Burglars Sentenced.

Jacob Peacock and Alexander Welch, two notorious thieves, were convicted of larceny, last week, in Baltimore county Court. His honor Judge Price, in passing sentence upon them, said:

"The court is sometimes under the very unpleasant and disagreeable duty of passing sentence in cases where there may by chance or possibility be an absence of guilt, but in your case the court is happily relieved of any such unpleasant reflections.

"You have," said the court "been fairly tried, convicted, and richly deserve the sentence you will receive, and a great deal more. The limits of the punishment which the law allows in your case, for the larceny of property to the amount of $1 and upwards, is eleven years and five months. My duty to myself, my duty to the State, and to the community require that I should give you the full benefit of this term. In your case Jacob Peacock, the court would, if it had the power, sentence you for a much longer period of time. The court considers that in sentencing you to the full extent of the law it is doing service to yourself as well as to the State.

"The court feels convinced that so long as you are in the penitentiary and not a day lenger, will the community be relieved from your depredations and crime.—You have made yourself notorious by a long course of crime, which the court has learned only since your conviction. Your reputation is that of an idle, dissolute and vicious person. In the terms of the common law you are a 'common thief, a common rogue and vagabond,' infesting the streets and lanes of the city, and robbing and plundering the helpless and unsuspecting, who are properly under the special protection of the law.

"If you should live to leave the penitentiary, and should, under similar circumstances, in the exercise of your constitutional rights, remove your case within the jurisdiction of this court, or of any of the courts within this judicial circuit, for the purpose of obtaining a delay, you may rest assured that you will receive the benefit of another constitutional right—that of receiving 'justice speedily, without delay.' You will have a reasonable time to prepare for trial—and full justice will be rewarded you before trial, and the full measure of justice also after trial. You will distinctly understand, that if you are ever again convicted in this court you you will receive the severest sentence the law can impose on you Lenity to you, who are criminals, would be injustice to the masses who are innocent; mercy to you would be cruelty to the community. The coust sentences each of you to confinement in the penitentiary for eleven years and five months."

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The Baltimore appointments have not yet been reached, and will not be brought up for action before next week, if then. Various interested parties are here, some urging the claims of outs, and others seeking to have those now in retained. I learn that a bet of one thousand dollars was offered in your city a few days ago, that Mr. Thomas would be retained as collector. A forfeit of seventy-five dollars was put up, which was subsequently forfeited by the party betting against Thomas' retention. If bets are any criterien this would seem to favor the hopes of Mr. Thomas and his friends. Those, however professing to know cabinet secrets, say his removal is certain.

The fitness of Hon. Joshua Vansant, for your post-office is acknowledged on all hands but there are doubts whether he will bend sufficiently to political jugglery. He is not a direct applicant, and would only be selected on the ground of superior talent.

Those who receive the higher appointments will be required to accommodate the outside pressure for subordinate stations.

The National Hotel is wholiy deserted, and no clue has yet been had to the true cause of the epidemic.

Affairs in Kansas—Cause of Governor Geary's Resignation.

St. Louis, March 17.

The St. Louis Democrat publishes a statement relative to the affairs in Kansas, giving by Gov. Geary. The cause of the resignation of Gov. Geary is said to have been the failure of the President to fulfil the pledges made at the time the appointment was conferred, to support him, Gov. G., with the power of the army and militia, and the means of the Treasury, if necessary; but instead of receiving this aid, he has paid $12,000 out of his own pocket to meet the expenses of the administration; has been refused the aid and support of the military under the most urgent circumstances, and thwarted by the Judiciary of the Territory in every possible manner. The Governor states that not less than fifty men were under oath, from the day he entered the territory until he left it, to assassinate him, provided his official career did not meet their approbation.

The Governor regrets the steps he has been obliged to take, and feels confident that had the promised assistance been rendered him, he could have administered the affairs of the territory in a manner acceptable to the honest settlers of both sides. In relation to the outrages committed by the pro-slavery men, he says one half has not been told. He pronounces the murder of Buffum, by Hays, the most cold-blooded and atrocious affair ever witnessed. His version of the Sherrard affair is similar to those already published. He says, however, that the account published in the Republican over the signature of "Jones", is a tissue of falsehoods.

The Governor complains much of the obstructions and mutiliations of his official correspondence. He says the mail bags were constantly opened, and all objectionable matter to or from him extracted. He thinks the establishment of a Slavery Constitution in Kansas inevitable.

GUANO DISCOVERED IN CUBA —A letter from Havana to the New York Times states that speculators are all agog at the unexpected information that the keys on the south side of the island contain immense deposits of rich guano. The discovery was made by Captain Greene, of the brig Henry W. Moncure, of Baltimore, about two years ago. The writer adds:

Capt. Greene states that he has made a careful survey of three of the principal keys, and found the guano to be, on an average, from 3 to 4 feet deep. Of course it contains but a small proportion of ammonia, but I understand that its market value has been rated in the Baltimore market at $30 the ton. Capt Greene has had several interviews with the Captain-General, and has succeeded in getting a war steamer to be placed at his service for the purpose of making a complete survey of all the keys on the coast of Cuba. Several of the most prominent officers of the government accompany Capt. Greene. The party sailed from here last week, and propose examining the south side of the island first.—Specimens of the guano are on exhibition at present, and I understand that two companies have been formed for the purpose of digging the guano for the American market

Rumored Recal of Mr. Forsyth—Health of the President.

Washington, March 17.—It is pretty generally understood here that Mr. Forsyth, our Minister to Mexico, will shortly be recalled, and a more competent person sent in his place. The position of Mexico at the present time demands that we should have an able and discerning representative at that Court, and such a one will most certainly be appointed.

The stories about the frequent serious illness of the President are, for the most part, untrue, Mr. Buchanan's general health being nearly as good as it ever was.

Presentation of the British Minister.

Washington, March 16.

Lord Napier, the new British Minister was introduced to the President to-day, by Gen. Cass, and presented his credentials. His expressions of congratulation and his desire to preserve the peace of the two countries, were cordially reciprocated by the President. Lord Napier was in court dress.

Lord Napier, in addressing the President as the Envoy of her Britannic Majesty, said he was instructed to convey to him the earnest desire entertained by the Queen to preserve and advance, on all occasions, the interests and happiness of England and America, which are so deeply involved in their amicable intercourse, and to manifest to him the hearty good wishes which Her Majesty cherishes for the prosperity of the United States. He ventured to congratulate the President on his accession to the highest elective dignity in this country and the world, saying, "May you enjoy it in health, peace, and ever increasing honor, and may the period of your government be distinguished by all the features of public welfare." "Permit me," he continued, "to express to you my gratification in being selected to renew and avow at Washington, those relations of international friendship which have been so ably sustained by your representative in London. The important and grateful duty might have been committed to others more capable of doing justice to the sentiments of benevolence which animate my sovereign, her ministers, and every order of her subjects; but no one could approach your excellency with greater respect for your person or your office, or a warmer good will to the American people." He then delivered the credential letter which her Majesty had been graciously pleased to entrust to his care.

The President in reply, offered to Lord Napier a hearty welcome as Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of Her Britannic Majesty to the United States. "Your sovereign," he said, "I am convinced, could not have selected a more acceptable representative than yourself to renew those relations of international friendship which I trust may never hereafter be interrupted. The earnest and gracious desire expressed by Her Majesty to preserve and advance upon all occasions, the interest and happiness of England and America, and the hearty good wishes which Her Majesty cherishes for the prosperity of the United States, are cordially reciprocated on my part, and will elicit an enthusiastic response from the hearts of the American people. No independent powers have ever been bound together by material interests of such magnitude as those which unite Great Britain and the United States. Indeed, the prosperity of the one is necessarily involved in that of the other. But mutual interests, however vast, without mutual regard, are not always sufficient to preserve friendship between nations. How happy, then, am I to receive the assurance that your sovereign, her ministers, and every other of her subjects, are animated by sentiments of benevolence towards the government and people of the U. States. During my administration it shall be my agreeable duty, as well as my earnest desire, to increase the friendship and good will now so happily subsisting between the two countries, and to render these sentiments strong and endnring. With such sincere and heartfelt dispositions on both sides, should difficulties ever arise between the two governmenst, these will be easily adjusted in the spirit of mutual forbearance and concession. I return your Lordship my thanks for your kind expressions and wishes in reference to myself, and feel confident that, in our future intercourse, we shall proceed harmoniously and satisfactorily in discharging our respective duties."

THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CONFRENCE. A Division Effected.—The session of the Baltimore Conference yesterday was the most inportant of which had been in existence for fifteen years. It will be recollected that at the last session of the conference a division was proposed and carried, but that required the confirmation of the General Conference for settlement. The subject, as on all other matters importance, was referred to a committee, and on Tuesday, two reports, a majority and minority, were submitted. Neither of which seemed to meet with the general approbation of the members, and a compromise was proposed to divide by districts. When the subject was called up yesterday, there was considerable excitement, but the debate was tempered with moderation and with good feeling, and after a discussion of two hours, the division was effected by a large majority vote.

By this division the Baltimore Conference will be composed of the Baltimore-Potomac, Lewisburg, Roanoake, Rock, ingham, and Winchester Districts, including Patapsco stations and circuit, and Montgomery circuit and the Baltimore East Conference will be composed of the North Baltimore, Frederick, Cumberland Bellefonte, Northumberland and Carlisle districts, including Whatcoat and Emery stations. There will be two conferences held next Spring.—Baltimore American 12th.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

A terrible rail road accident occurred on the Great Western railroad on Thursday last. A dispatch from Toronto announces the recovery of the bodies of sixty of the victims. The Hamilton Spectator, in describing the sad affair, says:

One family were in the cars, consisting of father, mother, and four children — Only one of the children escaped. One of the little girls, about four years old, who was killed, was brought into the house near the bridge when we were there. The poor little creature was smiling prettily, as if she had been sleeping and dreaming of sweet things when the accident occurred, and been launched into the long sleep of death before the dream had vanished from her mind.

Just before the train reached the bridge the engine ran off the track, owing, it is supposed, to some defect in the axle.—This, however, is a mere surmise, founded only on the observation of some marks on the road for some distance on the other side of the spot where the accident occurred. The immense weight of the engine, cutting through the timber of the bridge, produced the effect naturally to be expected. The whole structure gave way, and with one frightful crash the engine, tender, baggage car, and two first class passenger cars broke through the severed frame work, and leaped headlong into the yawning abyss below. The engine and tender crushed at once through the ice. The baggage car, striking on the corner of the tender in the act of falling, was thrown to one side, and fell some ten yards from the engine. The first passenger car rushed after, and turning as it descended, fell on its roof, breaking partly through the ice, and was crushed to atoms, while the last car fell endways on the ice, and strange to say, remained in that position.

Appointments dy the President.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Arthur W. Austin has been appointed Collector for Boston, vice Wm. Peaslee. The friends of Mr. Howland were very sanguine of his appointment up to the last moment, and even now are not willing to admit his defeat.

Wetson Freeman has been re-appointed U. S. Marshall for the district of Massachussetts.

C. L. Woodbury has been appointed U. S. Attorney for the district of Massachussetts, vice Mr. Hallett.

It is said that Fletcher Webster is to be appointed Surveyor of the port of Boston and that C. G Green, Naval Officer will be re-appointed.

The pressure on the President from New York, Philadelphia and Boston, has been so severe as nearly to prostrate him as he has admitted to his friends.

No appointments have been made for Philadelphia or New York.

There have been many fresh arrivals here to-day of politicians from Philadelphia, on business connected with the subject.

THE OFFICE SEEKERS.—President Buchanan is said to be overwhelmed by the importunities of crowds of office seekers. A letter writer remarks:

This thing of crowding in upon the very limited time of the President, and when it is chiefly taken up by the Cabinet consultations upon paramount State questions, is not according to etiquette or generosity. If it continues much longer, unless he is heir to the strongest constitution, it must inevitably break him down, for no man can stand such a preasure. I heard the President say on Saturday last that he hadn't time to say his prayers, and he thanked God that the the next day would be the sabbath, when he would have a day of rest, on which to recruit his shattered health.

From Washington-

Washington, March 19.—The grand jury of the Criminal Court to-day found a true bill against Colonel Lee, late Clerk in the Pension Office, for murder in the first degree in the killing of Mr. Hume, of Alexandria. Lee is now in jail awaiting his trial.

Strong efforts are being made for the appointment of a Southern man as Governor of Kansas. The Cabinet have now under consideration the affairs of that territory.

The following are reported and believed to be the appointments made for Philadelphia to-day: Lewis D. Baker, collector; Chambers McKibbin, naval officer; John Hamilton, Jr. surveyor; Wm. Badger, navy agent; Jacob Yost, marshal of the eastern district; and Gideon G. Wescott, post master.

The Proposed Transfer of the New Foundland Fisheries to France—Indignation Meeting at St. Johns.

St. Johns, Newfoundland, March 14.—The advices brought by the English mail that the English government had entered into a convention with france to transfer to that power the Newfoundland fisheries created an intense excitement here, and a general meeting of all classes was called. The stores and shops and other places of business were closed during the meeting, and the British flag was everywhere placed at half-mast, union down. In some places a black flag was hoisted. The result of the meeting was a determination that the wrong shall not be perpretrated. The legislature and the commercial classes are sending petitions to the Queen.

☞The U. S. steam frigate Merrimac Capt. Pendergrast, seven days frvm Santa Cruz, touching at St. Thomas, arrived in Hampton roads on Sunday. It is stated that she had a most delightful cruise.

☞The Rev. Calvin Colton, a well known Presbyterian clergyman, died at Savannah, Ga., on Friday last.

☞McKim the murderer of Norcross has been arrested.
