WEDDING PLAN HITS A SNAG

"Dan Cupid" and "John Law" split spoils evenly Saturday when they went to the mat, so to speak, over two eloping Wilmington couples bent on getting married in a hurry. In other words, one of the couples, Chas. E. Powell, 24, of 811 Tatnall street, and Miss Frances E. Taylor, succeeded in getting a marriage license and having the knot tied while the prospective bridegroom, Norman L. Mumford, 21, of 304 Walnut street, of the other couple had to spend all of his available cash and all that could be rallied by the other couple, to keep out of jail.

The quartet's double marriage plans came to grief when Mumford piloted the Cupid car into this quiet Gretna Green at a rate of 50 miles an hour. "John Law," no other than State highway officer Carl G. Strom stopped the mad dash toward the altar in such an romantic manner that great big tears steamed down the checks of pretty Miss Evelyn McKnight, also of Wilmington, who saw her chances of becoming Mrs. Norman L. Muford hit the rocks.

There was consternation galore when Magistrate Olin B. Stafford imposed a fine, which with the costs, aggregated $32.90. The quartet pooled their cash resources, and found that they couldn't muster the necessary $32.90. However, the happy thought came to Powell and Miss Taylor, his sweetheart that there was no sense in spoiling their martial plans. So they proposed to the officials that they be allowed to take out a license and wed, and get it over with, so they could be free to gather up enough funds to pay their friend's fine. This was permitted and soon the Rev. Robert E. Green had tied the knot.

The newly weds—the Powells—then proceeded to take all of their jewelry and two watches to a local jeweler where they collected enough money to pay Mumford's fine.

Mumford told the magistrate he would return to Wilmington with his sweetheart early this week in order to redeem the jewlry of his friends. Meanwhile, since he has not yet secured a license. Mumford said he was uncertain as to his marriage plans but that it is probable he will be married here after the obligations to his friends are paid. He, with Miss McKnight, witnessed the ceremony that made their two friends man and wife.

Linking Ancient and Modern
Such modern and ancient industries as aviation and sheep grazing are combined in France at the Ain airport. Airmen have been warned to make a circuit of the airdrome before landing to give the shepherd time to collect his flock.

And a Costly One
"'Ere George," cried a navvy to his mate, as they passed a lecture hall, where an address on "The Era of Cleanliness" was announced, "let us go in and hear what the bloke's got to say. I always thought it was an error myself."—London Answers.

The Modern Funeral

The methods and systems in vogue a few years ago, and still adhered to by many, are no longer applicable. In this age and generation a better understanding of the duties of the funeral director has changed the old order. One of the most difficult problems confronting the modern funeral director will be solved when the public realizes that SERVICE is the principal, and in fact, only commodity which we have to offer.

The casket and funeral appurtenances are negligible, or practically so, requiring little or no expense and, in the matter of expense, consist only with the costs of production.

Service is the main consideration—the care and disposition of the body of the one that has passed on. Knowledge and ability and a readiness to relieve the burden of those who are left to mourn.
