The Maryland Farmer

In this issue of Kent News The Maryland Farmer announces subscription campaign in which is offered $3,000 in prizes, the first prize being a Willys-Knight Sedan and the second a Chevrolet Coach.

The Maryland Farmer is the only farm publication in the State of Maryland and probably will experience a great increase in circulation as a result of this effort. It is one of the oldest farm publications in the United States having been first published as the American Farmer and later (just after the Civil War) changed to The Maryland Farmer. It is the official publication of the Maryland State Dairymen's Association and the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers' Association and therefore carries many articles of paramount importance and interest to dairymen whether they be members of the association or not.

Every person connected with the new management of The Maryland Farmer was born and raised on a Maryland Farm and this new management is thoroughly convinced that Maryland is one of the most progressive States in the Union and is consequently a wonderful State in which we live.
