THE STORM AT MILLINGTON

The neighborhood of Millington was hard hit on last Saturday and Sunday by the storm of unusual intensity. The rainfall was 9½ inches during the storm, 8 inches of which fell in 24 hours. Much damage was done to crops, roadways and private property. The tomato and corn crops were both badly damaged. The Electric Light and Power dam and race were both washed out and helped to increase the volume of water, which did considerable damage in South Millington. The stone road at this point was under 3 to 4 feet of water for a distance of 30 to 40 feet and only one or two houses but what had water on the lower floors. Nickerson and Galloway store and residence suffered the greatest damage on account of the rise of the water—their foundation was badly washed out. Many tourists and visitors were turned back on account of the flooded condition of the road. Some cars stood, drowned out, in the flood waters all night. Many bridges on lateral roads were washed away and one rural mail carrier did not get in until night on Monday on that account. The new concrete bridge on the Smyrna road just about completed, showed that it was by far too narrow to pass the water in a freshet and a fill of dirt for the new roadway was completely washed away. Mail and passenger service on the Queen Anne's and Kent branch of the railroad has been badly disrupted and is still not up to schedule at this writing. Here's hoping we may no have such a visitation again soon.

At Highland run the water was more than two feet over the State road. Joseph Jones' bungalow was surrounded by water. At Coleman's the outbuildings were standing in water. Mrs. Blackiston says that in thirty-two years she never saw a flood like that. Below the culvert Harry Price's mill had four feet of water in the basement. He lost some wheat and about thirty-five ducks. On the Haven Mrs. Mary Hubbard lost about a hundred chickens many of which were fine broilers. Other people lost a few.

William, fifteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McClary while riding a horse on the track at Tolchester Thursday was thrown when the horse slipped and his leg broken below the knee by striking a post. The horse also broke a leg. William was later taken to Easton for X-ray and aid.

George P. Orr met with quite an accident Monday while fishing. Attempting to step from one boat into another the first slid from under him and he fell, striking his right shoulder, dislocating the arm and sinking in thirty-five feet of water. He barely saved himself from coming up under a boat. A companion succeeded in catching his hand and he was drawn into the boat where first aid was rendered. Arriving home a physician was called to see if the shoulder was properly set, and on Tuesday he was taken to Easton for an X-ray to search out any possible splinters or other complications.

The Volunteer Firemen's Carnival opened Friday evening with a good attendance. The weather prevented opening Saturday evening but by Monday the ground was in fair condition and the weather cool enough to add much to the pleasure of promoters and visitors. The special prize of Friday evening was won by Mrs. Frank Ayers, who was presented with a clock. Monday's prize, a pretty blanket, went to Maxwell Jacob. Wednesday evening there was a parade of our own and visiting firemen, with bands and various prizes. Among the winners were Chestertown for best band; Greensboro for most men in line and Denton for coming longest distance.

BETTERTON HOTELS AND FINE CLIMATE

All hotels and boarding houses have been newly painted and renovated for the season. Betterton has always been famous for the safe sand beach and fine fishing, and from daily reports the fish and crabs are more plentiful this season than ever before.

Betterton being directly on the Chesapeake Bay is especially favored by a moderate climate, swept in summer by cool breezes off the Chesapeake, warm in winter due to its sheltered location. Betterton is yearly becoming known as an all-year resort.
