A Merry Christmas and A Happy New Year

There has just been placed on the shelves of the Washington College Library the complete edition of the newly published Diaries of George Washington, much mooted among literary and historical critics of the country. The edition appears in four large volumes, published by Houton, Mifflin Company and edited by John C. Fitzpatric of the Manuscript Division of the Library of Congress.

This edition of the Diaries is the first complete issue of Washington's diaries, from the earliest known to the one containing the last words he wrote. A few of the diaries have been previously published, but all of these taken together amount to hardly more than one-sixth of those existing.

The entries, which extend with few interruptions from 1748 to 1799, vary in length but are always interesting. The picture of social life in Virginia; of the gaity of the legislative session at old Williamsburg; of fox-hunting and horse-racing and the daily life at Mount Vernon, the most famous of all mansions in America, is extraordinaryily vivid.

Ralph Bingham, widely known as a humorist, entertainer and after-dinner speaker, died suddenly Monday, night at his home in Philadelphia. He was born in Richmond, Va., fifty-six years ago. For years he appeared on Keith's vaudeville circuit and lectured on Chautauqua platforms.

—HEAT—

These wintry days bring vividly before us the problem of heating.

We have been studying the modern methods of heating to some degree, particularly for those homes that do not have basements as well as for those who desire an inexpensive system of heating. We offer you two very successful and efficient Heaters. The first of these is

Allen's Parlor Furnace

Finished in Dark Gray or Walnut Enamel, it is a very attractive piece of furniture as well as a very successful heater. Nothing to do but connect the smoke pipe to your chimney and make a fire.

The Dark Grey Enamel at $115.00
The Walnut Finish at $125.00

The second is the

Antonia Parlor Furnace

This is finished in Grey or Walnut is a size smaller than the Allen.

The Grey Enamel is $75.00
The Walnut is $85.00

These furnaces heat from 4 to 8 rooms. We have satisfied customers to whom we can refer you. Come and see them.

Make the New Year Happy and Prosperous

The Happiness and Prosperity of 1926 is up to you as an individual. What are you going to do about it?

Get on the job and make your churches better places to worship in; make your schools better places in which to educate your children in; make your stores better places to buy in; make your homes better places to live in. All these things mean civic and social prosperity.

"The store with a conscience" pledges the support of its six departments to this program. We are going to make 1926 the biggest and best year in our history.

Let us all pull together for 1926.
