Inequality in Strides

The reason lost persons always walk in a circle is because one takes unequal steps. One stride will be longer than the other, and will cause a person to walk in a circle unless he has landmarks to guide him.

Rope No Protection

Superstitious folks claim that a snake won't crawl over a rope, and that if you surround your camp with a rope you can go to sleep without a thought of these invaders. A snake will crawl over a rope just as readily as it will surmount a tree branch lying in its path.

First Plague in 769 B. C.

The first recorded plague general in all parts of the world occurred in 769 B. C.
