RAIN NOT TO END DROUGHT

The rain which began falling shortly before 4 o'clock Monday will have a beneficial effect, but will not break the 151-day drought, nor will it bring water supplies to normal, it was said at the Weather Bureau.

It is expected by Weather Bureau officials that between ten and twenty hundredths of an inch of rain will have fallen between the start of the rain and dawn Tuesday, when the intermittent showers, as they are termed, ended.

Brisk northwest winds drove the rain from the skies and left in its place cold, clear weather.

Cumberland was the driest and Crisfield the wettest place in Maryland during the first ten months of the year, John R. Weeks, Weather Bureau section director and Maryland meteorologist, disclosed in a compilation of figures.

Only 12.91 inches of rain have fallen in Cumberland since January 1, Mr. Weeks said, and but .03 inches fell in October. This is a deficiency of 17.29 inches for the period and is forty-three per cent. of normal.

Crisfield had a fall of 2.20 inches during October for a total of 18.82 inches since January 1. The October rainfall there was ninety per cent. of normal, there being a deficiency of .24 per inches. The average for the ten months, however, is but fifty per cent. of normal.

The Maryland - Delaware section combined has had but fifty-nine per cent. of a normal year's rainfall, Mr. Weeks' figures show. Delaware, has been much less affected by the drought than her sister State. Milford has received 77 per cent. of its normal rainfall, Dover 72 per cent. and Wilmington 66 per cent.

FINE RECORD WITH SWINE

How a young Maryland farmer has led the way for the State in raising high qualiey, well finished hogs was illustrated recently at the annual Baltimore Livestock Exhibition when J. M. Mattingly, manager of "Susquehanna Farms," St. Mary's county, won first place or grand championship in every class in which he had animals entered. K. A. Clark, of the Animal Husbandry Department, University of Maryland stated after seeing the animals, "The hogs shown by 'Susquehanna Farms' would have done credit to their owners and the State in any kind of competition."

The seventy-four shoats were awarded the following places: first, place and grand championship for the best car load of not less than 50 hogs, weighing over 200 pounds; first and second places and grand championship for the best pen of 5 hogs, weighing over 160 pounds; first place for best pen of 5 hogs weighing under 160 pounds; first, third and fourth places and grand championship for the best individual barrow weigning under 160 pounds.

The total amount in prices captured by the animals from "Susquehanna Farms' was $175 and $1,733.00 was realized from the sale of the hogs later on.

The story of the success of Mr. Mattingly is a phenominal one, particularly so because the animals raised on the farms prior to his coming, less than three years ago, were in a very run down, sickly condition. Hence his battle from that time on to lay the firm foundation which this year showed such excellent results should serve as a real incentive to every swine grower in the State.

The first thing that the present manager did was to get all the available informaion he could on raising hogs in the State, much of the aid having been obtained through his State University.

Rotation of crops, the discarding of perpetual hog lots and the use of clean fields were followed religiously and, in addition breeding stock as well as young hogs were given access to mixed pastures and alfalfa, especially the latter.

During the spring twelve sows were placed in the farrowing pens and 79 shoats, valued at $1,400 were fitted for market and pork. Although this was an average of almost seven shoats to a sow Mr. Mattingly was not satisfied for considerable losses had been sustained among the young, newly born pigs because proper shelter had not been provided. Buzzards had also taken their toll.

However. in the fall of 1929 thirteen sows gave 102 shoats which were sold for approximately $1,850 and the following spring, thirteen more animals were placed in the farrowing pens with the result that 104 shoats, or an average of eight per sow, were brought to maturity.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad and loving memory of my dear husband, Edgar S. Davis, who departed this life three years ago December 4th.

Gone is the face I loved,
Silent is the voice I heard;
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for my thoughts to reach.
Time may heal an aching heart,
Time may make the wound less sore,
But time will never stop the longing
For the loved one gone before.

Sadly missed by his Wife.
