Country Ministers In School Here

The largest enrollment in the history of the summer school for town and country ministers is expected to matriculate at Washington College when the fourth annual session opens the morning of September 8th, according to President Paul E. Titsworth of the Chestertown institution who will act as dean. During the six days, until the school closes at noon September 13th, an attractive program of daily and evening lectures and courses will be presentted for the benefit of rural and town clergymen and men and women church workers generally. The problems of the rural church and its adjacent community will be especially stressed and the school will be interdenominational in character, the dean announced today.

Each student will register in at least three courses and the work of the school will be a unit in a three-year cycle. For credit a minimum attendance of four periods a day will be required and a certificate will be issued for creditable work in the sessions. Students will be housed in college buildings and meals will be served at the college commons. Summer recreational facilities at the college and in Chestertown will be at the disposal of all students, it was announced.

During the morning hours courses by specialists will be given in spiritual leadership, a study of the church as the center of social life, the psychology of public presentation, a social audit and the community and current religious literature. Evening lectures will cover subjects as the responsibility of the church in the social hygiene program, rural religion of the future and rural education of the future.

Besides the dean a strong faculty has been engaged in the persons of Dr. Mark A Dawber, formerly professor of rural leadership in Boston University and now superintendent of rural work of the t Methodis Church; Dr. Roy J. Colbert, assistant professor of economics in the University of Wisconsin; Captain F. Frank Mountford, commandant of the church army of the Protestant Episcopal Church; Dr. William R. King, executive secretary of the home missions council; E Clarke Fontaine, State supervisor of high schools for Maryland's Eastern Shore, and Dr. Valeria H. Parker, director of field extension, the American Social Hygiene Association.

The following denominational organizations are cooperating with the school: The Board of Home Missions of the Methodist Church, the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church, the Maryland and Delaware Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church; the Diocese of Easton, the Wilmington Conference of the Methodist Church and the Diocese of Delaware.

U. OF D. SUMMER SCHOOL

With 321 enrolled the first day the class work was started on Tuesday morning at the University of Delaware Summer School. It is expected that more will enroll during the week and the total may reach 340 to 350. The school will last six weeks. Most of those enrolled, the opening day of the school, were Delaware school teachers.

Of the total number enrolled 290 were from Delaware and but 31 from outside the State.

The number enrolled so far is about the same as last year. Those who registered from Maryland the opening day are as follows:

Ethel S. Neal and Frances L. Turner, of Millington; Isaac Jearman and Mamie L. Webb, of Pittsville; Edna E. Faulkner and Mary I. Rigby, of Chestertown; Lola M. Dryden and Hilda E. Riley, of Snow Hill; Mrs. Ada B. Helmbreck and Emily A. Smith, of Elkton; Evelyn F. Cavender and Olive C. Oldham, of Earleville; M. Virginia Sfith, of Maryland, Bertha E. Truitt, of Sudlersville; M. Virginia Smith, of Mary-Mary E. Warren, of Berlin; Deborah A. Jackson, of Principio Furnace; Helen C. Cameron, of Port Deposit. Mrs. Josephine S. Cochran, of Warwick; R. Jeanette Reed, of Rising Sun; Mrs. Mary A. Pleasanton, of Greensboro; Mary E. Bryden, of Rock Hall and Grace E. Burris, of Cecilton.

NO CAUSE TO WORRY

There is always more or less worry connected with money. Those of us who do not have to worry about getting it, and those of us who have it are often put to a great deal of worry in hanging on to it. In addition to this no little worry is brought on by the desire to make a jitney grow where only a penny grew before.

In more recent time there has come to us the warning that money carries germs. Germ experts even went so far as to demonstrate that a bank clerk's occupation was particularly hazardous because he handles so much money. But now this dread has been despelled. After exhaustive investigation on the subject of money as germ carriers two Illinois University experts assure us that this danger has been greatly exaggerated. It seems that the metals from which coins are made act as destroyers of bacteria.

This relieves us of the worry with the handling of money. The next thing for some expert to do is to tell us how we may be relieved of our worries in trying to get hold of it.

A GREAT DISCOVERY

MORE than half a century ago, the discovery was made that emulsification helped make cod-liver oil easy to take and digest. It is the adaptation of this principle in that has made possible the widespread use and realization of the health-giving benefits of cod-liver oil.

Where there is need for cod-liver oil—Scott's Emulsion will serve that need adequately and pleasantly.

The Modern Funeral

The methods and systems in vogue a few years ago, and still adhered to by many, are no longer applicable. In this age and generation a better understanding of the duties of the funeral director has changed the old order. One of the most difficult problems confronting the modern funeral director will be solved when the public realizes that SERVICE is the principal, and in fact, only commodity which we have to offer.

The casket and funeral appurtenances are negligible, or practically so, requiring little or no expense and, in the matter of expense, consist only with the costs of production.

Service is the main consideration—the care and disposition of the body of the one that has passed on. Knowledge and ability and a readiness to relieve the burden of those who are left to mourn.
