A FINE EXAMPLE OF THRIFT

The fate which befalls most of President's Coolidge's plans was point-of thrift badly needed in tax-ridden America today by Howard Elliott, chairman of the board of the Northern Pacific Railway. Mr. Elliott said:

"The papers recently carried a story to the effect that the President's old trousers were cut down for his boys. That is reminiscent of an earlier day in American history when such habits were typical of the hardy race that built up the continent. It is too bad that such sensible practices are not more general.

"The reason taxes are high is that everyone wants something and wants it in a hurry. Americans go into debt to obtain luxuries not needed at the moment and for which they have not the money to pay. The exceptions are those who save money first and then spend it.

"The way to get taxes down is to stop spending so much money and to work longer hours and save. That is true of communities as it is of individuals."

Nearing The $25,000 Goal For Washington College

Splendid Showing By Various Teams In Chestertown And Throughout The County.

The second report meeting of the Kent county workers Thursday evening was just as enthusiastic as the first tho the amount reported was not so great. It was not expected it would be for the big report will be made at the Tuesday evening meeting next week which will close the intensive organized effort. The grand total to date for the county was brought to $13,958.

Rev. Charles L. Atwater in speaking to the workers spoke of three things in which Washington College was preeminent which were excellent reasons why every thoughtful citizen should back the program of expansion; first, its splendid influence of simplicity and democracy. There was no snobbery and in all respects it was an economical college to be educated in; second, the influence growing out of its beautiful environment, so fine that it is not surpassed anywhere on the Eastern Shore of Maryland and it would be a shame to think of moving it elsewhere. It was non-denominational but decidedly Christian in influence, a safe place to send boys and girls. Thirdly, the influence of the personnel of the college, the self sacrificing character of the faculty, the spirit of the college athletics which played the game fairly, win or lose, and the good influence of a student body made up on the average of better, more earnest boys and girls than will be found in many other colleges, a good group for our boys and girls to mingle with.

Senator W. B. Copper spoke of the provisions of the bill appropriating the $100,000 and emphasized the fact that it was available only if the $200,000 were raised by the college, that therefore the very future of Washington College depended upon the success of the campaign; it must not fail.

The report of the Kent county organization up to date is as follows, with rivalry between Chestertown teams and county districts, friendly keen:

1. W. R. Huey	$9,05.00
2. H. F. Jefferson	975.00
3. J. Thos. Kibler	1,440.00
4. J. S. Kreeger	1,650.00
5. A. S. Turner	1,700.00
7. Mrs. David B. Ford	1,415.00
District Chairmen
Millington, Leonard Wilson.	$390.00
Fairlee, H. C. Willis	675.00
Massey, E. Thos. Massey	100.00
Galena, R. R. Pennington	50.00
Betterton, Howard Turner	725.00
Kennedyville, B. S. Sutton	.76.00
Faculty and Employees, Dr. J. S. W. Jones, Chairman.	2,252.00

Total for Kent Co. to date.$13,958.00

It is expected to go "over the top" on the $25,000 goal for Kent county at the next Tuesday evening report. Every member of the organization is requested to be present. A fine musical program has been prepared. All county districts are asked to make complete returns, as are the teams from Chestertown.

Largest Hatchery In State

In the News last week mention was made of the big Bramble Poultry Farm, near Chestertown. Just across the road from Mr. Bramble's growing plant is that of William H. Truslow & Son, the largest hatchery in the State. Last season this firm hatched nearly 400,000 chicks, shipping 295,000 by parcel post to various parts of the country, but principally to New England. In the entire shipment the loss was not over 1200 chicks.

This plant proves the wonderful posibilities of the poultry business.

Ten years ago Mr. Truslow and his family moved to Chestertown and purchased 90 acres of land in Queen Anne's county, just opposite town, and began the poultry business with only a few hens and an incubator of 1200-egg capacity.

That capacity has grown rapidly until today the firm is carrying between 800 and 1200 laying hens and has recently built an addition to its incubator houses that will give a weekly hatching capacity of 130,000 eggs. They expect to sell a half million chicks this year. They pay out from $20,000 to $25,000 to farmers in Kent for eggs from well-bred hens. One man this week delivered 144 dozen eggs for which he was paid 34 cents per dozen.

Most of the chicks are shipped to wholesale dealers.
