Farmers Tour Terminal Markets

Three Kent county farmers, L. A. Sutton, B. F. Rash, W. A. Bell and County Agent J. D. McVean and a like number from each of the nine Eastern Shore counties of Maryland and a like number from three counties in Delaware and two counties in Virginia, accompanied by their county agents anl specialists from the state Universities, made a two-day visit to terminal produce markets in New York City on July 15 and 16th. They were given an opportunity to see just how their farm ,products both plant and animal, are received, handled, graded, and distributed when they reach the big city.

The Pennsylvania Produce Terminal, the largest unit in the world for handling fruits and vegetables, the Vegetable Auction, the Fulton Street Fish Market, the Pacific Egg Producers' Association, and the H. Brenner Sons' Commission Merchants, are some of the places visited and at which methods of handling products were observed. In addition, trips were made to a number of large commercial houses and to places of general interest in the city.

This tour, for the purpose of studying methods employed at markets to which farmers are shipping their products, was arranged through the cooperation of the Extension Service of the University of Maryland and the Pensylvania Railroad Company. The farmers and county agents who make the tour are from the counties traversed by that road, which are: Caroline, Cecil, Dorchester, Kent Queen Anne's, Somerset, Talbot, Wicomico and Worcester.

It presents a unique opportunity for seeing, under official guidance, just how the marketing game is worked in our largest city, according to Dr. T. B. Symons, Director of Extension, who will accompany the tour. In his opinion, it is in line with the greatly increased interets in the marketing of farm products and will be of great value to the farmers by way of giving them first-hand information regarding the handling and sale of their products after they arrive at market.

FISHING ON PENINSULA

The splendid catches of channel bass which have been made at several Del-Mar-Va resorts on the Atlantic Ocean since the opening of this season, are attracting sports writers, representing both sportsmen's magazines and metropolitan newspapers in various sections of the country.

From the facts obtained first hand by the association the catches at Ocean City, Md., Wachapreague, Va., and Chincoteague Island, Va., have been the largest in many seasons. As high as thirty-one splendid big bass were taken in one day on the beach several miles south of Ocean City, while at Wachapreague and Chincoteague various parties have returned from the surf with five or six to a boat. These fish have ranged from 15 pounds to 62.

Lewes and Rehoboth, in Delaware, as well as Bowers Beach, on the Delaware Bay, have records of splendid catches of smaller type fish and taken throughout, including the Chesapeake Bay fishing, the 1930 salt water season far surpasses any previous record.

Last year the world's record for channel bass was broken at Chincoteague Island when a resident of Brooklyn, N. Y., landed one weighing 71 pounds. This fish was frozen in a cake of ice, sent to New York and placed on display in the windows of one of the leading metropolitan newspapers.

Capt. Edw. W. Emory and party of young folks from Chestertown, had fine fishing sport last Tuesday in Chester river. He caught one rock weighing sixteen pounds.

While fishing at Chincoteague Island one day the past week Neal A. Truslow of this town is reported to have had a most unusual experience with a shark. Mr. Truslow was about to land a big channel bass and had gotten the fish to the top of the water at the side of the boat when a big shark suddenly made its appearance and bit the bass in half before it could be landed. Mr. Truslow's party enjoyed excellent sport, landing several channel bass and numerous blue fish and porgies.

A party of local business men went to Bowers Beach Del., Tuesday on a fishing trip. Those in the party were Dr. E. A. Sexsmith, Lawrence G. Grown, Thomas D. Bowers, George W. French, Walter B. Strong, Wm. G. Smyth, Clinton C. Jones and Dr. J. S. William Jones. They caught 36 hard heads and 24 trout.

FRUIT GROWERS HOLD STATE MEETING AT NEW WINDSOR, JULY 23RD

It's summer time, but the New Lyceum is showing fine pictures

DEMOCRATIC DAY AT TOLCHESTER

Under the joint auspices of the United Democratic Club of the Eighteenth Ward and the Stonewall Democratic Club of South Baltimore, the campaign for the re-election of Governor Albert C. Ritchie will be opened formally on Tuesday, July 22, with a rally and get-together at Tolchester Beach.

At least 15,000 Democrats are expected to attend the excursion, which was planned originally as a harmony gathering of the Democrats of the Sixth Legislative District of Baltimore City. The fact that it is to be held on the Eastern Shore, however, brought the request from the Democratic voters of that section of the State that they be permitted to join in the celebration. This, of course, was readily and cheerfully granted and they were cordially invited to do so by the two strong Baltimore City political organizations.

The affair, which will start with the arrival of the first boat from Baltimore at about 10 A. M., will include a baseball game, bathing and games for adults and children under the supervision of officials of the Playground Athletic League. There will be speeches by the Governor and another nationally known speaker.

The Governor and his official party will make the trip over to the Kent county beach on the State steamer Governor McLane. On the way across the bay the McLane will be met by a convoy of private yachts. Part of the flotilla will come from Baltimore and the remainder from parts of the Shore.

For generations the relations between the Democrats of the South Baltimore district and those of the Eastern Shore have been most cordial and this harmony get-together is looked upon as an occasion which will further strengthen these bonds of friendship. Frequently the representatives in the Legislatures and the State conventions have stood shoulder to shoulder in advocating the same candidates and principles and with this, long intimate contacts have been established and the feeling among the representatives of these two localities has been genuinely harmonious.

The originators of this year's excursion are Edward Gross, president of the United Democratic Club, and Gilbert A. Dailey, president of the Stonewall Club. These are two of the oldest and strongest political organizations in Baltimore.

The general chairman of the Eastern Shore representation for the affair is former Governor Emerson C. Harrington. Senator S. Scott Beck, of Kent county, has taken over the chairmanship of the Eastern Shore committee on arrangements.

The occasion falls in the year and the month of the one-hundredth anniversary of the declaration of Thomas Jefferson's famous principles of Democracy.

On the committee of the Baltimore clubs, under the chairmanship of Charles Collings , are Edwin W. Windle, Michael Healey, Charles Carroll, J. Paul R ber, C. W. Ashley, John P. McTigun John T. Tormollon and Joseph F. O'Donnell.

Boats ll leave the Tolchester wharf in B ltimore for the beach on day-light saving time. One at 8.30 A. M., another at 2 P. M., and the moonlight trip at 6.45 P. M.

An ox roast will be one of the features of the affair and everybody is invited to come.

All sorts of games have been arranged for the kiddies, to be held under the direction of the Public Playground Athletic League. These men are well versed in this line of sports and know just how to make things attractive for the youngsters. There will be prizes for all of these events, and you may feel perfectly sure that the children will get a big kick out of this competition, and will be more than delighted when they see the awards that will be offered.

After the speechmaking, there will be a real old-time Eastern Shore Political rally.

Late in the afternoon, motor boat races will be held off the pier for the participants in the convoy; prizes will also be awarded for these acres and they will be open to all who wish to take part in them.

The Evening Sun Newsboys' Band has been engaged by the Baltimore Clubs to play at the Democratic meeting at Tolchester Tuesday.

The State Department of Health wirtes Gill Bros., Chestertown, as follows: "In inspecting your plant recently we found the equipment to be quite modern and clean and in excellent condition"—A. L. Sullivan, State Food and Drug Commission.

Walters who proposed the name "Methodist Protestant" for the denomination, which was unanimously adopted by the convention. The portrait will be painted by Mrs. Ethel Pennington Leach, of Frederica, Del. The portrait will be unveiled at the commencement exercises in 1931.

NEWARK NOSES MIDDLETOWN

Middletown sustained defeat at the hands of Newark at Newark, 3 to 2. The games was a pitchers' battle between Rawley and Reynolds. CECILTON NINE BEATEN BY KENNEDYVILLE CLUB

Though Frank Gristow continued his brilliant work both at bat and on the mound for the League, he failed to stave off a 3-to-1 defeat by the Kennedyville Club at Cecilton Friday.

The tilt was a pitchers' battle with Bill Loller, of the visiting outfit, on the winning end.

The home team's lone tally came in the first inning when Savin singled and scored on Bristow's triple. In the sixth Williams singled to right field, stole second, advanced to third when Loller laid one down over second and scored on Tobin's sacrifice.

In the eighth frame, Archibald opened with a three-bagger and came home on Hurlock's sacrifice. Williams doubled and scored on Tobin's single to right field.

HOLSTEIN FIELD DAY AT SYKESVILLE, JULY 26TH

The State Holstein Breeders' Association of Maryland holds its Field Day at Sykesvile, Md., on Saturday, July 26th. This is the third Field Day. It will be held at the Springfield State Hospital

During the intermission at a recent dance held at the Chester River Yacht and Country Club a historical relic in the shape of a small cannon was presented to the club by Thomas W. Perkins. The presentation speech was made by Simon W. Westcott, who stated that one time the cannon belonged to the Hanson family who were among the first settlers in this country. Part of the Hanson estate in this county known as Radcliffe Hall is the site of the present country club. Col. Hanson was a grandson of the first President of the Continental Congress and a manufacturer of cannon and the small cannon which is now the property of the country club is believed to have been manufactured in the old Hanson factory at Frederick.
