SUFFERED SINCE YOUNG GIRL

Words Failed to Express Benefit Received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Greenville, Texas.—"Words cannot express how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. Every month I would have cramps and headache, and I felt like I was freezing to death. I suffered in this way from the time I was a young girl, and all the doctors said was 'operation.' For months I had a tired, sleepy feeling all day, and when night would come I would be so nervous I couldn't stay in bed. Our druggist recommended the Vegetable Compound to my husband and he bought four bottles. I have taken every one and I think I have a right to praise your medicine."—Mrs. J. B. HOLLEMAN, 2214 E. Marshal Street, Greenville, Texas.

For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been used by women from girlhood through middle age.

It is a dependable medicine for troubles common to women. Such symptoms as Mrs. Holleman had are relieved by correcting the cause of the trouble. For sale by druggists everywhere.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

In behalf of the Still Pond Farmers Club we members desire to express in this way our loss of a valued member, Arthur L. Harris, whose kindliness, hospitality and usefulness was an asset that will be hard to replace.

As a man and farmer he was not only an example to the Club, but was an incentive to others for bettering conditions in agriculture and helping nature to give its best toward benefitting all.

He will be long remembered for his increasing interest in welfare work and especially in the improvement of farm life.

Peach Period In Kent County Said To Have Been Exciting

Some Made Money Between 1860 And 1880, But Spent It Quickly, According To Farmer Writing Of Those Days.

The Rev. S. S. Hepburn, of Kent county, who has experienced and observed life in Maryland both as a rural rector and farmer, describes a phase of the farmer's life.

The peach period was a great one in Kent county, extending from 1860 to 1880. Locally it was as exciting financially as any period of our history. There are many living now who remember the rush and push from the beginning to the end of the annual peach-gathering season.

Day and night the teams were going. There were long lines of waiting wagons at every wharf and every place of shipment. The air was filled with dust and frequently the voices of angry men demanding their position in the line.

It was the day of free circulation of money if the prices were good. They usually were fair, until the glut came on. Then every grower would have the blues for days. A good crop and good prices made men happy.

Had Its Many Enemies

Like every other crop on the farm it had its many enemies.

Cold winter with much sleet, or a late frost, would blight all hopes. A hailstorm and the June drop would put the grower on the stool of anxiety for a year.

Then the buyers would combine to put the price down. If nature and man together did not succeed in crushing his hopes the grower was in luck.

In 1874, after an absence of eight years, I came back to the county as rector of two parishes and was thrown intimately in contact with many growers. One time, when peaches were paying, a vestryman told me he had gone to the wharf with a one-horse Dearborn load a few days before and went home with $60 in his pocket.

This was not a common experience. On the whole, the crop paid handsomely for many years.

Some Made Money.

The farmer apparently was successful. Some did make money and held on to it, but they were the few. I look around me now and wonder what has become of their savings. Their sons don't seem to have it.

A friend today quoted the late Richard Hynson (well known in his day as a lawyer) as saying he did not believe the peach had been a blessing to the Eastern Shore. When the farmer was "flush" he lived extravagantly, contracting habits of self-indulgence which he could not cater to in lean years without going into debt. Once in debt the tendency was to get in deeper and deeper.

His Habits Outlined.

By close observation I know this to be true. Here are his habits in a nutshell: If he was from the Eastern Shore and had the money in days gone by he would get the best road outfit he could lay his hands on and cut a slurge. He would take no man's dust. If in Baltimore, as soon as the boat landed, he would make for the Green House, Barnum's or the best eating house he knew of. Then to a barber shop for a shave and brush up.

He then was ready for the theater or any place where he could have a good time and blow in that money burning in his pocket. The farmer is a free liver when he has the ability and opportunity to indulge.

Success, as I have intimated, puts one's feet in slippery places. That was evidenced during the late war. The vast majority of those who got big wages never thought of the "rainy day" which was bound to come. They had the ability to live, and they lived, skimming the very top of the pot.

It came easy and it went easy. Some man has said the easiest thing in the world to make is money. He made a mistake. An old adage is more to the point: "The fool and his money are soon parted."

When Peach Was "King."

When the peach was king among our crops the producer lived. But he did not pay his debts. During the fat years he spent his money. In the lean years he had to borrow. I doubt whether any freer use ever was made of promissory notes than during that period.

The church felt it. My salary of $700 always was in arrear. I have charge of one of those churches today. Looking over the records from '74 to '86 I find the vestry had to go to bank with a note many times to meet their proportion of the salary.

"Pay as you go" may call for present sacrifice, but it insures future peace. It keeps one out of the hands of the lawyer and creditor.

TOMATO SEED

The first important step to insure a good crop of Tomatoes is to get good seed.

Experts tell us the best Tomato Seed grown in this country are grown in Michigan, because there is less "wilt" in Michigan than in any other State.

For a number of years now we have been selling this "Michigan" grown seed and we and our customers are fully convinced of their quality. They produce better CROPS, they run TRUE TO NAME, and they cost no more money than many of the seed that are offered whose origin is unknown.

All the standard varieties in this Michigan Seed are offered while they last at $2.50 per pound.

We can refer you to many of our customers who can tell you the value of this particular seed.

If you want cheaper seed we have some good Delaware grown seed in Greater Baltimore and New Stone that we can sell you at $1.50 per pound. These are good seed for native grown stock and run very true to name.

Our Garden Seed stock is very large and our prices are lower than present market would afford. Come see us when you want seed of any kind.
