CHESTER TOWN, Md.

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 19, 1856.

AMERICAN NOMINATIONS.

MILLARD FILLMORE,

OF NEW YORK.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

Andrew Jackson Donelson,

OF TENNESSEE.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS.

Eastern Shore.—Col. JAMES WALLACE, Of Dorchester County

Western Shore.—Hon. J DIXON ROMAN, of Washington County.

1st. Cong. Dist.—Dr. R. GOLDSBOROUGH, of Queen Ann's County.

2nd. Cong. Dist.—EDWIN H. WEBSTER of Harford County,

3rd Cong. Dist.—CORNELIUS L. L. LEARY, of Baltimore City.

4th Cong. Dist.—THOMAS SWANN, Of Baltimore city.

5th Cong. Dist.—FRED'K A. SCHLEY, of Frederick County.

6th Cong. Dist.—Hon. AUG. R. SOLLERS, of Calvert County.

☞Advertisements omitted to-day will appear next week.

Our Paper.—We are compelled to present our readers to-day with only a half sheet, having been disappointed in receiving a supply of paper—this we truly regret and hope it may never again occur.

The Weather the last few days has been very oppressive—yesterday afternoon the thermometer was up to 98° Fahrenheit. It continues very dry and the corn crop is in a critical condition.

Excursion.—The excursion of the M. P. Sabbath School, on the beautiful little steamer Arrow, came off last Thursday afternoon. The boat left the wharf about four o'clock and returned about half post nine Every thing passed off very pleasantly and all were delighted with the trip.

Decision in the Case of Dowling.—The Court of Appeals at Annapolis, on the 17th inst, delivered their decision in the case of Edward Dowling, being an appeal from the Superior Court, on orders, one removing Edward Dowling from the clerkship of that court, and the other appointing John Spear Smith, in his place. The decision of the Court reverses the order of the Superior Court and reinstates Edward Dowling in the clerkship. Each of the four judges announced, in their own language the views they held.

VIrginia Old Line Whigs.

The Old Line Whig State convention met at Richmond on the 16th inst. Resolutions were unanimously adopted setting forth the condition of the country, and calling upon the Whig party to exert its power for its safety.

The resolutions approve of the compromises of 1850, and resist the repeal or modification of the Kansas and Nebraska act. They consider Millard Fillmore to be the most suitable person for the Presidency, and recommend him to the nation but disclaim all intention of adopting the principles of the American party. They call upon their Whig brethren to support him, and propose that a national convention of Whigs to be held in Baltimore on the third Wednesday in September, and invite all the States to participate in it.

They assert that the Democratic party has forfeited the confidence of conservative men, because by its administration it has violated its pledges and committed flagrant abuses, and blundered in its foreign policy; and no Whig can consistently support Mr. Buchanan, urging in addition to other objections, that he sustained squat er sovereignty, and the absolute power of Congress in the Territories, and is responsible for the policy of the Ostend manifesto.

The resolution also authorise the President of the Convention to appoint a Central Committee of thirteen to promote the organization of the party in the State.

[Communication.]

Mr. Editor:—Permit me through your columns to call attention to the inaccuracy of the quotations of the Baltimore grain market, which appeared in your paper of last week. Your quotations, extracted from the "Baltimore Sun" represent the prices of wheat to have been July 10th, as follows:

White Wheat $1.65 a 1.70,
Red " 1.40 a 1.45,

or about twelve cents in bushel less than the market value. By referring to the "Baltimore American," a copy of which I herewith send you, you will see that the prices of that day, are quoted as follows:

White Wheat $1.65 a 1.82,
Red do 1.50 a 1.55,

are strictly correct and reliable. I deem it no more than just to the Baltimore market that this correction should be made; as such errors as the foregoing tend to mislead the uninformed, and induce them to ship their grain to other and more distant markets; thereby incurring additional expense without a corresponding superiority in prices.

With respect, yours,
E. B. Harris.

Note.—Mr. Harris will oblige us and our readers very much, if he will furnish the price current weekly for our paper—as the quotations in the city papers are not always to be relied upon.—Ed. News.

Mr. Buchanan's Proposal of Bargain to Mr. Clay in behalf of Gen. Jackson—A Singular Development of History.

Having observed in the Louisville Journal a statement that a certain passage in Colton's Life and Times of Henry Clay, asserting Mr. Buchanans proposal of a bargain to Mr. Clay in behalf of Gen. Jackson, having for its object the influence and vote of Mr. Clay and his friends, to make Gen. Jackson President in 1825, was from the hand of Mr. Clay himself, we have thought proper to address Mr. Clay's biographer, to ascertain whether this statement of the Louisville Journal be true, and have received the following answer:

To the Editor of the New York Daily Times:

In answer to your inquiry, I would state that the two paragraphs printed in italics, on p. 418, vol. 1, of my "Life and Times of Henry Clay," were furnished me by Mr. Clay himself, and that I still hold the original document, in his own hand-writing. I caused it to be printed in italics to mark its peculiar character and special importance; but did not state that I had it from Mr. Clay's own hand, as he did not signify that to be his wish—he being actuated, I suppose, by the same generous forbearance towards Mr. Buchanan which had induced him for so many years, at Mr. Buchanan's earnest entreaties, not to publish this conversation, although such a publication would obviously have contributed to his (Mr. Clay's) vindication before the public against the charge of bargain brought by General Jackson, and show that the proposal of bargain came, if not from the General himself, certainly from one of his friends acting in his behalf.

As the editor of the Louisville Journal seems to have been advised of the fact, though nat through me, that this document was furnished by Mr. Clay, and as I have been appealed to by you for the truth of the statement, I could do no less than to say the fact is so.

It may also be proper for me to say that Mr. Clay appended a note to the same document, advising me to apply to Gov. Letcher for further information on the same subject I accordingly addressed Gov. Letcher, and found his lips sealed by a pledge of silence given to Mr Buchanan. Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,
C. Colton.

Horrible Railroad Accident.

Fearful Loss of Life!

Philadelphia, July 17.—A serious accident is reported as having occurred on the North Pennsylvania Railroad this morning to an excursion train containing the Sunday School of St. Michaels church. The report is that the locomotive exploded and set fire to the cars. Several lives were lost. The accident occurred near Fort Washington.

[second despatch.]

Philadelphia, July 17—11, A. M.—The accident was a collision. It occurred about 7 o'clock, between the down train and the excursion train. Horrible rumors have reached the city—some making the number of killed from fifty to sixty, others say two hundred lives have been lost!

No train has yet arrived down.

A locomotive with cars and a number of surgeons have been despatched to the scene.

A despatch from Germantown says a number of wounded have been brought there in private conveyances.

A special reporter has been despatched to obtain particulars.

[third despatch.]

Philadelphia, July 17.—2½ o'clock.—The latest accounts from the scene of the disaster report thirty-five killed and one hundred badly wounded.

There were eight hundred persons on the train.

Six cars were entirely demolished.

Among the killed is Father Sheridan, the priest of St. Michael's Church.

[fourth despatch.]

The excursion train contained eleven hundred children, parents and teachers. The trains came in collision at a curve near Fort Washington with the down train, the latter was going very slowly. The excursion train was going very rapidly, endeavoring to reach the stopping place.

Both the locomotives were crushed, and three cars of the excursion train, together with those that were consumed by fire.—A number were crushed beneath the ruins so that extrication was impossible. The scene was most heart rending.

The names of the killed are as follows: Rev. Daniel Sheriden, Hugh Campbel, Mary Kelly, J. McIntire, John Dogan, E. Hall, John Rivers, James Hickey, William Barnard, Henry Harris, Mary McLain, C. McBurk, Ellen Clark, Sarah McGrugan, Catherine McGrugan, Kate McGirr, John Brady, Margaret Meaney, John McGuire, James Carney, and Henry Harrison, the engineer of the upper train.

In addition to the above, seventeen bodies were counted beneath the ruins of the cars, mostly consumed. Eleven men and women, and two children were consumed in one car. The total killed is 39 and the number wounded 69.

LATER.

The scene of the disaster is fourteen miles from the city, in the neighborhood of two curves, so that approaching trains cannot be seen five hundred yards distant. The track is also single. When the locomotives came together they rose on end the fise boxes of each nearly touching, and fell over across the road.

The fire being scattered about the wreck the first excursion car soon caught fire, and the flames rapidly communicated to the two others piled up upon it. The most extraordinary efforts were made to extricate the unfortunate mutilated beings who were crushed amid the wreck, rending the air with their dying groans.—Many of these poor mutilated beings were still alive when the flames reached them, and thus suffered as it were a double death. Their groans and shrieks for aid were awful and heartrending, altogether beyond the power of language to describe.

Two fire engines from Chesnut Hill came to the spot, and forced water through hose to the wreck from a neighboring stream. After working for several hours the fire was extinguished, and the human remains were removed. Nineteen burned bodies were removed to the blacksmith shop—three supposed to be females.—Under another shed were placed eight other bodies so charred by the flames as to defy recognition.

An immense crowd was attracted to the spot from the surrounding section of the country. Many friends of the excursionists walked from the city and others proceeded thither in every description of vehicle, which were made use of in conveying the maimed and dead to the city.

THE LATEST.

Philadelphia, 10, P. M.—All the remains of the victims have been gathered up and brought to the city. Twenty-six bodies have not been recognised. They are mostly burned so bad as to defy recognition.

☞The New Orleans Delta, the organ of the Louisiaha Democracy, has repudiated Buchanan, and comes out in favor of Fillmore and Donelson.
