LOCAL NOTES

This Saturday is Valentine Day.

* * *

Easter Sunday comes on April 12.

* * *

Eggs are on the down grade.

* * *

The Boy Scouts of Chestertown attended Emmanuel Church Sunday evening and listened attentively to a special sermon from Rev. C. L. Atwater.

* * *

Dr. Pellet, lady doctor of the Public Athletic League, of Baltimore, is examining girls in all high schools of the county this week.

* * *

The Chestertown bowling team defeated the Centreville team on Lambert's alleys last Thursday evening with the score of 3560 to 3052. The locals now lead in the series by 384 points.

* * *

The local hatcheries, which will begin setting eggs extensively this week are paying a substantial increase above market quotations and the farmers will dispose of their eggs at the hatcheries.

* * *

Egg prices in the local market during the past several days have taken a terrific slump, as much as 10 cents a dozen being lopped off the price on Saturday. Many of the merchants who had loaded up on 55 and 60-cent eggs were caught in the slump.

* * *

The steamboat Express which has been purchased by the Tolchester Line to replace the excursion steamer Louise was one of the ships which was fogbound just within the capes. She was towed to Norfolk from New York. She will be later towed to Baltimore where she will be turned over to a local shipbuilding company for extensive alterations. When altered she will accommodate 3000 passengers and 60 automobiles.

* * *

Sheriff Goodman at 3 o'clock Sunday morning arrested four colored men who had gotten into a fracas over a woman. All four men were lodged in jail to await trial. The sheriff is endeavoring to break up this form of rowdyism which occurs frequently in various sections of the town.

Wednesday, February 25th, is Ash Wednesday and the beginning of Lent.

* * *

A meeting for all those engaged in tomato industry is called to be held next Tuesday, February 17th, in the Court House.

* * *

Kennedyville Grange No. 244 P. of H., will meet this Monday evening, Feb. 16, at 7.30 o'clock. All candidates are requested to be out. Also all newly elected officers to be installed. A good attendance is desired.

* * *

Dates for the fairs of the circuit are fixed as follows: Cambridge, July 21-25; Harrington, Del., July 28 to August 1; Pocomoke, August 4-8; Tasley, August 11-15; Salisbury, August 11-15; Salisbury, August 18-22.

* * *

A group meeting of teachers of several schools of Kent county was held at Still Pond on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Ida S. Parks, Misses Hannah Bell, Maude Baker and Inez Russell, of the Chestertown elementary school were present.

* * *

Washington Camp No. 34, P. O. S. of A. is arranging to hold a meeting in commemoration of Washington's birthday. The committee in charge expects to have an exceptionally good program for the service. It is the custom of this order to lay particular emphasis on the lives of those great men whose memory is venerated by all Americans. Members of this camp are urged to attend the meeting which will be held on Feb. 24th.

* * *

R. Plein, who conducts a meat market on Hight street, below the Lyceum Theatre, has rented the store room on Cross street, next to Gill Bros. ice cream plant, and will remove to that location as soon as the work of repairing the latter building is completed. The building now occupied by Mr. Plein will be razed when vacated.

Capt. Wm. H. Cooper, of Buck Neck, advertises in this issue that he is prepared to contract for about 450 acres of tomatoes. The price has not been fixed as yet but indications point to more money than was paid last year.

* * *

The Tolchester Improvement Company of Kent County has made application to the State Public Service Commission for authority to issue $175,000 first mortgage 6 per cent sinking fund gold bonds, the proceeds of which will be used for the development of the ferry service recently established by the company between Tolchester and Baltimore as per notice in the News last week the hearing was set for yesterday. The company is planning a number of improvements at Tolchester, among which is the building of a slip for its ferryboats and possibly a breakwater to prevent damage from ice.

* * *

One of the heaviest fogs of the season lay over Chesapeake Bay on Monday and Tuesday practically paralyzing water-bourne traffic. Bay steamers were uniformly late, some of them several hours. Nine steamers were reported fogbound inside the capes and forced to anchor until the weather cleared. Only a few dared feel their way slowly up the bay with their fog sirens bellowing. Captain Satterfield. of the Rock Hall Ferry piloted his boat safely across Monday morning but missed several trips that day and early Tuesday.

* * *

Thursday was the anniversary of Lincoln's birth.

* * *

The wrestling season is now on, and Cadet Vernon Selby, U. S. M. A., West Point, New York, son of Dr. W. O. Selby, has won both of his bouts in the first two meets of the season. One of the leading New York papers in giving an account of the meet between West Point and Tornado University, Canada, in which the score was 14 to 10 in favor of West Point, adds the following: "The cadet team has a calm methodical star in Selby who has never been defeated in 54 bouts."

Reality of the Supernatural

We hear people in these days denying the supernatural. It is a little as if the planets should proclaim that there is no such thing as space, or as if the rivers should declare that there is no such thing as matter. We cannot lay our hands on life anywhere without feeling the thrill of that something more which underlies all law and eludes all physical analysis.—Washington Gladden.

WEDDING NOTES

Capt. and Mrs. Washington I. Woodall announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Elizabeth, to D'Arcy R. Flowers, son of W. W. Flowers, of Cambridge, Md.

Wm. E. Embert, of Chestertown, and Miss Pauline L. Johnson, of Baltimore, were married at Elkton, one night last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bass were guests until Monday of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hartman, at Rock Hall, and were entertained Sunday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Max Aleexander. They are residing on Warren Avenue, Baltimore.

Miss Helen Lucas' Engagement

Miss Dorothy LeFevre, of the Women's College, University of Delaware, announced the engagement of her friend and roommate, Miss Helen Lucas, daughter of Mrs. James D. Lucas, of Massey, to J. Edward Murphy, son of Captain and Mrs. William Murphy, of Milford, at bridge on Thursday. The party was held at the home of Dr. George A. Harter, of the University of Delaware Faculty, which was beautifully decorated with red roses and white sweet peas. The announcement was made in the dining room by means of small slips of paper containing the names tucked between lady fingers which were wrapped as bon-bons. In the centers of the table there was a large cake on which the names were written. Refreshments were served. Those present were: Mrs. Harry Loose, Mrs. C. W. LeFevre, Mrs. George Evans, the Misses Natalie Ayerst, Blanche Workman, Kathryn Krauss, Katherine Ady, Mary Bradley, Margaret Touthey, Eliose Rodney, Charlotte Dayett, Helen Baker, Bertie Jefferson, Eleanor Harter, Dorothy LeFevre, and Helen Lucas.

COUPLE SURPRISE FRIENDS BY WEDDING

On Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock, Miss Sara E. Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Turner, of 801 Tatnall street, Wilmington, and John Conner, of Chestertown, surprised their many friends by going to the parsonage of Harrison Street M. E. Church and getting married. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. E. Habbart, pastor of that church. Dr. Habbart has been ill, but on Tuesday and Wednesday was much improved and was able to be up. The minister has known the bride since childhood and so begins the thread of romance which continues throughout the whole wedding story.

The wedding date had been announced as April 13, Easter Monday, and the ceremony was to have been performed at the home of the bride's parents, at the Delaplane Apartments but the young couple decided to do away with all fuss and festivities and so went quietly on Wednesday morning to the parsonage and were married. They had no attendants. Miss Turner wore a becoming gown of brown charmeuse, with a silk and milan straw hat to match. She carried a corsage of lillies-of-the-valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Conner left for an extended trip South, and on their return will make their home in Marshallton.

Miss Turner was formerly an employe of the Atlas Powder Company, where she has been employed for several years. Friday the employes gave her an old rose silk quilt for a parting gift, and a pair of cream and rose blankets to match.

Mr. Conner is from Chestertown, and is engaged in the lumber business.

KENT NEWS $1.50 PER YEAR.

The Kent County All Stars, of Galena basket ball team, played Cecilton team in the Community House Tuesday evening, and were defeated 24 to 11. Johnson, of Washington College, and the Woodall brothers of Mt. St. Mary's and Beacoms, are three of the Galena quintet.

* * *

The Chester Lodge of Masons recognizing the fact that all the churches of the town hold services on Wednesday evening have passed a resolution changing their meeting night from Wednesday to Thursday. The order will take effect as soon as consent of Grand Lodge is obtained. This is a commendable act on the part of this fine body of men.

* * *

The Board of Education for Kent County offered three school house sites at public sale Tuesday. The Still Pond site was sold to Mrs. Angeline Rasin for $260. The ones at Galena and Edesville were held up and may be purchased at private sale from either S. S. Beck, attorney, or the School Board, Harry Davis, president.

* * *

George Squires, of near Chestertown, sold 145 muskrat hides Saturday in town for $1.50 each.

* * *

Something new in parties was given last Saturday afternoon in Chestertown when Miss Susie Roberts invited a number of her lady friends to a Charles Dickens Character Party. All the guests were dressed to represent some character in one of Dickens' novels. It was a very successful affair.

Local Order Celebrates

The Chestertown Junior Order United American Mechanics celebrated Lincoln's Birthday most appropriately Wednesday evening. A good crowd was present. The following program was rendered:

First song, "America," by Council.
Address, "Liberty," by R.F.Elburn.
Quartet, "Columbia, Gem of the Ocean," by J. H. Hirons, W. M. Fowler, J. C. Davis and W. C. Benjamin.
Address, "Lincoln's Place In Our History," by Polk T. Bramble.
Quartet, "Battle Hymn of Republic," by the Council.
Closing Remarks, R. E. Collins.
Song, "Home, Sweet Home," by the Council.

Growth of Human Body

Different parts of the body grow at different rates. The legs double in length by the end of the third year and triple by the end of the twelfth. When growth ceases they are five times as long as at birth. Before the age of ten the foot is shorter than the length of the head, at ten they are equal; after ten the foot is longer than the head.

Spirit Always Needed

Young men are apt to think themselves wise enough, as drunken men are to think themselves sober enough. They look upon spirit to be a much better thing than experience, which they call coldness. They are but half mistaken; for though spirit without experience is dangerous, experience without spirit is languid and ineffective.—Chesterfield.

When to Retire

"A man should not retire until he is more than a hundred or is incapable mentally or physically of doing his job," says Dr. E. J. Skade-King, almost a hundred, who has refused to resign as medical officer of health of Ilfracombe, Devon. "I am hale and hearty and do my work every day," he told civic authorities. "Age is largely a mental state, and my mental state is fine."

Mythological

Cytherea is another name for Venus, so called from Cythera, a mountainous island of Laconia, noted for the worship of Aphrodite (Venus). The tale is that Venus and Mars, having formed an illicit affection for each other, were caught in a delicate net made by Vulcan, and exposed to the ridicule of the court of Olympus.

Must Be Right Spirit

Beware what spirit rages in your breast; for one inspired, ten thousand are possessed.—Roscommon.

Now I Have a "Buckeye"

Say! If I told you the eggs I've lost and the trouble I've had trying to make a makeshift incubator do the work of a "Buckeye" you'd hardly believe the story.

No more experimenting for me! In future I'll have nothing if I can't have a

DAIRY FACTS

HOW TO BUILD MILK WELL REFRIGERATOR

While time is slack on the farm, dig a pit for a refrigerator in the springy spot where water has never yet failed. Scoop it out as deep as your conscience will allow, stone or cement it up, leaving steps if possible whereby one may descend to a reasonable depth if water is low. In any case, when the well is completed, manufacture a ladder as long as the water in the well is deep, and attach to this a rope by which it may be lowered. It sometimes comes in handy unexpectedly.

Next in importance is the curb built over it, with a door with a lock to it. Besides this door have a trapcover, also with lock, to fit over the well inside the curb. These locks are a double precaution to keep out children and thieves.

Inside the curb arrange a pulley, by which the waiter may be lowered and withdrawn. Let the waiter be a set of square shelves, somewhat smaller than the well's diameter, held in conjunction by slats attached to the four corners, but all four sides of the shelves left open to the cool influence of the underground refrigerator, or enclosed to prevent articles from being tipped off the shelves into the water, by wire netting.

This well is not used to draw water from, and if articles in the waiter are in water-tight receptacles, like glass jars or butter crocks, they may be lowered even under water. A leg of mutton, a fowl, or a beef shank, does better, and keeps better, if hung in the air, rather than laid upon a shelf, so a separate rope may be kept for such articles, which may be lowered separately until almost touching the water. Many farms have already such a spring or well, needing only a little work to be fitted with apparatus for a refrigerator welcome to next summer's housewife. This is a job for fall, while the woodwork may be attended to in the workshop this winter.

A can of milk, a bottle of cream, may be lowered under water and kept sweet when everything above ground sours and the ice is short.

Amount of Concentrates to Feed Producing Cows

A common rule for feeding grain or concentrate mixtures is to give the cows producing a milk relatively rich in butterfat, one pound of the feed for every three pounds of milk produced. To cows producing milk testing low in butterfat, the ratio should be one pound of the grain for every four pounds of milk produced. Where one knows the approximate amount of butterfat produced by a cow each week, it is safer to feed as many pounds of grain daily as the cow produces pounds of butterfat during the week.

A few exceptions should be observed to the above rules. Just before freshening, grain should be fed sparingly for a few days. Also, when the cows have reached a full flow of milk and fail to respond to additional feed, it is wise to reduce the amount to the point where the production of milk can be maintained.

Low Temperature Makes Any Cream Whip Easier

Low temperatures and a high percentage of fat are the chief factors which contribute to the successful whipping of cream, say New York experiment station dairy specialists. Holding cream at low temperatures for several hours will improve the whipping quality of the product, even if the cream is not particularly rich in fat.

Cream containing 30 per cent fat and cooled to 40 or 50 degrees and held for 24 hours is in prime condition for whipping, it is said. Thinner cream will whip well if held at a low temperature sufficiently long. Pasteurization seems to reduce the whipping quality of cream, but cooling and aging will overcome this effect to a large extent.

Dairying Hints

Calves need regular feeding if they are to make regular gains.

* * *

Keep the young calves in a well-lighted, clean stall continuously until at least one month old.

* * *

Test your milk cows. You may be feeding some fine-looking cows that are not making good at the pail.

* * *

It is unlawful to add water to milk after the milk is in the can, but there is no law against supplying clean fresh water to a cow and so increase the quantity of milk she produces.

* * *

Clean utensils are essential. Never use rusty pails and scald the utensils after each milking.

* * *

Many good milk cows spend the night shivering in the cold after giving a bountiful supply of nice warm milk for the family table.

* * *

The average dairy cow of the United States produces 3,412 pounds of milk every year. In Holland the average cow gives 7,585 pounds. In Switzerland she brings 6,950. And in Denmark the yield is 5,666 pounds.

Visibility of Heat

Heat cannot be seen, heat waves being as invisible as those of sound and electricity, which in some respects they resemble. However, the disturbance of light waves passing through the heat waves can often be seen, and this is quite commonly though wrongly taken to be a visual display of heat.
