RITCHIE TRUE TO OYSTERMEN

Kent county oystermen SHOULD be both pleased and encouraged by the very firm and unequivocal statement made by Governor Ritchie in Centreville on Tuesday.

He stated that he will OPPOSE any measure to lease the natural beds and bars of our oyster grounds.

It might be added that Governor Ritchie has ALWAYS opposed this action.

Oystermen have a right to ask that the NATURAL bars be preserved for general use. And Governor Ritchie means what he SAYS in assuring them he will vigorously INSIST that their rights be observed.

Every effort possible has been made by the Governor and his government to make oyster conditions in Maryland better for those who choose that industry as a means of livelihood.

The annual dsplay of chrysanthemums and Fall roses in Chestertown is the poorest for many years due to the effects of the drought which has played havoc with the usually beautiful flower yards in the town.

A handsome yacht arrived off Handy Point this week having been purchased by Mrs. Isaac Dixon at a cost of thousands of dollars. She will use this yacht during her stay in Florida this winter. It is a beauty.

The Protestant Episcopal rectory at Fairlee, belonging to vestry of St. Paul's parish, narrowly missed destruction by fire shortly before noon Sunday.

Mrs. White, wife of the rector, the Rev. John White, discovered the fire which originated around the chimney in the cellar of the building. The Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company succeeded in putting out the blaze with only slight damage. The alarm came at 12 o'clock and interferred some what with the service at churches in town.

PROCLAMATION

The Town Commissioners of Chestertown request that all citizens remember Armistice Day by observing one minute of silence at eleven A. M. on November 11th, 1930. Everyone is requested to observe strict silence at that time in memory of those soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice during the late World War. This minute of silence will be observed thruout the United States.

By order Town Commissioners,
E. SCOTT THOMPSON,
HENRY GILL.

CLUB WOMEN HOLD MEETING

Three hundred club women representing twenty-nine clubs attended the Eastern Shore District Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs held at Federalsburg, Thursday, October 23. Mrs. Alfonso Boley, president of the federation, presided.

The morning session was given to Mrs. Henry M. Roberts, Jr., State Parlimentarian, who gave a most comprehensive outline of a club meeting well conducted and along parliamentary lines.

Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, president of the State Federation, also spoke at the morning session, she stressed the reasons for being a club woman which were contacts, self expression, and education.

At the afternoon session, Mrs. H. Matthew Gault, State Chairman of Club Institute presented a club departmental institute.

The institute proved most instructive both in the presentation of the work by the respective chairman and also in answering questions given by members of the district from the floor.

Special music was rendered during the afternoon consisting of vocal solos by Mrs. Cleveland Smith, of Easton, State Chairman of Community singing, Mrs. W. S. Nabb accompanying. A violin solo by H. M. Black with Miss Frances Hackett at the piano.

Luncheon was served by the hostess club, The Woman's Club of Federalsburg, of which Mrs. Jerome D. Jefferson is president. The sessions of the federation were held in the auditorium of the Union M. E. Church.

Mrs. Harrington J. Wheeler, of Wilmington, will arrive in Chestertown on November 3rd and will begin rehearsals for the production of the musical comedy, "Meet the Prince," which will be given in the old Lyceum Theatre, November 17, 18 and 19, for the benefit of the Kent County Public Health Association.

The October Term of Court concluded its sessions last Friday. It was one of the shortest terms in the experience of the present Court.

The jury Friday returned a verdict of second degree murder against Ralph Freeman, colored, who shot and killed Azariah Butler, colored, last May during a quarrel near Fairlee. The Court sentenced Freeman to serve five years in the Maryland penitentiary.

A liquor case was set for trial on Tuesday but owing to illness of the accused the case was postponed.

STILL POND MEET WINNER

The Still Pond Patrol of Boy Scouts defeated the Betterton Patrol in the Gymkahna (Riding Meet) held last Saturday at "Camelsworthmore." The score was 24 to 16, with Ralph Hopkins scoring 14 points as High Point Winner. The meet was refered by Reginald Cooper, of Worton, former Life Scout of Troop 12, Wilmington. The Judges were Rev. S. S. Hepburn, Walter B. Harris and Edward Hepbron, and William H. Bonwill. The events consisted of Patrol Form Riding, Individual Form Riding, Bareback Form Riding, Picket Line Race, Balloon Bursting Race, Paul Revere Relay, Potato Race, Pony Express Relay, Going to Jerusalem and Free Fancy Riding.

Each month a meet featuring some different type of activity related to scouting is held. Last month the Still Pond Patrol won the Water Sport's Meet. Next month the two patrols will compete in an Archery Meet. This meet will probably be connected with the Annual Archery Hunt. An effort is now being made to secure a former Baltimore Scoutmaster and Archery enthusiast to act as referee.

At the Court of Honor held last Wednesday evening, at Adas Kodesch Center, Wilmington, two Betterton Scouts received awards. Scout Harry Price received merit badges for Swimming, Life Saving and Canoeing. Scout Hanson Smith, Life Saving and Canoeing. Several Betterton Scouts are to receive awards from the Local Court of Honor. These are edward Hepbron, Second Class; Nelson Crew, Canoeing; Galena Clark, Bird Study, Swimming and Canoeing. Ralph Hopkins, James Owens, and Charles Bailey are to be officially invested.

Ritchie or Broening How They Compare

The following excerpts from an excellent editorial in the Baltimore Sun gives a good comparison between Ritchie and Broening:

The State campaign reaches its final week rather disappointingly. Mr. Ritchie has served three terms as Governor and stands on his record. It would be an excellent, wholesome thing if there were an intelligent debate on the quality of his service. Mr. Broening has provided no such debate. He has avoided colliding directly with the Governor on any matter of importance. His strategy has been to glide and slide. Negatively, he has added his indorsement to the Ritchie administration. Conceivably, that may have been good strategy. We doubt it. The reports indicate that Mr. Ritchie will win. But even if Mr. Broening's campaign policy be good strategy, it is poor contribution to intelligent political discussion, not to say to political drama.

The Mayor embarked on his unfortunate and undignified course when he dodged the issue of national prohibition. He is exactly as opposed at heart to national prohibition as is Mr. Ritchie. That is a matter of common knowledge. And if it were not, there is the wringing wet answer Mr. Broening made to the Association Opposed to Prohibition when he ran for Attorney-General four years ago.

It is really an extraordinary example of unconscious insolence, this business of a man asking the people of Maryland to bestow upon him their highest honor, while he averts his eyes whenever they ask him about one of the questions they are most interested in. But it carries its own punishment. For when a man refuses to face up to the thing that is real he is necessarily pushed into treatment of the unreal and becomes foolish. In Mr. Broening's case this is illustrated in his attacks on Mr. Ritchie's long continuance in office. What could be more preposterous and amusing from Mr. Broening? He has devoted his life to job holding, and he has never voluntarily given up one job save to take a better one. And as it was in the past, so it will be in the future.

To add to the absurdity of such a campaign against Mr. Ritchie by a man who has run for Mayor every time that Mr. Ritchie has run for Governor, and, according to all reports, will be a candidate for Mayor for the fourth consecutive time if defeated for Governor, there is the cry of "Usurpation!" raised by Mr. Broening and his orators against the Governor. Usurpation! A man is elected Governor for the first time by 165 plurality. Four years later, in an election whose fairness nobody has even thought of challenging, he increases his margin to some 40,000. Three years later, again in an election whose fairness nobody dreams of challenging, he increases the margin to some 60,000. And that crescndo of popular approval is "usurpation" —according to Mr. Broening.

Mr. Broening has been gliding and sliding about, to peck a little here and to peck a little there, and not once has he stood steady on a given spot, made an important attack and fought the thing out. The State schools have been prostituted to politics by Mr. Ritchie, says Mr. Broening. But the next thing Mr. Broening and his associates are in a raging fever because the great professional prestige of Ritchie's school superintendent, Albert S. Cook, has been thrown into the fight through the use by a Ritchie committee of a single paragraph from one of Mr. Cook's speeches. Mr. Cook was speaking on the notable improvements in the State system during the Ritchie administrations.

That ludricous exhibition is fairly typical. Mr. Ritchie, according to Mr. Broening in one of his earlier speeches, has been intrenching himself in power by steady eliminating the State Senate's power of confirmation in appointments to State offices. As though the elimination of the Senate's authority was not started, as a reform, back in the distant days of Governor Crothers, when Mr. Ritchie was an assistant in the City Solicitor's office and Mr. Broening himself was known only as the amiable young man who had been Frank Wachter's secretary. As though the reform had not been pursued in all subsequent administrations, the Republican as well as the Democratic. Then there is a peck by Mr. Broening at the Health Department, although the leading physicians united in support of Mr. Ritchie's health policies. And there is a peck at county almshouses, only to reveal the fact that Mr. Ritchie had set up machinery for reform. And so on and so on.

The inevitable result is seen today. The last week of the campaign finds Mr. Broening without a case against the Ritchie administration. And, since nobody has even thought of suggesting that Mr. Rroening is an abler man than Governor Ritchie, there is no reason why any independent citizen should vote for Mr. Broening unless that citizen has somehow got himself into a frame of mind which compels him to vote for anybody on any platform in preference to Mr. Ritchie. We do not suppose there are many citizens so bereft of reason as to take that attitude.

Governor Ritchie renews his pledge to the watermen of the Eastern Shore that, so long as he is Governor, they need have no fear that the natural oyster bars and grounds of Maryland ever will be leased.

In his address, with a characteristic frankness that always has been a part of the man, Governor Ritchie told his audience that protection of the oysterman's interests had been written into the platform of his first campaign by himself, that it had been a part of the platform of his succeeding campaigns, and would remain a part of his platform so long as he is Governor of Maryland.

Chestertown residents were delighted to be able to view the dirigible ZMC—2 Monday afternoon about 2 o'clock as it flew over the town at a low elevation. The big Los Angeles passed over town earlier. These two air ships flew over Baltimore as part of Navy Day program.

MUSICIAL ASSOCIATION

The Kent County Musical Association is very glad to announce that Miss Helen Jepson, of the Philadelphia Civic Opera Company, will be the artist at its first concert to be given on January 20, 1931. She will bring her own accompanist for this engagement.

Miss Jepson delighted her audience in Chestertown last season, and the community will be happy to know of her coming again. She is scheduled to appear in the principal role in Pagliaccio, opposite John Charles Thomas, in the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, this week, and will broadcast over the Columbia Network on November 21st.

Miss Jepson's fine natural talent was discovered four years ago while vacationing at Chautauqua, N. Y., and now offered a scholarship at the Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia, where she has since pursued her studies.

The chorus will ge assisted by Miss Jepson in one number when she will take the Obligato in the Italian Street Song, by Victor Herbert.

Ask your neighbor to be sure and vote next Tuesday. Polls open from 7 A. M. until 7 P. M. Vote early.

POULTRY TEAM WINS

The 4-H Poultry Judging Team of Kent County scored a greater number of points than any other representing ten Maryland counties in the Poultry Judging Contest held Friday, October 24th, at Frederick.

Eight classes of five birds each were judged. County teams and scores follow: Kent, 2050; Montgomery, 2042; Frederick, 2030; Calvert, 2030; Alleghany, 2010; Carroll, 1919, Harford, 1890; Baltimore, 1890; Prince Georges, 1810, and Howard, 1750. The closeness of competition can be seen in that only twenty points separate the fourth and high teams.

Wilbur Morris, by his score of 790, will make the trip to Madison Square Garden as a member of the Maryland team. He was third high in the contest.

Much credit is due our boys for this victory. Clarence Sutton, Wilbur Morris, William Comella, and William Carroll, alternate, made up the team. Sixteen meets have been held. The County Agent, Martin Sutton, Purnell Newcomb, John H. Moffett, and Neal Truslow helped Assistant Agent E. W. King in coaching this exceptional poultry team of which Kent county may well be proud.

Let every Democrat go out and vote NEXT TUESDAY. Polls open from 7 to 7.

The country seems to have so much of everything that it's getting harder to sell anything.
