REV. SLATER CLAY BLACKISTON

Rev. Slater Clay Blackiston, rector emeritus of St. John's Episcopal Church, Butte, Montana, died at the Good Samaritan Hospital, Portland, Oregon, on March 21st. The late Rev. Mr. Blackiston was born at "Sunny Side" near Massey's, Kent County, Md., on January 3, 1846. His parents Hepburn Blackiston. He was graduated from Washington College, Chestertown, Md.; attended Washotah Seminary, Wisconsin, and was ordained deacon in 1872 and priest in 1873 by Bishop Robertson. His life work was done in Butte, Mont., where he labored for thirty years as rector of St. John's Church. He retired as rector in 1913, went to Spokane, Washington, in 1916, to Portland, Oregon, in 1919. He married Miss Margaret Monroe. He is survived by his widow and three daughters. He was the uncle of Mrs. Edward M. Vaughn and Mrs. Elias M. Shallcross, of Middletown.

While Guy Lockerman, a farmer of the First Election district, Cecil County, Md., was burning brush along a stretch of his wood land on the Warwick-Sassafras road, the fire got beyond his control and rapidly spread through Joseph Wooleyhan's woods adjoining. It became necessary to call the Middletown Fire Company, to assist in fighting the fire.

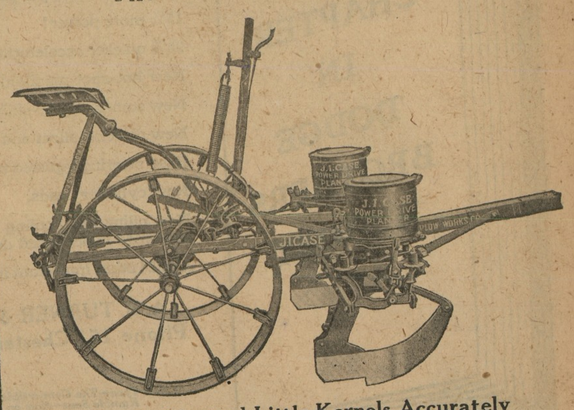
J. I. Case Power Drive Corn Planter

The Worlds Most Accurate



Plants Big and Little Kernels Accurately

The best way to make more money from your corn crops is to get more bushels per acre. Planting accurately will do this.

The J. I. Case Power Drive Corn Planter will plant on an average of 7 more perfectly planted kernels out of every 100. Brings 7 more bushels per acre, or at present prices $222 more profit from every 40 acres planted.

Agricultural experts tell you to Plant Accurately. But accuracy can only be successfully secured through the use of a number of features combined, so that the entire mechanism work in harmony. The seed corn must lie flat. Big kernels must be permitted to pass without cracking, two kernels must not past through same cell, seed plate must move at proper speed and the materials and workmanship must be a standard which guaranteed years of service.

Repairs for J. I. Case Corn Planter and Plows may be obtained here.

Make it your business when in town to call around and look the Case Corn Planter over.
