NOTES ON ITALY.

Written for the NEWS by Rosalie Mitchell.

Our train left the Lyons R. R. Station in Paris at 10 o'clock at night bound southward through France to Italy. It was, as usual, crowded at that hour and crawled like a long black serpent out into the open country, leaving gay and glittering Paris behind. Some English voyagers were en route to Cannes and Nice and made the best of fellow passengers. They spoke French and Italian well, as the English usually do; they know the hours of arriving at different points; they were chatty and companionable. All trains in Europe are divided off into small compartments holding ten persons, with places overhead for valises and packages, doors open on the side; they stop at regular stations allowing time for water to drink, as none is ever on the train. No one carries trunks on a voyage if possible to do without, as all baggage costs extra and some times is more expensive than a personal ticket, being charged by the weight.

At day-break we arrived at Lyons, the greatest silk market in France. Many changes of cars were made here, those for Cannes, Marseilles and other ports on the Mediteranean going south, while those bound for Italy went south-eastward toward Burgundy. All the route now was through a flat country; for miles the land was entirely under water and navigable for small boats, extremely picturesque and much frequented by artists searching for old mills and chateaux and long level French landscapes. In the vicinity of the old town of Grey there is a regular camping ground of artists during the spring and summer.

We arrived at Macon in time for breakfast, which consisted of the usual cup of coffee and rolls, and was attended by the usual hurry and rush and scrambling for places, and outrageous prices. Macon was once a powerful city of the Dukes of Bourgogne. It is near the frontier or boundary of Switzerland; after leaving it we enter the region of Savoy, the most charming of places. At Amberien there is a change of trains again, those going to Geneva branch off eastward, while we go southward toward Turin, Italy. All through Savoy the scenery is wild and mountainous, with moss-covered battlements and ivy-mantled walls. Some are well preserved, others tumbling in ruins. They seem as old as the hills and filled with historical associations; down in the valleys are beautiful mountain streams that swell to great proportions after the snows melt in the spring time and fill them. It is said that there is a disease here among the peasants caused by drinking so much of this melted snow; it causes much deformity of the throat and makes much misery. Old mills with ruined wheels repose in the valley. Autumnal tints have touched the foliage and as we pass along, the mountains are capped with brown and yellow, while green and crimson color the valley trees. As the evening shadows approach we draw near the great tunnel of Mt. Cenis. The air is colder; snow appears on the mountains; we get our shawls and wrap up for the night.

Wanted to Keep Within the Law.

"I want to be posted in de law," said a colored woman who called at the Gratiot avenue station the other day.

"Well?" replied the sergeant.

"I've got a gal."

"Yes."

"An' she's got a beau."

"Very likely."

"I can't abear him, an' I doan' want him 'round de house. What co'se shall I take?"

"Have yon ever given him a hint?"

"Lands, sah! but I jess tole him to cl'ar out or I'd bust him to smach! I reckon dat's a hint."

"But he didn't go?"

"No, sah. Now, den, I want to know how fur I kin go an' keep widin the law. I've talked to him, frowed water on him, hit him wid a club, called him names, made de dog bite him, an' p'inted a pistil at him, but he won't stay away. How much furder kin I go an' not brake de law? Could I dun stan' in de yard an' mow him across de legs wid an old scythe when he cum up in de dark? Could de pistil go off accidentall?"

When advised to try peaceful measures she indignantly responded:

"Dat's what I did do on the very go-off. I took him by the collar an' frowed him ober de gate."—Detroit Free Press.

For Spoony Maidens.

There are many ways in which the stars respond to inquiries respecting the secrets of the future. One of the simplest is to take the first star noticed, count the number between it and the milky way, halve that, and it will give you the number of letters in your husband's name. Another is to select the number of stars in a constellation, add to the date of your birth, and divide the whole by twelve; keep the result in your mind until you shake hands with some one, then add the letters in that person's name to what you have, divide by seven, and you will get the number of months before you will be married. If it should run over thirteen and be even you'll marry a young man, if uneven an old one. If over twice thirteen and even he will be red-headed, if uneven he will be bald and very rich.

To tell whether your future husband will be fond of you and trusting, or jealous and tired of you, select a star as you first cast up your eyes, and count the number between it and the "dipper" or "cancer" and add thirteen. Halve that, and if the result be even he will adore you, if uneven you will have no peace. Clouds shooting across the sky while you are counting means rivals. Keep on and do not be interrupted by them.—New York Press.

"THE KING'S TOUCH."

In England, two centuries ago, popular superstition credited the "Royal Touch" with curing scrofula. These superstitious practices have now become obsolete, and in their place we have a scientific remedy in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which eliminates the impurities from the blood by the natural channels, thereby cleansing the system from all taints and impurities from whatever cause arising. It is truly a royal remedy, world-famed and the only liver, lung and blood remedy guaranteed to benefit or cure in every case, or money paid for it will be refunded. As a regulator of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, "Golden Medical Discovery" cures all bilious attacks, Indigestion and Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhea and kindred ailments. As an alterative, or blood-purifier, it manifests its marvelous properties in the cure of the worst Skin and Scalp Diseases, Salt-rheum, Tetter, Eczema, and Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, as well as Lung-scrofula, commonly known as Pulmonary Consumption, if taken in time and given a fair trial. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y.

$500 REWARD is offered by the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for a case of Catarrh in the Head which they cannot cure. By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Remedy cures the worst cases, no matter how bad, or of how long standing. Fifty cents, by druggists.

Gives his Exclusive Attention to HORSE-SHOEING!

I have learned the business thoroughly and have given it my study, and had much experience in the work of Horse-Shoeing. For this reason I think I am better prepared to do Horse-Shoeing than shops which do all kinds of Blacksmithing.

My system of Shoeing prevents CUTTING and FORGING and preserves the horses' feet.

My best recommendation is the universal satisfaction of my customers, and I have no hesitation in referring to any for whom I have done work.

My prices I guarantee to be as low as the lowest.
