association. The program includes President Harding and Georges Clemenceau, "Tiger" of France, and presents an array of speakers second in distinction only to those who attended the world conference for the limitation of armaments.

CURT GORDY CAPTAIN OF WASHINGTON FIVE

At a meeting of the letter men in basket ball, Alwood C. (Curt) Gordy, of Girdletree, Md., was chosen to lead the Washington College basketers this year. Captain Gordy had the honor of holding the same position last year. His work on the basket ball court last season was highly commendable.

Captain Gordy's athletic career started at Washington College, where he won his letter in base ball, and he is a member of the 1922 foot ball team.

The prospects for a winning team in basket ball are the best ever seen at this institution. All of last year's squad, including Captain Gordy, Carroll, Dumchott, Johnston and Lohran are back, while Fiore and Carrington, who were picked as All-Scholastic guards at the Penn tournament last year. There are about four men for each position and the competition will be very keen.

Manager Stenger has arranged a fine schedule of 25 games, playing such teams as Navy, University of West Virginia, Virginia Poly, Virginia Military Institute, Washington and Lee, Lebanan Valley, Ursinus and others. Two games have been arranged with each of the State colleges.

The Maroon and Black had an enviable record last year, winning 14 out of 16 contests.

PROHIBITION AND THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH

In Frank R. Kent's articles in the Sun on the Anti-Saloon League he put the Episcopal Church against the movement. We take issue with Mr. Kent.

The General Convention of the Episcopal Church is the clearest expression of the opinion of that church. The preacher of the convention sermon is carefully selected, and his words come very near to being the voice of the church. Bishop Lines, of Newark, at Portland, Ore., in September, preached a sermon which, has been hailed with universal approval. This is what he said about prohibition:

"I rejoice that the bishops have spoken so distinctly for obedience to the laws which enforce the prohibition amendment to the Constitution. I recognize the right to differences of opinion and expression of the same as regards the wisdom of placing this subject in the fundamental law of the land. But it is there by action of 46 out of the 48 States, approved as other amendments have been, and a self-respecting people will see that it is obeyed. The minority have not forced their will on the majority. If final action was quickly taken, that is the way our people act when they have been long making up their minds and have decided that a great evil must end. What a great jurist called the most insolent business in the land had warnings enough and heeded them not. I do not argue about prohibition, but plead for obedience to the law, and if adjustments must come when time has determined public opinion let them not be determined by those who are interested in the sale of strong drink of by those who put individual desires over against numberless lives and homes ruined by strong drink forgetting that restriction of personal liberty willingly for the common good is one of the finest traits of Christian character and the condition of the progress of civilization."
