CHURCH NEWS

Sunday was a glorious Easter Day in Kent county. Special services were held in most churches and the attention of the people was drawn toward this great event in the history of the religious world.

In Chestertown the services were of an impressive character, while the surroundings were made beautiful with floral decorations. At Sacred Heart Church a large audience joined in the worship which was in charge of Father Earner.

The annual Easter offering at Emmanuel P. E. Church amounted to several hundred dollars, while the annual offering of the Sunday school was $558. At the Methodist Episcopal Church, following a strong sermon by the pastor, Rev. Wilbur F. Corkran, 35 persons were received into full membership and there was an interesting service in the Sunday school. At Christ M. P. Church Rev. N. O. Gibson, the pastor, delivered an Easter message, and the choir of the church rendered fine music. Two persons united with the church.

For 68 years the Rev. Webster M. Strayer, of Oxford, has answered "present" when his name was called at the annual conferences of the Maryland Conference of the M. P. Church, and this year he attended the sessions just concluded at Starr Church in Baltimore. Last year he could not attend due to illness and it was the first break in the long span of years since 1858 when he was not at Conference.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Middletown District will hold its semi-annual meeting at Greensboro, Md., April 28th. The morning session opens at 10.30 and the afternoon session opens at 1.30. Mrs. Clark Klung, who was a missionary in China for ten years, will speak at the afternoon session on "The Present Crisis in China." The Greensboro auxiliary will put on a pageant at the afternoon session.

BIG FISH CAUGHT

A 150 pound sturgeon was caught this week by Myer Bros. at Betterton. The big fellow was sent by truck to the Philadelphia market where it is said the meat brought 40 cents a pound. The roe also brought a good price.

PAGAN CUSTOM OF RITE OF EXPIATION

Feast of Purification in Ancient Rome.

In the calendar of ancient Rome February 15 stood for the feast of purification, when worshipers of the pagan gods indulged in rites and ceremonies of expiation. The pagan observance, although brief in duration, was in some of its aspects similar in purpose to the modern Christian Lenten season.

The Roman Februa was the most remarkable of the feasts of the ancient Romans. The love of the present-day Italian for frequent religious observations, saints' days and festivals may be a heritage from those distant ancestors who worshiped the innumerable deities of their polytheistic faith. These rites and feasts were, says Gibbon, the Detroit News recalls, "closely interwoven with every circumstance of business and pleasure, of public or of private life, and it seemed impossible to escape the observance of them without at the same time renouncing the commerce of mankind and all the offices of amusement and society."

To avoid participation in these various festivities, without thereby incurring popular or official displeasure and its accompanying punishment, was one of the chief concerns of the early Christians of Rome. There came a time, however, when the shoe was on the other foot, and the triumphant Christians attached severe penalties to the observance of the old feasts. The festival of purification became the Christian Lenten season, the spring celebration of the pagans became the Easter of the Christians, and the December Saturnalia was superseded by Christmas.

Combines Fan and Fountain

One of the most remarkable palm trees in the world is to be found in West Africa. Its branches grow in the shape of a fan, and always east to west, and are filled with a cool, pleasant-tasting liquid, which often saves the lives of travelers whose water supply has run short.—Los Angeles Times.
