KENT NEWS.

CHESTER TOWN, Md.

SATURDAY MORNING, JAN. 10, 1857.

☞ Hon J. B. Ricaud will accept our thanks for a valuable Public Document.

OUR PAPER.—The Levy List has crowded out many articles we had prepared for the 'News' this week.

THE WEATHER for the last few days has been extremely cold—yesterday morning the Thermometer was down to 5° Fah.

THE BOATS.—The steamer Hugh Jenkins arrived here from Baltimore last Monday. The packets 'Hiram Browne' and 'Jenny Lind,' succeeded in getting up the river as far as Smith's Landing, about eight miles from this place, where they are ice bound—they are both heavily ladened with Goods, &c., for our citizens.

Terrible Calamity in Washington—A Lady Burned to Death.

Washington, Jan. 4.

The wife of Judge Daniel, of the U.S. Supreme Court, was burned to death last night by an accident at the residence of her husband, in Franklin row. The Judge and his wife had been out, and on returning home, he went into the library, and she repaired to her sleeping apartment and commenced disrobing preparatory to retiring for the night. Being very near-sighted, she did not perceive a candle sitting on the hearth, nor the flames that communicated to her clothing until they completely enveloped her. She then ran from the room shricking for assistance. Her rapid motion only added strength to the flames, and before any effectual assistance could be rendered she was terribly burned from head to foot, and her recovery was rendered hopeless from having inhaled the fire. She died this morning, after lingering eight hours in dreadful agony.

She was a most estimable lady, about 35 years of age, and leaves two children, the youngest being only six or eight months old. She was the daughter of the late Dr. Harris of Philadelphia, formerly chief of the bureau of medicine and surgery attached the Navy Department. The terrible calamity has caused much regret to a large circle of friends and the community at large, who deeply sympathise with the judge on his bereavement. He was himself burned but not seriously, while endeavoring to extinguish the flames.

Accounts vary in regard to the origin of the accident. One statement is that Mrs. Daniel was in bed reading by a candle, the flames of which communicated to the sleeve of her night dress.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7, 1857.

U. S. Territorial Expansion free from European Interference—English Filibusterism in Asia—War with Russia—Prospect of the Nations—No Treaties Limiting our Acquisitions—Illinois Senator—McCormick's Reaper, &c.

The next administration will porbably have a very fair chance of carrying out any designs of territorial expansion which it may form, without much hindrance from the powers of the old world. The interests of the European world in their American colonies are decilining.—Affairs at home are likely to engage their exclusive attention. While England is fillibustering in Asia, she will permit the United States to fillibuster on this continent and the island naturally dependent upon it.

The peace with Rusian was but a truce, as we now from the preparations of both to transfer the scene of war to Persia.—The natural opening for the expansion of the Russian empire is in Asia, and her leading statesmen have always indicated that question for her aggressive movement, and have considered the policy of eastern aggressive as erroneous and futile. It is probable that, conscious of this error, Russia was induced, contrary to general expectation, to terminate the late war, and abandon her designs upon Turkey, but with a view to encounter England, in her East Indian possessions. Whatever may be said of the unpopularity in England of the war against Persia, it is the best evidence that could be adduced of the strength and wisdom of her government.

Before the first year of Mr. Buchanan's presidency shall pass, we may see all Europe convulsed, and witness also a war in the East for the preservation and extension of the British empire in that quarter.

The United States may, meanwhile, be suffered, without hindrance, to absorb not only Mexico and the west Indies and Ithmian region, but a much of the continent north and south as may be desirable or desired. In allusion to the policy and destiny of England and America, a sentiment was lately given at a public festival in New York by the able correspondent of the London Times, Mr. Fillmore, which is worthy of note, because it was received with enthusiasm and unbounded applause, and is significant of the progress of events, to wit: that these two nations, the civilizers and conquerors of the world, are urging their way—the one eastward, the other westward—and that in the end they would together encircle the world till John and Jonathan meet under the walls of Japan.

It is in view of such territorial expansion that some of our statesmen are opposed to all treaties which define any limits to our territory, or obstruct our acquisition; we may, therefore, soon get a long way beyond the Monroe doctrine, and put into practice that of the Ostend Conference, only extending its application, according to the example of our great proto type, England, to any portion of this hemisphere which we may covet.

The Senate will probably decide adversely upon the question of the right of Mr. Harlan, of Iowa, to his seat. It is desirable that the case should be promptly decided as the Legislature of Iowa is now in session. They will, no doubt, re-elect Mr. Harlan.

The Supreme Court announced this morning their decision in the important patent case of Seymour and Morgan, plaintiffs in error vs. McCormick, the patentee of the reaper. The decision is in favor of McCormick. ION.

Horrible Murder in Ohio.

GALION, Ohio, Jan. 3, 1857.

A horrible murder was committed at Galion last night. A gentleman by the name of Garnhart had started for a party at the edge of town, and in about fifteen minutes was discovered lying in the middle of the wagon track, dead, with two desperate wounds (either of which would have proved mortal) in his head and breast, from a pistol.

Suspicion has been fixed upon one Starr who has been jealous of Garnhart for some time, and who has threatened his life several times. Star has fled, and five hundred dollars reward is offered for his apprehension. It is supposed he will endeavor to make his way to California, from which place he has recently arrived. Starr is about 23 years of age, five feet ten inches high, very light yellow hair, thin on his head, very sandy beard close shaved; had a scar on his cheek bone, rather imperceptible. He has rather a sanctimonious countenance.

OBJECTS AND AIMS OF AMERICANISM.

The name of the National American Party itself conveys the true idea of its objects, aims and character; but as there are still those who affect to be ignorant of its scope and design, we will enumerate some of its leading purposes, and which influence us to rally in support of its organization.

We desire, and understand such to be the desire of the National American Party, to recall the Government to its time-honored and approved principles of administration, and to express the authentic voice of the American people in favor of a thorough American policy.

We desire, and, so far as we are concerned, mean to contribute our share to the accomplishment of it, that henceforth in the face of all opposition, and of all combinations, Americans shall govern their own country, and that every genuine American interest shall take its paramount place in the counsels and thoughts of those to whom the management of the public affairs shall be intrusted.

We desire, and who does not? to see our internal resources improved, our labor reward, our genius fostered, our agriculture, manufactures, and commerce guarded and sustained by an intelligent American statesmanship.

We desire, and herein we differ with the Jesuits and Infidels who have found their way here from Europ, to see the children of our republic educated in American sentiment and principle, and fortified by the wisdom of that sacred Book from which our ancestors drew the inspiration of the moral and religious freedom which they infused into our civil institutions.

We desire a pure ballot-box, and to see the right of suffrage consecrated in the veneration of the people as the bulwark of liberty, and protected by laws which shall forever preserve it as the peculiar medium through which none but genuine American opinions and sympathies shall find expression in the functions of Govern ment.

We desire to see the Federal Constitution faithfully admimistered in strict accordance with the views of its founders, all usurpations of power checked, all encroachments upon the rights of the States rebuked, all forced constructions disavowed.

We desire a Great American party to silence the calmor of sectional factions, to check the career of pernicious innovations attempted by those nat of American kith and kin, and to rebuke the busy intrigues of those who are traitors to the Constitution and the Union.

These are objects and aims of the National American party. Could it have noble and more patriotic purposes in view?

Huntington's Arrival at Sing Sing.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.

Deputy Sheriff Ingles left yesterday afternoon for Sing Sing, having in custody Huntington the forger. A number of his friends were at the Tombs to bid him good bye as he came into the passage. He was elegantly dressed, and seemed to have but little concern about his situation.

I have since learned that when Huntington arrived at Sing Sing, he, in company with the Deputy Sheriff, went to the St. Nicholas Hotel, in that town, and ate a jolly good supper—the last of the kind he will enjoy for four years and ten months, unless he is pardoned out. He was then delivered to the prison officers, and locked up in his cell. It has been suggested that in choosing a work shop for him, he be put to the forging department.

☞ The number of deaths in Baltimore for the week ending Monday last was 93.

APPROPRIATE.—The following is "traveling:"

A young married lady, whose union had not been prolific of "little darlings," has suspended on the wall in her bedroom, directly over the head of the bed, a neat little picture, underneath which is the following quotation from Scripture: "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven."

N. G. WESTCOTT,
Sec'y and Treas'r.

Jan. 10, 1857.

Notice.

I OFFER on easy terms, or will exchange for other property, my WHARF, GRANARY and the Lot of Ground adjoining, at Betterton, mouth of Sassafras river.

Also the Schooners "BLOOMFIELD," 3 years old, & "SARAH SOPHIA," 4 years old, prime vessels in the hull, and sails rigging in good condition—now in good order for carrying grain, &c. Capacity of 'Bloomfield' about 3000 bushels, under deck—'Sarah Sophia,' 1500.

The wharf built in 1855, on piles in the most substantial manner—has since been protected against ice &c. by a series of breakwaters and pens of stone, renderiag it capable of sustaining a powerful pressure. Granary 30 feet square with 3 stories and attic—capable of storing some 6 to 8000 bushels of grain by increasing the garners. Lot of ground, about 2 acres

To an energetic person with some capital, who would devote his entire attention to the business, the above presents a favorable opening: as the place is an improving one and located right upon the Bay, witin 1½ miles of the great thoroughfare of freight and passenger travel from Philadelphia to Baltimore, must ultimately command a large share of business denied by remote position to many other localities.

In case of sale of vessels only, the Granary and privilege of wharf will be rented and the subscriber will attend thereto, if desired, assisting by such influence and freighting as he may control or possess.

To my friends and customers who have so kindly sustained me the past year and previously, in a public enterprise, I return my heartfelt thanks and inform them that should I not succeed in selling my vessels they will be run as heretofore and my efforts given to promote the interests of all who may confide their business to my care.

Advances made on Grain to be shipped within a specified time, and consignments respectfully solicited.

R. T. TURNER.
