Still hopeful that harmony will prevail within the ranks of the Democratic party this year, and that a Democratic ticket, thoroughly representative of each faction of the party and equitably divided between the two factions, may be nominated without a primary contest, Lorie C. Quinn, Jr., the Crisfield publisher and leader of what has been known as the Quinn faction in Somerset County on Thursday announced that he would be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the State Senate. This is where the factions stumble. Each want this office. Why not appoint arbitrators.

W. EARLE WITHGOTT NOW LIEUTENANT COLONEL

W. Earle Withgott, who has been interested in military affairs long before the World War, has been promoted from Major in the National Guard o a lieutenant colonel. He is now the fiance officer of the Twenty-ninth Division, which comprises all the National Guard troops of Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia and heavy artillery of Pennsylvania.

As finance officer he will have charge of the disbursement of all funds for the division which is composed of about 25,000 men, as well as having charge of contracts and payment of all purchases.

Col. Withgott served as disbursing officer of the Twenty-ninth Division while in France in 1918. He was one of the first in Talbot county to offer his services in 1917. He married Miss Louise Crane, of Chestertown.

MARYLAND REPUBLICANS PICK STATE SLATE

Republican leaders meeting in Salisbury Wednesday completed the State ticket which will be used against the Democratic ticket next Fall by naming W. Newton Jackson, of Salisbury, the nominee for State Comptroller.

Mr. Jackson is the son of the Republican national committeeman William P. Jackson, and was named after former State Senator Lawrence B. Towers, of Denton, had refused to accept the nomination, declaring his health would not permit him to enter the campaign.

Alfred Stengle Marine, of Cambridge, defeated for a seat in Congress two years ago, was nominated by Eastern Shore leaders to again oppose Representative Goldsborough in the Fall election.

The meeting unanimously adopted a resolution directed to U. S. Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough, and William P. Jackson, urging them to endorse an Eastern Shore man to successor to Colonel Amos W. W. Woodcock, who was recently appointed national director of the prohibition bureau.

Newton Jackson will be opposed by a fellow-townsman, Wm. S. Gordy, Jr., present comptroller, and Democratic candidate.

A committee composed of Colonel M. A. Humphreys, Salisbury; Harry T. Phoebus, Princess Anne, and Chas. P. Butler, Easton, was appointed to attempt to prevent a primary by obtaining the withdrawal of Jerome D. Jefferson, of Denton, who has already announced his candidacy for the G. O. P. congressional nominee.

FARM PRICES UNDER HOOVER PROGRAM OF FARM RELIEF.

President Hoover's program of farm relief comprised the creation of the Federal Farm Board and stabilizing corporations and limited tariff revision. The Farm Board was organized July 15, 1929, the Emergency Grain Corporation January 1, 1930, and the Grundy "protective" tariff act was signed June 17, 1930. The plan has now been completed.

The following prices are Chicago quotations on June 17 for July option on grains and beef compared with the same date a year ago:

	1929	1930
Wheat	105¾	98⅜
Corn	90⅞	86¼
Beef (cwt.)	13.25	12.20
Oats	43¾	36⅞
N. Y. Cotton (bale)	18.56	13.42

Prices for the same articles on June 17, 1925 (the year President Coolidge became President in his own right) and the same date 1928 (following Mr. Hoover's nomination for President) were as follows:

	1925	1928
Wheat	155⅜	136¾
Corn	112⅝	102½
Oats	50⅜	53
Beef (cwt.)	18.15	12.30
N. Y. Cotton (bale)	23.39	20.46

On Monday, June 16, the day Mr. Hoover received the Grundy tariff bill, wheat touched the low mark of 95¾ cents a bushel, a distinctly pre-war price; it dropped to that figure only on one other day since the war.

President Hoover and the stock market both "crashed" on the day the former announced he would sign the Grundy bill.

THE NEW BAY FERRY

Baltimore will not feel that its nose has been put out of joint by inauguration of a ferry service between Annapolis and Queen Anne's county which gives a new and better route between the Eastern Shore and Washington. It rejoices in every development which tends to build up communication between sections of the State separated by the Chesapeake, and it knows that whatever makes for greater prosperity for these sections helps all of Maryland.

The ferry will be a link in a splendid highway leading through Delaware from the north down the Eastern Shore to the bay. It should attract both commercial and tourist travel, and when visitors become acquainted with the many advantages the Shore offers as a place of sojourn and residence they are certain to fall victims to its charms.

And Baltimore, while it will also be brought into closer contact with the Eastern Shore by the new service, is also interested in seeing a steadily swelling tide of traffic crossing the Chesapeake. This may hasten the day when there will be general agreement that only a bridge can properiy accommodate it.—Baltimore Sun.
