KENT NEWS.

CHESTER TOWN, Md.

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 8, 1856.

AMERICAN NOMINATIONS.

FOR PRESIDENT,

MILLARD FILLMORE,

OF NEW YORK.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

Andrew Jackson Donelson,

OF TENNESSEE.

☞ The Legislature of Maryland will adjourn on Monday next.

THE regular meetings of the County Commissioners will commence on Tuesday next.

THANKS.—We are indebted to Messrs. Wilkins, Griffith, Sudler, and others for proceedings of the Legislature &c.

IT IS SAID that Joshua Vansant, Esq., has abandoned the attempt to contest the seat of Hon. J. Morrison Harris, the member elect from the 3d district of this State.

APPOINTMENTS.—The following are the Governor's appointments for Kent county:

Notary Public—Edward A. Moore, Esq., vice James Arthur, Esq.

Coroner—Jacob Sutton, Esq., vice John W. Carroll, Esq.

THE RIVER.—Chester is nearly free of ice and of course navigable. The schooner, Jenny Lind, Capt. Taylor, left here for Baltimore on Monday last.

The Eastern Shore Steam boats are about to resume their trips, and one of the boats is advertised to be here on Monday.

GAMBLING AND POLICY BILL.—The Legislature of Maryland has passed a most stringent bill against gambling of every description, which takes effect after its passage, and is now a law. If this law is enforced, gambling in this State will be "nowhere." We shall publish the bill next week.

MISSING.—A negro man named Pere Tony, living in this place, disappeared very mysteriously, last Tuesday night week. He was sent to a store for some articles, which he purchased, and has not been heard of since. His hat was found near the wharf, and it is supposed he missed his way home, fell overboard and was drowned—he was a poor, helpless old negro and somewhat idiotic.

EXECUTION.—On Friday last, negro Saul, convicted of the murder of Wm. H. Porter, was hung at Centreville, in the presence of some four thousand persons. When the drop fell, the rope broke and the culprit fell heavily to the ground.—The Times says:

"The fall hurt him considerably, but he recovered somewhat, and engaged earnestly in prayer. After doubling the rope and rearranging the scaffold he was again led up, but required the assistance of two men to support him up the steps. The noose was again adjusted, drop fell, and the wretched being was launched into eternity. He continued to pray until the drop fell. Owing to the doubling the rope and the short fall (about twelve inches) his death struggles from strangulation were horrible indeed, and continued at intervals for about ten minutes.

THE MURDERERS OF GORDON.

Worrell and Bruff, the alleged murderers of Basil H. Gordon, were both arrested on the 25th ult., the former at Dover, Del., the latter in Tennessee, and both arrived at St. Louis, in custody, the same morning. They both acknowledge their guilt, but each accuse the other with killing Gordon. The St. Louis Republican says:

The prisoners, as is now well established, are the same who deserted not long since under assumed names. We learn that both stood well in the army, one occupying the position of Orderly Sergeant in a company of the line, and the other being a Sergeant in the Quartermaster's Department. The horses they were seen riding after their desertion from fort Leavenworth were stolen.

Both are young men—Worrell, the eldest, not exceeding thirty years of age—and of more than ordinary decency and gentility of address and appearance.—Their guilt is now evident beyond a doubt. Each has confessed his presence at the murder of Mr. Gordon, and an accessory participation in the crime; but each charges the principal criminality in Gordon's death upon the other.

The Dover, Del., Reporter says:—Dr. Worrell and his lady, the father and mother of young Worrell, who was arrested for murder, left Dover last Wednesday for Missouri, to be in attendance on his trial, and, if convicted, to help prepare his soul for eternity. The mother of the young man, since his arrest, has been alternately in convulsions and delirious.

Maryland Legislature.

Annapolis, Feb. 28, '56.

SENATE.—Bills passed.—To simplify and abridge the rules and forms of conveyancing. Providing a summary mode of obtaining possession of lands, and tenements, &c.

On motion, the Chaplain was allowed $200.

HOUSE.—Mr. Silver, obtained leave to report a bill to amend the act giving power to County Commissioners to open, alter and close public roads.

A message was received from the Senate agreeing to go into the election for Librarian and Director in the Farmers' Bank of Maryland. The elections were then proceeded with, and the following was the result:

For Librarian, L. Boyle, 61; blanks, 11—total 74.

Rignor D. Woodward was chosen director.

Feb. 29, 1856.

SENATE.—The bill to prevent gambling, being under consideration, Mr. Sotheron moved to refer it to a select committee. Lost. Mr Schley moved its reference to the joint committee on Lotteries. Lost.

HOUSE.—A bill was passed to incorporate an Agricultural College in this State.

Mr. Loughbridge reported unfavorably on the bill to require U. S. Senators to be taken alternately from the several Gubernatorial districts.

The House resumed the consideration of the bill to regulate the licenses of traders and ordinary keepers. Sundry amendments thereto was adopted, and one by Mr. Hall, that no retailer shall be allowed to sell liquors without taking out an ordinary license of $25, by the following vote: yeas 29, nays 18. The Speaker and other gentlemen voted in the negative on the amendment, for the reason that it gives retailers the right to sell liquors in less quantities than a pint, when, by unanimous consent, a proviso was added to remedy this defect, and the bill was passed.

The bill to reduce the direct tax three cents in the $100, and to repeal the stamp tax, was taken up. Mr. Brooke moved to make the reduction five cents.

March 1, 1856.

SENATE—A large number of bills were passed, among them, the following: To incorporate the Express Steam Navigation Company—the Queen Ann's and Kent Railroad—to provide compensation to persons raising free negro children, and regulate their freedom dues, &c., in Kent, Caroline, Somerset and Worcester counties—to allow Commissioners of Kent county to make alter and close public landings—for relief of Ann Brown and M. I. Stone—to appoint a special police for Kent county—to amend and explain an act relative to free negroes in Cecil, Kent and Queen Ann's counties

HOUSE—Mr. Silver, reported a bill appropriating the sum of $50,000 to the school fund.

The bill to restrict the granting of licenses to sell intoxicating liquors in this State was taken up. The unfavorable report of the Committee on Ways and Means was rejected.

March 3, 1856.

SENATE—A bill was passed to repeal the tax on dogs in Kent county.

HOUSE.—A great many bills were passed among them for a free bridge over Chester river—to abolish the office of State Chemist.

Mr. Frazier asked leave to report a bill to sell out of the State all the slaves and free negroes in the penitentiury, the first named for life and the latter for the time they were sentenced. Referred.

Mr. Kennedy, from the majority of the select committee to whom was referred so much of the Governor's message as relates to "secret societies," made a report thereon.

March 4, 1856.

HOUSE.—Bills Reported—By Mr. Clark, to repeal the charter of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of Greensborough. By Mr. Kennedy, to promote internal improvements; to aid in the construction of railroads in Kent and Queen Ann's counties.

The Senate amendment to the bill to prevent gambling was adopted and the bill now a law.

March 5, 1856.

SENATE.—Mr. Berry, from the joint committee on that subject, reported a bill to sell the State's interest in the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal for $1,500,000.

HOUSE:—Mr. Lester's bill to restrict the granting of licences to sell intoxicating liquors was advocated by Messrs. Lester, Askew, Frazier and Waters, and Messrs. Harris and Rowles approved the details, whilst expressing themselves in favor of the principle. It was then rejected—yeas 35; nays 23. Reconsidered amended and passed.

The bill repealing the stamp tax and reducing the direct tax to 10 cents in the $100, was rejected—yeas 34, nays 22.—It was reconsidered and made the order of the day for one o'clock to-morrow.

FOREIGN NEWS.

The Steamer Baltic, arrived at New York on Tuesday, with four days later advices from Europe.

She brings no tidings of the missing steamer Pacific.

The Peace Conference was opened at Paris on the 23d. All the envoys had arrived, and public confidence in the establishment of peace continues to gain strength.

The excitement in England relative to the position of affairs with America had subsided.

The London Times announces that the 18th Regiment and a batalion of rifles are about to be despatched to Canada. Several other regiments will follow, so as to concentrate a powerful force in that country. It is rumored, also, that almost every regiment attached to the home service has received intimations that their services may be required in Canada.

Breadstuffs have slightly advanced.

UNITED STATES AND ENGLAND.

In the U. S. Senate, last week, on the occasion of the reception of the correspondence of the Earl of Clarendon with the British Minister at Washington, relative to an arbitration of the Central American question, and which had very strangely been withheld from our Government from November last until the 27th February, owing as Mr. Crampton alleges, to an oversight of his. Mr. Seward, of N. York, took the occasion, in the course of his speech on the subject, to congratulate the Senate on the more pacific and pleasing prospect of this important and exciting question, which it had assumed by this offer of arbitration, to which Mr. Seward was replied to by our Senator, the Hon. J. A. Pearce, as follows:

Mr. Pearce. Mr. President, I think that yesterday, when the correspondence in relation to the enlistment question was received, it was made the order of the day for some day next week. Am I correct in that, sir?

The President. There was no motion to that effect.

Mr. Pearce. That was my impression at all events. I did not expect any debate to-day on that question. The papers in regard to it were received only yesterday. They have not been printed and laid on our tables, and I am not aware that they have found their way into the newspapers of this city or elsewhere, in full. A portion of them, however, has appeared in a newspaper in a neighboring city—the Baltimore Patriot. I do not feel ready, after the cursory reading which I have been able to give to such portions of the correspondence as have come under my eye; to express a deliberate opinion on the subject, and I had hoped that no one would present a hasty view of it to-day, at such length, at all events, as the Senator from New York has seen fit to present to the Senate.

I do not concur with that Senator; and I rise only to say a word because, not concurring with him, I am unwilling that his opinion shall go forth to the country without reply or remark, because the Senate may be supposod to concur in that opinion, if no one here shall notice it.

I will not undertake so say, sir, that no apology has been made which might not, perhaps, by strained liberality and great indulgence, be construed into some sort of satisfaction; and I know how difficult it must be, under all the circumstances, to make a graceful and satisfactory acknowledgement. But I must say, that so far as I have been able to form an opinion, such atonement as became the Government of Great Britain has not yet been made.

The disclosures in the correspondence exhibit a frankness and manliness of spirit, as well as an ability, on the part of our Government, worthy of all honor, and of which we may justly be proud.—But I regret that a similar spirit does not seem to me to characterize the correspondence on the part of Great Britain. I will not characterize it as I think it fairly might be characterized; but I confess that the affront which has been offered by the violation of our neutrality laws, and of our territorial sovereignty, seems to me to be aggravated by the temper which marks a portion of the British Secretary's letters. Not only has no satisfactory atonement been made, so far as I can see, but there is language in that correspondence which amounts to reproach and taunt, and which in itself offensive.

I recollect, sir, there is a passage in one of Lord Clarendon's letters, to Mr. Buchanan, dated in September last, in which he says that the Government of the United States has resorted to means, in order to ascertain the complicity of the British authorities, which are sometimes resorted to by despotic Governments, but which free and enlightened Governments disdain. Sir, I think that is adding insult to injury.

Those means are not specified, I believe; but we can readily understand them to be such as are frequently resorted to by Governments, Great Britain, included, in prosecutions which could not be maintained except by using the testimony of those who have participated in the offense, and who only are cognizant of the facts.

Sir, I am not an advocate of war. I most sincerely hope that we will maintain peace with Great Britain. I look upon all wars as great crimes and enormous follies, always unnecessary and unjust on one side, and sometimes on both. Nor do I mean to say that the proper satisfaction is to be sought in measures of hostility. Far from it. I should regret if the consequences were found in a termination of diplomatic intercourse between the Governments of two people who have so many and important mutual interests to unite them in sincere and liberal friendship.—But I cannot soften down the expression of my opinion so as to admit that the correspondence before us furnishes a full atonement for the incontestable delinquency of the British authorities in this matter or that it is couched in language, or framed in a spirit such as becomes the relations between the two countries.

Sir, the first letter in this correspondence is one from Mr. Crampton to Mr. Marcy, in which, after communicating to our Government the intention of Great Britain to restrict within named limits the exercise of her beligerent rights, he invokes the United States to restrain most rigorously our citizens from participation in privateering against the commerce of Great Britain, and to enforce upon them the strictest neutrality.

But I will not pursue the subject further. I do not wish to bring on a debate prematurely, or to encourage excitement. The question should be discussed calmly, after careful examination and reflection. But differing widely as I do from the Senator from New York, I have thought it proper to say so much, that none may be misled into supposing that his opinion is that of the Senate.

RATIFICATION MEETING IN BALTIMORE.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the American Party, was held at the hall of the Institute, Baltimore, on Wednesday evening last. Over four thousand persons were present, many of whom were ladies. Thomas Swann, Esq., presided. The assemblage was addressed by the President Mr. Swann, Hon. J. Morrison Harris; Hon. Geo. R. K. Call, of Fla.; Hon. R. T. Payne, of N. C.; Hon. Wm. W. Valk, of N. Y.; and Hon. French S. Evans of the Dist. of Col. The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, the American party in National Convention assembled at Philadelphia, on the 22d day of February have nominated Milliard Fillmore, of N. York, for President, and Andrew Jackson Donelson, of Tennessee, for Vice President of the United States.

And whereas, the American party in mass meeting assembled in the city of Baltimore, have met together to express their opinion of the action of said Convention. Therefore,

Resolved, That the American party of Baltimore, approve, adopt, and do hereby solemnly ratify the nominations of the Philadelphia American Convention.

Resolved, That in Millard Fillmore we recognize an illustrious exemplar, an exponent of the American principles, exhibiting in his own case, by his rise and progress, unaided save by the power and energy of his pure character and intellect; and the glorious action of our Republican Institutions, a signal illustration of the character of our government.

Resolved, That in the public life of Millard Fillmore, and more especially in the truly national, conservative, American course of his Administration, knowing no North, South, East or West, but comprehending and embracing all interests of America, his noble country, we have an indemnity for the past, and a guarantee for his future political action.

Resolved, That in Andrew Jackson Donelson, of Tennessee, we recognize the patriot and statesman, in whom, love of America, his country, is paramount to every other feeling, who "Stands upon the Constitution and the Union," and therein we have the best pledge, together with his speech accepting, on the spot—his nomination, that if elected that country will receive his first and cherished consideration.

Resolved, That the American party of Baltimore and Maryland this day raise their banner, inscribed with the names of these leaders, and pledge their brethren of America that, in November, 1856, a like glorious result will be manifested in Old Maryland, as in November, 1855, differing only in the increased majority at the ballot box.

THE State Agricultural Society of Delaware has resolved not to pay over $44 per ton for Peruvian guano, and have called a convention at Wilmington, on the 18th of March, to which the societies in Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, Virginia, and Pennsylvania are invited to send delegates, to take action on the present exorbitant price of the article.

DEATHS.

In Chestertown, Md., on Saturday the 23d of February Miss Sarah R. Wilmer, daughter of the late Mr. Blackiston Wilmer of Kent county.

In her early days Miss Wilmer was remarkable for a uniformly aimiable disposition and blameless life. She did not long rest satisfied with mere outward observances but when quite young was deeply convinced of her fallen state and of the great evil of sin in the sight of a holy God. She earnestly, and with honest purpose of heart, sought for something higher and holier than moral correctness of conduct—and under the ministry of the Rev. George Dashiell, at that time Rector of Chester Parish and ministering occasionally at St. Pauls, entered into communion with the Episcopal Church. From that time to this, embracing a period of more than half a century, her life has been consistent with her profession. All who enjoyed the benefit of her society could but "take knowledge of her that she had been with Jesus."

Miss Wilmer did not keep her religion for exhibition at the church, but for home use, as an unfailing source of daily and hourly comfort.—Her light shone all around. Her walk was truly with God. None of the pleasures, promps or vanities of the world engaged her affections or turned her feet aside out of the "straight and narrow way." Her daily conversation and the calmness and confidence with which she looked forward to the time of her departure, shewed the power of religion on her heart.

For many years her health has been so delicate that all her friends have wondered that she lived so long. During her last illness for some months, her faith never failed; and when at last the summons came she was "gathered to 'her fathers, in the comfort of a reasonable, religious and holy hope, in full assurance of faith, 'at peace with God and in perfect charity with 'all mankind." She had just entered her 74th year. "Let me die the death of the righteous—and may my last end be like hers."
