OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

A gentleman, who has unusual opportunity for observation, was speaking one day this week about the way children were being permitted by teen years, and use the streets as Chestertown from early evening to a late hour without having with them any member of their family or other person to look after them.

Many of these children are very young, ranging from eight to seventeen years, and use the stretts as though it were their home or natural playground.

It can be seen that in addition to the bad influence surrounding all children who are permitted to roam our streets at will during the evening, that there is actually being built a class whose end must be in a criminal and vicious life, if they are permitted to continue along the lines they are now going.

In the crowd can be seen colored boys as well as white who, beside the effect upon themselves and their future, constitute a nuisance and menace to others as well.

There is also complaint from parents of the places where boys are allowed to loaf or play, and many times, to gamble.

There is one sure way to handle this matter—parents themselves take up the matter and see to it that their children are either at home during the evening or else accompanied by older members of the family to places of amusement.

If the dens of vice are not patronized their owners will soon close up shop. Therefore the surest way to destroy them is for parents to keep tab on their children and guide their footsteps into paths of right.

The bootlegger is a criminal in the sight of the law, but the man who leads a boy or girl estray in other respects is equally to be condemned.

Every law written upon the statute books is but a new interpretation of old commands. "Thou shalt not kill!" today means Thou shalt kill neither the body nor the soul of man. It means that the sick and the poor shall be cared for; that the blind shall be helped to see. It means that every child born into this world shall have some sort of an equal opportunity to live and grow to the full statute of manhood; that it shall not be shrivelled and blighted even before its birth by having poured into its veins the foul and tainted blood of a drunkard. It means that men shall no longer be slaves and women drudges; it means that every influence and environment which destroys boys and girls and prevents them from reaching that high destiny for which they are created shall be destroyed.

SCANDAL IN HIGH PLACES

The Teapot Dome scandal is on at Washington. The elephant is making a wry face as the dose of oil is taken. The Philadelphia Public Ledger last week carried the full story, how Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson had stood firm against the raping of the government's oil holdings, and how the big oil interests finally, by a method only too apparent, got their clutches on Teapot Dome from which by their own confession, they expected to reap a harvest of $100,000,000 profit. The investigation is not yet over.

William H. Anderson, formerly superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, in Maryland, was found guilty by a New York City Court, on Tuesday, of forgery in the third degree in connection with the handling of funds of the League in that State.

The general public must agree with the jury that Mr. Anderson's defense was "fishy." That a prohibition spokesman should have fallen from grace does not prove that prohibition is a wrong doctrine or that other prohibitionists are corrupt, any more than the fall of a clergyman proves that other clergymen are immoral.

The verdict of a jury is not always conclusive, and friends may be justified in regarding him as the victim of political persecution. And there's many a slip between a jury verdict and the rulings of a higher court.

All income tax payers are to be given a reduction, probably 25 per cent in the taxes they pay this year on last year's income. It will total a reduction of about $225,000,000.

Congress proposes to eliminate the tax on amusements, jewelry and perfumery FIRST! What folly. Why not [illegible] lieve some of the necessities of a[illegible] before considering the luxur-[illegible] this would at least show some [illegible]hy for those who feel the [illegible] of hard times.

That the proposed soldiers' bonus would cost the people of the First Congressional District of Maryland in excess of 9,835,000 if expenditures were apportioned on a per capita basis, is the statement made by Knowlton Durham, National President of the Ex-Service Men's Anti-Bonus League, in a letter sent to Congressman Thomas Alan Goldsborough. On this basis he says the bonus would cost Kent county $765,000; Queen Anne's, $810,000; Talbot, $918,000. This represents 655 miles of improved highway. Would it not be better though, to pay a debt owed to those who sacrificed for their country than to squander the money in Teapot scandals, lawyers' fees and whatnot as is now going on at Washington
