SMITH'S RECORD AS GOVERNOR

(From The Wilm. Every Evening.)

The record of Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential nominee, as Governor of New York during the eight years of his administration, evidently has made a deep and lasting impression upon the people of that state. That record seems to be the impelling influence with many of the residents of New York in helping them to decide how they ought to vote at the coming presidential election Those who have taken the trouble to try to find out know what he has done as chief executive of the state. They know that in adminstering the affairs of that office he has had the welfare of the whole people in mind and has endeavored to accomplish the greatest good for the greatest number without re gard to station or party affiliations. They reason, therefore that if he has done these things as governor he would naturally have the same policy if called upon to administer the affairs of the national government. They know he has the confidence of the people of the state who have shown their unbounded faith in his integrity, his ability and his electing him to office, and at times in the face of a Republican majority.

It is not strange, threefore, to hear of desertions from Republican ranks in order to support Governor Smith for the presidency. One of the most recent announcements of this intention comes from Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey, of New York City, a daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, who in his day had a great desire to serve by repeatedly renational figure, being a railroad operator and financier on a large scale. Mrs. Rumsey, who has always heretofore voted the Republican ticket, has come out for the New York governor. One of her reasons for doing so emphasizes the thought expressed above.

"I am for Governor Smith," she says, "because as governor of the State of New York for eight years I know him to be a great executive and and a wise statesman; because he sees the problem of government in its entirety and exercises its powers in the interest of all, and not for the benefit of any group or section of the community.

"Because he sees the importance and value to the country of the human and cultural functions of government. His record of state aid to public health, education and recreation for all is proof enough of this.

"Because he believes in and has fostered local self-government, knowing that only by the disinterested activity of citizens i ntheir own local affairs can republican government operate successfully. This is proved by his program of state subsidy to rural counties for public health units and his interest in any form of volunteer activity, such as community councils and community centers. To quote the Democratic platform, he demands the revival of the spirit of local self-government, without which free institutions cannot be preserved.'

These reasons enumerated by Mrs. Rumsey are not based on propaganda or heresay. They are the result of her own observations, which, naturally are identical with the observations of hundreds of thousands of other persons most directly concerned, being residents of the Empire State. They had a reason for making these observations. As citizens of the greatest state in the Union, from the standpoint of population and business activity, it was only natural that they should interest themselves in the manner in which they were being governed, to learn "what sort of man this Smith is," who is being repeatedly re-elected to the highest office within the gift of the state, and whose election to that office affects the well-being of every resident. This is evidently the sort of study that was made by Mrs. Rumsey and many others. Therefore, what she has to say on the subject may be regarded as highly significant.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Adam C. Fowler, who departed this life three years ago today, August 17, 1925.

Oh, what a bitter parting 'tis,
What grief and pain to bear,
No hearts save those thus tried
Can know the anguish there;
But when life's troubled journey's past
What joy and bliss 'twill be
To clasp our darling to our hearts,
Then e'er from sorrow free.

It is thereupon, this 27th day of July A. D. 1928, by the Circuit Court for Kent County, Md., in Equity, ordered that the Plaintiffs by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Kent County, once in each of four successive weeks before the 27th day of August A. ...was Luke a busy man this hot August day?...

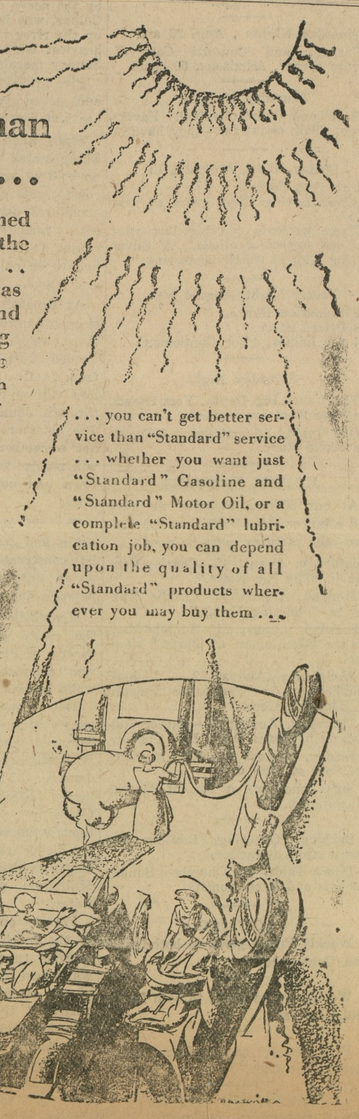
he was... what with a string of cars lined up at the pumps... a big Marmon on the grease rack and a Cadillac waiting... Luke was busy... even Mrs. Luke was doing her turn at the pump... and Marjorie, the youngest, was snapping pop bottle tops and playing Hallelujah on the cash register... and all of a sudden, in she rolls... the family bus... vintage of 1924... everyone present but the family cat... Mother herself at the wheel... radiator sizzling and steaming, and the motor going "clank—clank"... says she anxious-like to busy Luke... "please, could you drain my crankcase?... and my radiator needs a drink"... Luke smiled... he had to smile... "in a minute Rastus will have your car on the ramp and then we'll fix it up complete"... and fifteen minutes later, Mother, all smiles, was merrily on her way... clean oil... radiator filled... and fifteen gallons of G.O.S.* in the tanks... "that's service," says Luke, wiping his brow, to Mrs. Luke... "sure is," says Mrs. Luke... "but then, we're used to giving it"... and they were.

"STANDARD" GASOLINE

STANDARD

...we forgot to say that even before the "bus" rolled out, mother's youngest asked, "what's G.O.S. mean?"... and then and there the youngster learned a lifetime truth... that G.O.S. stands for "Good Old Standard".



...you can't get better service than "Standard" service... whether you want just "Standard" Gasoline and "Standard" Motor Oil, or a complete "Standard" lubrication job, you can depend upon the quality of all "Standard" products wherever you may buy them...
