MILLINGTON FIRE COMPANY PLANS TO BUILD HOME

Although citizens of Millington voted last year to double their tax rate to obtain a handsome and commodious new home for the Community Fire Company, members of this organization have reached an agreement to erect the structure without taking advantage of the authorized increase in taxes. Work on the new building will be commenced shortly after Mar. 15, and it is planned to liquidate the cost by a series of entertainments and fetes under the auspices of the company.

The new building will be constructed on the site purchased by the Town Commissioners from the heirs of Charles M. Hurtt. It will be about 45 by 40 feet, with brick front and glazed side and back walls. The first floor will be divided into two rooms—one for the Fire Company headquarters and the other for a store. On the second floor will be one large room which will be utilized as a public hall.

G. W. Duling, Millington contractor, has prepared plans for the building which have been approved by the directors of the company. It is estimated that the structure will cost in the neighborhood of $5,500.

The Community Fire Company has established a new record for volunteer organizations in Maryland, by its efficient and energetic campaigns to improve the facilities for combating fire in Millington. During the last eighteen months the organization has bought and paid for equipment worth approximately $10,000. This includes a specially constructed fire engine which cost about $8,000.

During the time the company has been organized it has rendered valuable service not only in Millington and the immediate vicinity, but in nearby towns of Sudlersville, Crumpton, Galena, Massey and Georgetown. It is expected that these communities will co-operate willingly in the plan to provide suitable quarters for the company.

The will of the late James E. Ellegood who was instantly killed at a grade crossing in Delmar, Del., on January 25th names his daughter, Maria Louise Ellegood, as principal heir.

The will bequeaths to Miss Ellegood, the house and lot located at the corner of Division and Walnut Sts., Salisbury, Md., and all furniture and household effects therein because "she has devoted her whole life in looking after my comfort with the most unremitting self sacrifice."

This remainder of the estate is to be divided in four equal shares, a fourth to go to each of the three children—Miss Maria Ellegood, Mrs. H. B. Freeny and Mrs. Harry Mayer, of Dover. The other share is to be divided equally among four grandchildren.

Edwin Daugherty, of near Havre de Grace, was bitten by a dog owned by Leslie F. Duyer, on Sunday and the dog was promptly killed by Mr. Duyer. The animal ran from the house and Mr. Duyer finally came up with him on Washington street several blocks from his home. He used a single barrel shot gun and fired two shots into the animal. The dog continued to run and desiring to put the canine out of its misery, Mr. Duyer was forced to finally finish him with the butt of his gun. He regrets the apparent brutal way he had to kill the dog, but it was the only way left, in that he had fired both shells. The head was forwarded to the State Department of Health for examination, and it was found the dog was suffering from rabbies. Mr. Daugherty is taking the Pasteur treatment. Mr. Duyer is a former resident of Chestertown.

THE MAKING OF A DAIRY COW

[Because the replacing of scrub cows by superior ones is a matter of such vital interest to the dairymen of Harford the editors of the Belair Aegis have solicited the following article from P. H. McCormick who for many years owned one of the finest herds of purebred Guernseys in the East, was a judge at the St. Louis World's Fair, and is recognized by all as one of the most expert cow judges in this section. That good cows will bring a price is a matter of personal knowledge to the editors who within the past two weeks, when cows are selling very low, have seen two bring $135 each—and both were home grown, with second calves. This sort makes the seller and buyer money while the scrub is a guaranteed loss. Eds.]

Bel Air, Md., Feb. 9, 1925.

Editor of The Aegis:

I am asked nearly every day the question, "Where can I get a good cow, or cows?" First of all study the type of a dairy cow, and the same type will prevail in all breeds of dairy animals. Good cows make money for the dairyman and poor ones are losing money for him every hour of the day and night.

Extra good cows are very seldom offered for sale. When they are they bring a good price. It is hard to estimate what is a large price on a good cow. When she will make as much profit as three or four scrub she should be worth two or three times as much as the others.

There certainly are a great many poor cows in the state, and it is up to dairymen and breeders to produce better cows—it can be done by using good judgment and studying your own dairy herd.

First of all use good sires of a dairy breed. I don't mean to use grade sires for they will get you into trouble if you do so. Second, be very careful in selecting your dams to breed to, always keeping in mind the dairy type. Then the dam must be well fed to produce a good dairy calf. Raise your heifer calves and you will soon having a paying herd in the dairy.

I would rather raise one calf from a dam I knew all about than two or three that I knew nothing about. The calf must be kept growing from the day it is born until it is fully grown, using bone and muscle feed and plenty of it. The first year is the most important—more so than the second. But no amount of feed and care can make a good cow out of a scrub calf. If you have a good herd the feeding is nearly half the battle for you can hadly feed two cows alike. Breed them carefully, push your calves hard, feed your cows more carefully and the bank balance will show big results over a period of years.

Sick Leave For Rural Carriers

H. H. Billany, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, in charge of the rural carrier service of the country, has issued instructions regarding applications for sick leave by rural carriers. Mr. Billany called attention of carriers to the fact that a physician's certificate is not necessary if sick leave of two days or less is applied for, but in all cases where leave of more than two days is requested a physicians' certificate must accompany the application. The applications of carriers including the physicians' certificate and the certificate of the postmaster at the office where the carrier is employed are to be sent by the postmaster to the disbursing office of the State.

A YOUNG couple were preparing for the thrill of their first experience at having house guests.

A middle-aged couple had a boy about to come home with a classmate for a holiday during his first year at college.

An elderly couple were making ready with great glee for the visit of their married daughter with the first grandchild.

Strangely enough, they all had need of the same article—a Davenport Bed—and they all came to us because they know that we are prepared not only with the article they want, but with the kind of service that lends added cheerfulness to the occasion.

Indeed, there is much more to the conduct of a good furniture store than the mere selling of furniture. There is the joy of being genuinely helpful in making the home all that it should be.
