LOCAL NOTES.....

Mrs. Geo. Whaland, of Rock Hall, set six traps and caught six rabbits Monday.

Thomas H. Bryan has had 21 head of cattle tested for the third time and now has an accredited herd.

L. Wethered Barroll and J. R. A. Rogan, of Baltimore, counsel for Mrs. Mabel S. Baker, of Baltimore, have notified Harrison W. Vickers, attorney for the Board of Commissioners of Chestertown, that an appeal will be taken from the decision of the Circuit Court in the trial of a $25,000 damage suit filed by Mrs. Baker against the Board of Town Commissioners which grew out of the death of her daughter, Miss Mae Appler, of Baltimore, on the streets of the town in July, 1928.

John Smith, colored, is in a Baltimore hospital in a serious condition as the result of a fight which occurred in the road building camp of the Aelio Construction Company, near Rock Hall, last Saturday night. Thomas Wiggins, also colored, is being held in jail here awaiting the outcome of Smith's injuries before being arraigned.

Over 40 singers were present at the Kent Musical Society Thursday evening. Mrs. Cleveland Smith, the new directress, has won the confidence and esteem of all and the prospect is for a grand season. The Society is now rehearsing for a Christmas Festival of Song to be given at the College, Sunday afternoon, Dec. 15th. The school children will take part in the concert as will the College Orchestra.

Deputy Game Warden Roland Porter, of Millington, arrested on Monday five men from Chester, Pa., charged with gunning without proper license. They were brought before Justice Robert Moffett, plead guilty, and fined $20 and costs which they paid.

Elsewhere in the Kent News today Stockton Startt advertises that he wants 1,000 turkeys.

James D. Davis, Jr., secretary-treasurer of the Kent County Farm Bureau, announced that as the result of a canvass made throughout the county during August and September, the total membership of the bureau now numbers between 260 and 270. Mr. Davis also stated that there is every indication that the membership will reach 300 by January 1. He also stated that the business of the bureau is increasing rapidly. The bureau has just received one order for $10,000 worth of feed to be distributed upon its arrival here.

A bake, held by the Ladies' Aid Society of Christ M. P. Church in Turner's Garage last Saturday morning, netted $35: The C. E. Society of the same church held a rummage sale which netted them about $50.

The Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company was called out last Saturday night when an automobile owned by Oscar Leverage exploded and was partly burned. The blaze was extinguished with chemical. In addition to the owner, Miss Janet Perkins, of Baltimore, was in the auto at the time of the mishap. No one was injured.

Specially interesting vesper services were held at the College Sunday afternoon. Fine music by Prof. Livingood's orchestra of 16 pieces, quartette and Miss Johnson, soloist, was enjoyed. Wallace Williams, of Elkton, made the address appropriate to Armistice Day.

Because residents in that section of town have objected to the gasoline tanks and pump at the High St. wharves, used by trucks hauling slag for road building in Kent county, will be removed and similar pumps at the Pomona end of the Quaker Neck highway will be used for that purpose, according to County Engineer Gilbert B. Taylor.

YOUNG WOMAN IS DEALER'S RIGHT HAND MAN

The Case Eagle published at Racine, Wis., in last week's issue spoke the truth when it said:

"One of the most active persons in our H. D. Orem and Sons dealership organization of Chestertown, Md., is Lucy E. Gardner, whose picture we are happy to publish here. Miss Gardner is the right bower in the management of this company. Her duties and interests are many and varied, but are all centered in the interest of the organization she serves so efficiently.

"She is the bookkeeper, cashier and credit lady all combined into one. takes a deep and keen interest in all matters pertaining to advertising. She sees that literature is properly shown in the advertising display racks and that it gets the correct distribution.

"However, her efforts are not entirely confined to the office end of the business, as she is also a good sales person. She sells paints, plow shares, light hardware, machines, plows and other products.

"Miss Gardner makes herself especially valuable in the credit and collection departments of the busy organization."

The Triangle Club of Christ M. P. Church will give a play and musicale in the Sunday school room Thursday, November 21st at 7.45 p. m. Silver offering.

WEDDING NOTES

Last Saturday evening the M. P. Church was crowded with the friends of Miss M. Kathleen Hill, the popular daughter of D. Webb Hill, who lives near Kennedyville. The event was the marrage of Miss Hill to John G. Wandall, one of the efficient teachers of Allentown, Pa. The impressive marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. McLain Brown after which they received the congratulations of a host of friends who were present. The young people will make their home in Allentown, Pa.

The bride wore a becoming suit of blue flat crepe with corsage bouquet and white hat. Miss Carolyn Hill, of Baltimore, was the Maid of Honor, and wore black satin. Emil Lehman, of Allentown, Pa., acted as best man.

The bride is a graduate of the Chestertown High School and Drexel Institute. She has taught at Eddystone High and Ardmore High in Pennsylvania. The groom is a graduate of the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania and is in business in Allentown, Pa., where they will reside after returning from their honeymoon.

Miss Bessie Hilditch, of Turner's Creek and Wilbur F. Hall, of Fredericktown, Cecil county, were united in holy bonds of matrimony on Saturday afternoon at the M. P. Parsonage at Kennedyville, by Rev. J. McLain Brown.

Only the immediate families of the contracting parties were present to extend their congratulations.

Miss Catherine Mercer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Mercer, of near Rock Hall, and George W. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Williams, were married in Baltimore Saturday evening, Nov. 9th, by the Rev. Mr. Riezel at his home on Eastern Avenue. The happy couple are residing in Rock Hall.

J. Myron Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Jones, of Rock Hall, and Miss Margaret Fox, of Reading, Pa., were married at eight o'clock on Wednesday evening, Nov. 7th, at the home of the groom's parents. Elder G. Medairy, of Greensboro, a friend of the family, officiated. The ceremony was performed before an altar erected in the room of the invalid grandmother. The attendants were Miss Delma Jones, sister of the groom, and Emmett Wood. Friends gathered at the home Saturday evening and gave the happy couple a variety shower. They will return to Mount Vernon, O., where the groom is in business and where they will make their home.

Ten small Gouglas spruce trees, gotten in exchange for the large pine purchased with funds raised by local school children, have been received here. The large tree, which was to serve as a live community Christmas tree and was planted in the smaller of Chestertown's two parks, died. The ten small trees have been placed by Superintendent Louis C. Robinson. Four were planted in the park to replace the dead one, two were planted at the Chestertown High School and the remaining four placed at the Chestertown Elementary School.

The removal within the next thirty days of some 800 yards of rock ledge will complete the channel project through the Kent Island Narrows. The new channel, which is more than a mile in length, seven feet deep, and 100 feet wide, will increase many times the traffic through the Narrows, will shorten the distance between Baltimore and points on the Eastern Shore, and will save watermen and vessels from all parts of the State many miles.

PLAN XMAS SEAL SALE

Preparations are being made to launch the annual sale of Christmas seals. W. B. Matthews, managing director of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association, is arranging for the sale in Kent county to be begun on Thanksgiving Day.

The Kent County Public Health Association will receive 70 per cent of the proceeds, the State body 25 per cent. and the national association, five per cent.

Styles may change but we never expect women to go back to cotton stockings.

Some people are so hopelessly solemn that any sign of gayety in others seems to hurt them.

Teacher was trying to illustrate different adverbs as applied to speed. Walking across the room very rapidly, she turned and asked: "Now, children, how would you say I walked then?"

All in chorus, they shouted: "Bow-legged!"

SHERIFF KILLS HARVEY CREW

Harvey Crew, 32, who lived near Elkton, was shot to death by Sheriff G. Clinton Logan Tuesday.

Crew, who had been pursued by the Sheriff and his deputy in an automobile, refused to show his driving license, and then ran over the fields about two miles out of Elkton on the Newark road.

Sheriff Logan said he was sitting in his office when Miss Mary Jamison reported Crew and two companions were driving crazily across Railroad avenue to the Newark-Elkton road. She said the men had forced her car off the road.

The Sheriff and a deputy, Harry Burton, jumped into the Sheriff's car and caught up with Crew and his party about two miles northeast of Elkton. The Sheriff said the men had been drinking.

"Where's your driver's license?" Sheriff Logan asked Crew.

Crew, it is alleged, would not show it. He jumped a fence and ran across the fields. The Sheriff chased him for a quarter of a mile. Finally, according to Sheriff Logan, he saw the man was getting away, so he fired two shots.

Crew was hit in the right hip and in the back. He was dead when the Sheriff reached him.

The Sheriff said that he did not intend to kill the man, but was "only doing his duty."

Coroner Howard W. Green ordered the body sent to a local undertaking establishment.

The Sheriff has been arrested and the Grand Jury will consider the case next month.

Harvey Crew is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Crew, formerly of Broad Neck, but now living at Glasgow, Del.

The damage suit of Vera Martin, 16-year-old girl of Lyon Village, Va., near Washington, against Wilmer F. Davis, of Federalsburg, for $25,000 following an automobile accident two years ago near Wilmington, will be retired here next April in the Kent County Circuit Court, it was announced Monday. The jury failed to agree when the case was first heard late last month.

Davis was the owner of the truck that collided with a car in which Miss Martin was a passenger. She lost an eye and was disfigured for life, it was revealed at the recent trial. The truck was driven by an employe of Davis.
