WHY RISK PNEUMONIA?

Day after day you read about quick deaths from pneumonia of men, women and children who let "Nature take its course" when a cough or croup gets in.

A cough, say doctors, is an inflammation of the throat, and when neglected spreads to the lungs. A cough is the danger sign of disease germs that are starting to do their "dirty work." If you let them alone —neglect them—you may get bronchitis, pleurisy, flu—even T. B.

Only a quick action cough treatment such as Goff's, is worth entrusting with the task of removing the cause of that cough. Every minute you lose means more irritation, more germs, and makes it harder to stop them.

You can absolutely rely on Goff's Quick-Action Cough Syrup. It is an old family standby, passed down from generation to generation. Contains no choloroform. No dope. That's why it's perfectly safe for children, too, in treating croup, whooping cough, colds. "I recommend it to any mother," says Mrs. Eugene Mason, of New Castle, Del.

Send for free booklet, "The Magic Kettle," or "How to Prevent Bronchitis and Pneumonia."

ORCHARD PRUNING DEMONSTRATIONS

Orchardmen of Kent County will be given an opportunity this week to attend Pruning Demonstrations in three sections of the county. The following orchards have been selected for these pruning demonstrations as centrally located in the fruit sections, and meetings will be held as follows:

Friday, February 27th, at 1.30 p. m., in orchard of Adam Schauber, Worton.

Saturday, February 28th, at 9 a. m. in orchard of Harry Willis, Betterton, And at 1.30 p. m. in the home orchard of William Walter Morris, near Fairlee.

If you have a commercial orchard, home orchard, or even a few trees that need pruning, you can get expert advice by attending these demonstrations. These meetings are being held by County Agent H. B. Derrick, who will have the Extension Specialist in Horticulture, Mr. Vierheller, give the demonstrations, assisted by the County Agent. These demonstrations will constitute practically all of the time which the County Agent will be able to devote to orchard pruning work this year.
