Letter from Europe.

One of the most interesting portions of Europe to visit is Northern Belgium formerly called Flanders. It is only a day's ride from Paris, direct by the route through Lille, a little longer and more circuitous going round by Brussels.

The people of Flanders have retained their own language, the Flemish, through all the changes that time has made among themselves and the surrounding countries. It is very different from the language that is spoken in other parts of Belgium, and the Flemish claim that it is more classical, purer and better than the others. To strangers it sounds like everything odd and unpronounceable, harsh and unmusical. But as French is spoken fluently by all, young and old, it is easy enough to get along.

The principal cities of Flanders are Ghent and Bruges. The latter is called the "Venice of the North," because it is built upon canals, crossed by numerous bridges. Five hundred years ago this was the most important seaport town in Northern Europe, the sea came up to her gates bringing commerce and trading ships from all quarters of the known world. When London was merely a small shipping port, and New York unborn Bruges was a great and powerful place, the seat of learning and civilization.

Now, it is only interesting for its antiquity; the sea has receded during the five centuries nearly ten miles leaving a flat prairie between it and Ostend, which has taken the place of this old seaport. No longer great ships loaded with rich cargoes approach this city, and the population has diminished from 150,000 to less than one-half of that number. But what a beautiful place it is! and such a paradise for artists. Here they sketch and paint around the streets, from bridge corners or in the markets, all the time busy with brush or pencil. The central point of interest is the grand place or market square in the middle of which stand the statues of Bruges' great heroes, the weaver Pierre de Conine and the butcher, John Breidel, who headed a revolution to throw off the yoke of France at the commencement of the fourteenth century. At that period, says the chronicle, one saw in one day 150 strange vessels enter the port of Bruges. There were commissaries of 17 nations and 20 consuls resided there. The Dukes of Burgundy held their courts there and the city was the centre of arts and of incomparable riches. Today many things remind the traveling tourist of this past age; it preserves its antiquity more than any city in Europe except Nurembourg in Germany.

Many buildings are standing today which were built over 500 years ago. Many persons of distinction have left souvenirs of their visits, among them are Edward IV, of England, Charles I. of England, Dukes of Gloucester, Catharine de Bragance, Marguerite, of York, and our own Poet Longfellow who has so beautifully described everything in his poem called the Belfry of Bruges. Now, I must tell you of this famous belfry. It is over the market hall on one side of the market space, just opposite the statues of the Flemish heroes. It was built in 1248, the lower part alone represents the primitive architecture. It has been the scene of many remarkable events; the lower part is now the meat market and is arranged in butcher's stalls, but in former times it was used as a prison; over the door of the principal entrance is a statue of Virgin and child in a niche. 402 steps lead to the top of the tower, where a magnificent view of the surrounding country can be seen, all the gates of the city with their draw-bridges and the great moat surrounding the entire place with the canals and rivers leading to the sea. Ostende is plainly visible, also the smaller town of Blankenburg celebrated for sea bathing. Damme lies to the east, a great port of the Middle Ages known in the laws of Ethelred, King of England, IX century, and whose Dyke constructed in 1168 to preserve the city is mentioned by Dante in his Inferno. It was also in the city of Damme, July 3d, 1468, that the Bishop of Salisbury came to bless the marriage of Charles le Temeraire with Marguerite of York, sister of King Edward IV, of England.

Truth is Mighty and Will Prevail.

She had invited him to stop to supper, and he was trying to appear easy and unconcerned, while she was on her prettiest behavior.

"Have you used the sugar, John?" inquired the mother in a warning manner.

"John don't want sugar," ejaculated the young heir, abruptly.

"Why not?" inquired the father, curiously.

"Cos he don't," exclaimed the heir, in an awful manner. "I heard him tell Mary last nigh—"

"You keep still," interrupted Mary, in an hysterical manner, while the young man caught his breath in dismay.

"I heard him say," persisted the heir, with dreadful eagerness, "that she was so sweet he shouldn't never use no sugar any more—an' then he kissed her, an' I said I'd tell."

THE OUTLOOK IN OHIO.—Gov. Campbell, of Ohio, who is on a visit to New York, is quoted as saying: "Ohio will certainly go Democratic this fall. While the offices to be filled are not of the greatest importance politically, yet the result will indicate the growth of Democratic sentiment in the State." Gov. Campbell said that the Democrats would hold their own at all points where they gained last fall and that there would be accessions from the Republicans through the Farmers' Alliance, which has many Republican members that are sick of Republican tariff twaddle.

OBSTINATE NOSE BLEEDING is frequently one of the most difficult things to check. Several aggravated cases have lately occurred at the hospital of the University of Pennsylvania. As a last resort an attending physician tried ham fat with great result. Two large cylinders of bacon were forced well into the nostrils and the hemorrhage ceased at once.

THERE is an old lady living in Polk county Fla., who is quite a genius. She can write poetry and set it to music, and has written two books. She hunts phosphate. Plants trees, clears land, works in an orange grove, can knit dresses, make neat shoes, plait hats of palmetto and make flowers out of shucks.

AN old Belfast sea captain is credited with devising a unique barometer. It consists of a thin strip of white pine with a number of cross pieces upon it. This is hung upon the side of the building, and when damp weather is approaching the barometer bulges out in the centre, while in dry weather it sinks in.

THE McKinley bill imposed a tax of from $2 to $2.50 on every ton of manufactured fertilizers used by our farmers. We use 2,000,000 tons of these fertilizers a year. The bill, therefore, proposes to rob the farmers of more than $4,000,000 annually.

A GEORGIA EDITOR says that a man who would cheat a country editor out of a year's subscription would give a nickle with a hole in it to a foreign missionary fund and sigh because the hole was not bigger than the nickle.—New York Sun.

WITH the exception of a few days this winter has been like a Waterbury watch—principally spring.

MRS. PENN—William, you are a crank. Mr. Penn—Yes, and I've done you many a good turn.

Taxes in First District.

NOTICE is hereby given to the tax-payers of the First District that the books for the present year are in my hands, the bills are made out, and the TAXES ARE NOW DUE. Prompt settlements will save interest, cost and much worry to all concerned.

For the conveniences of tax-payers I will be in Millington on Saturdays; Galena on Tuesdays, and Sassafras on Wednesdays.

PUBLIC LOCAL LAW.

Commissioners Authorized to Make Bridge Rules and Regulations.

CHAPTER 483.

AN ACT to authorize the County Commissioners of Queen Anne's County and the County Commissioners of Kent County, to make rules and regulations for the use, by the public, of bridges belonging jointly to said counties.

SECTION 1. And be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the County Commissioners of Queen Anne's County and the County Commissioners of Kent County a majority of each board of said Commissioners concurring, shall have full power and authority to make reasonable rules and regulations for the use, by the public, of all bridges which are the joint property of the said counties of Kent and Queen Anne's, and for the protection of said bridges and other property belonging thereto or therewith and to enforce the observance of said rules and regulations thus made, by imposing upon the party violating such rules and regulations any reasonable fine, not exceeding ten dollars, for any violation of said rules and regulations, which fines shall be collected as small debts are now collected, and shall be recovered in the name of the Commissioners of said counties before any Justice of the Peace of either of the said counties in which the party violating such rules and regulations shall be found; and on failure or refusal to pay any fine imposed under this law, or inability to collect the same by legal process, the party so fined may be committed to the county jail of the county for a period not exceeding ten days, in the sole manner as commitments are made for fines imposed by the Circuit Courts of this State, on conviction for misdemeanors; and the Justice of the Peace shall make this a part of his judgment, and said fines shall be applied to the keeping of said bridges in repair.

SECTION 2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 8th, 1890.

ELIHU E. JACKSON, Governor.

JOHN HUBNER, Speaker of House of Delegates.

R. F. BRATTON, President of the Senate.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that the foregoing is a correct copy of an act of the General Assembly passed January Session, 1890.

I am satisfied that Cancer is hereditary in my family. My father died of it, a sister of my mother died of it, and my own sister died of it. My feelings may be imagined, then, when the horrible disease made its appearance on my side. It was a malignant Cancer, eating inwardly in such a way that it could not be cut out. Numerous remedies were used for it, but the Cancer grew steadily worse, until it seemed that I was doomed to follow the others of the family. I took Swift's Specific, which, from the first day, forced out the poison, and continued its use until I had taken several bottles, when I found myself well. I know that S. S. S. cured me.

Gives his Exclusive Attention to HORSE-SHOEING!

I have learned the business thoroughly and have given it my study, and had much experience in the work of Horse-Shoeing. For this reason I think I am better prepared to do Horse-Shoeing than shops which do all kinds of Blacksmithing.

My system of Shoeing prevents CUTTING and FORGING and preserves the horses' feet.

My best recommendation is the universal satisfaction of my customers, and I have no hesitation in referring to any for whom I have done work.

My prices I guarantee to be as low as the lowest. Horsemen! Come and see me, and I will save you trouble and expense.
