A Camel Can—But a Dairy Cow Can't

At this season of the year, in many sections of the country, from 20 to 30 acres of pasture are required to support one cow. That's how much nourishment there is in August grass as a rule. Don't try to make camels out of your cows—don't force them to graze on a "desert" of dried-up pasture. Feed a regular ration of Larro, and you'll be storing up milk profits for fall and winter, when prices are highest.
