Kent News

SATURDAY, JULY 14, 1928

The Democratic ticket is sure of at least two votes in Kent. They are their namesakes, Smith and Robinson, of Still Pond.

The association opposed to the 18th Amendment are divided politically and will vote their preferences without regard to whether the candidate is wet or dry.

THE SMITH CAMPAIGN

A brand new Democratic party, shorn of the last vestige of the old Bryan fringe, made its bow to the country Thursday.

In the driver's seat is Governor Alfred E. Smith, the 1928 nominee and beside him sits as National Chairman, John J. Rascob, who has been not inaptly called "a second Judge Gary" as a spokesman for so-called big business.

It is a wholly new Democratic party at the top—friendly instead of hostile to big business and sympathetic with the plight of agriculture.

John J. Raskob has shown by his acts, by the confidence the business world has in him, and by the achievements of the corporation he helps to direct—among the greatest and most successful in the world—that he is a man of excellent business judgment.

Now, then, let the Band continue to play. This is going to be a campaign different from any ever seen in this country. It is going to be a new model, 1928.

Mr. Raskob's business sagacity, his conception of the right and wrong of trade, and his adherence to the former, together with his consideration for and fairness toward competitors, have long since given him a high place in commerce and industry.

The Board of Visitors and Governors of Washington College is completing plans for the erection of new bleachers on the athletic field which will be finished before the opening of the annual football season. The bleachers will cost $3,500, the funds having been contributed by the students, alumni, and board. The board has also appropriated $300 for the improvement of the tennis courts, and will further develop a golf course begun on the campus before the close of the last term for the exclusive use of the students and members of the faculty.

KENNEDYVILLE

The Mite Society of Grace Presbyterian Church will be entertained by Mrs. Shallcross Wednesday evening, July 18. Members and friends invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jarvis and daughter, Isabel, Mr. and Mrs. Herr were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hill.

Miss Elianor Cannassa, of Philadelphia, is visiting her sister, Mrs. John Hessner.

Mrs. James Robinson and Anna Oliff are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Smyth in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Thomas Jones is visiting her sister, Mrs. Thomas VanDyke and friends here.

Mrs. Rachel Hill is visiting her friend, Mrs. Lena Burnham in Townsend, Del.

Miss Hessner, of Philadelphia, visited relatives here on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rollison spent Saturday with relatives in New Jersey.

Mrs. Sallie Taylor, of Orange, N. J., is spending sometime with her brother, Mr. Henry Rutter, near town.

GOV. SMITH IN QUEEN ANNE'S

Captain Harry C. Butler, head of the Maryland State police force in an automobile, followed by Lientenant Raughley of the same organization and eight other Maryland State motor police, led the Smith party to Pioneer Point Farms. The country home of the Raskobs is located about four miles from Centreville at a point where the Chester and Corsica rivers meet.

After being at the Raskob home for a short time, Governor Smith and his friends accompanied the funeral party to the Centreville church where the services were held.

Before Smith left Centreville, there was a small impromptu reception as he boarded his car.

Mrs. James Thawley who used to live at 53 Cathedral street, New York reminisced with the governor who at one time lived in the 100 block on Catherine street, Newark. She recalled that she used to go to dances nearby. The governor told her there was a new pastor in St. Andrews Church; recalled that they both formerly went to St. James Church; recalled Cherry street where his wife was born; and Dover and Water streets where his mother was born.

Frank V. Simpers, Belt Townsend, Josiah Massey, Jos. Lambert and others from Kent talked with Gov. Smith on this visit and were impressed with his general appearance and conduct.

REPUBLICAN PRAISES FARM PLANK OF DEMOCRATS

The Chicago Daily Journal has printed a telegram from Adam A. McMullen, Republican Governor of Nebraska, and leader of the Lowden agricultural group at the Republican National Convention, replying to a request from the newspaper for his opinion of the agricultural plank in the Democratic platform adopted at the Houston Convention. Governor McMullen's reply follows:

"Answering your wire, the agricultural plank in the Democratic platform is satisfactory to the farm organizations because it embodies specifically the provisions of the McNary-Haugen bill, although it does not use the term equalization fee.

"It provides first for a Federal Farm Board as did the McNary-Haugen bill; second in the following language: 'Appropriate government aid to cooperative associations in the form of credit loans on a parity with the terms of loans authorized recently by the Government to aid shipping.

"Third in the following language. We pledge the party to an honest endeavor to solve this problem of the distribution of the cost of dealing with crop surplus over the marketed units of the crops whose producers are benefited by such assistance, it provides for the equalization fee provision of the McNary-Haugen bill.

"The equalization fee provision of that bill simply planned a method whereby the farmers could distribute any surpluses of crops produced at his own expense without Government subsidy or bonus.

"That is the heart of the legislation the farmers demand. It places the farming industry on a respectable business basis. This plank should have been incorporated in the Republican National platform as it would be in keeping with the fundamental doctrine of protection upon which the Republican Party is founded.

"The Democratic Party does not believe in the protective tariff and yet the agricultural plank of its platform extends the protective system to agriculture, no doubt on the theory that the protective system is a permanent economic institution."

A camp of Girl Scouts is now being held at Booker's Beach, under the supervision of Miss Sara Roe, of Sudlersville.

With the closing of the Talbot county almshouse, there still some seventy persons, white and colored, now being cared for in Eastern Shore almshouses. The proposed community home would easily take care of this number and allow room for the removal of others from the State Hospitals. It would not be surprising to see the next Legislature requested to make some provision for this type of consolidated almshouse for the Shore counties, although no decision by the counties' commissioners will be reached until the September meeting.
