The Kent News

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1931

"FOR years the republicans claimed the high protective tariff was a panacea for all economic ills, and would produce prosperity and prevent unemployment, but it has failed."—Senator Pat Harrison, ranking Minority Member of the Senate Finance Committee.

WITH a multiplicity of plans and proposals from many sources and many sections to end the depression, someone has been unkind enough to recall Mr. Coolidge's contribution to the solution, when he wrote, "There is a way out and it will be found. The forces of good are still superior to the forces of evil."

J. R. F., the columnist of the Cecil Whig, says, "Among the notables who appeared for the opening session of the September term of court were T. Alan Goldsborough, of Denton, Congressman from the First District of Maryland, and Thomas F. Healey, of Kent county jurist. As a lawyer I can't say, but Tom Healey knows his football and women."

"A Chestertown news writer would have us believe that Elkton's commercial ministers are infringing on the rights of the down-Sho' clerics. It seems strange that the Kent Gretna Green has not imported a few marrying parsons."

FIRE MARSHAL PROPOSED

At the regular weekly meeting of the active organization of the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company, Chief Herman Blackway announced the following appointments for the year: Captain Barber R. Bartley; first lieutenant, Richard H. Collins, Jr.; senior second lieutenant, Joseph Lewis; second junior lieutenant, Howard Pennington.

Carl M. LeCates, who was a student at the recent State Firemen's School for the fire prevention held at the University of Maryland, made a report on the course pursued, following which a fire drill of active members was held.

A committee was appointed who will appear before the City Council at an early date asking for the passage of an ordinance to co-operate with the Fire Company in naming a Fire Marshal. This marshal will be employed to inspect new and old buildings with a view to preventing fires.

EASTERN SHORE and Delaware dairymen will be represented at a conference to be held October 7 and 8, at the call of Governor Gifford Pinchott, of Pennsylvania, for the purpose of eliminating differences among producers of Maryland, New York , New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware who supply the Philadelphia market with milk. Each of the Eastern Shore counties is expected to be represented by its local representative on the board of the Inter-state Milk Producers Association. The meeting will be held in Philadelphia.

WHO OWNS THE WORLD?

Who owns the world? "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof," says the Scriptures, but if the modern trend continues its present direction, the women are likely to control it one of these days.

Women with vast wealth and unlimited power to adminster it personally, are relatively a new situation. That there are as many women ranking as millionaires as men sounds a bit strange, but it is true; and it may be still more difficult for some to realize that approximately fifty per cent of the stocks of the American Telephone and Telegraph, the U. S. Steel Corporation, Pennsylvania Railroad and number of other corporations of a like kind, are owned by women.

There are statistics which claim that 80 per cent of all life insurance is left exclusively to women and 67 per cent of the wealth left in estates is left exclusively to women. One group of investment bankers maintains that 41 per cent of the individual wealth of the nation is controlled by women today.

It may be a "man's world" as the complaint is often heard, but it is going to be very difficult to prove that it is with the Income Tax returns showing that women pay taxes on 41 per cent of the national taxable income reported by individual; sixteen more women than men report incomes of over half a million and two more women than men report incomes of a million or over.

DEAN John F. Madden and Prof. Marcus Nadier, of the New York University School of Commerce today urged the organization of a central urban mortgage bank in the United States to increase the liquidity of real estate securities and to cheapen mortgage credit for home owners.

It pays to advertise.

CHESTERTOWN HIGH SCHOOL

By RUTH FOX

The Boys' Athletic Association has been formed again this year with capable James Kreeger as the president. The vice president is Edward McMahon; Eddie Harris is secretary, while Mr. Blades takes care of the money.

The first Reflector is out and is on sale at Toulson's and Stam's drug stores.

Mothers, (this will interest fathers too) your daughters, if they are in the eleventh grade, are discovering the most economical ways of buying their clothes with not very much money (that's where the fathers' come in). Miss Kersey is teaching us how to budget our expenses and clothes. We have to plan a Summer and winter wardrobe for a girl and not spend more than sixty dollars. I don't know what the others are doing about it, but as for me—give me the bargain basements!

They are selling hot dogs in the Cafeteria now. And the students must like them for not one hot dog—nor a cold one either for that matter—was left today when Miss Mamie rang the one o'clock bell.

Miss Kersey has several very crowded cooking classes. In one class there are about twenty-nine pupils. When they all pile into the kitchen there isn't any space left. May I issue a warning to these students? They had better be careful or soon a few of them will find themselves on the stove in a big pan stewing away with the oatmeal.

Reginald Cooper is president of the Literary Club, Alice Marian Sterling is secretary while the program committee stands as follows:

Mable Smith, chairman; George Rasin, Charles Wheatley, Joe Harper and Ruth Harris.

Miss Peacock has bought four new books with the money left over from last year's history club. The books are: "Alice of Old Vencennes," by Maurice Thompson; "Roughing It," by Mark Twain; "A Collection of Marca Polo Stories," and "54-40 or Fight," by Emerson Hough.

Added to Things I Wouldn't Want To Do: Make out a schedule for C. H. S.

PATCHWORK—

The business manager of the Dragon will be selected this week...Miss Gessford is teaching hockey during her Physical Education periods...The first meeting of the Literary Club is October 14...The girls are practicing field ball regularly now...Shirley Fox makes a good chairman for her English class'..Mr. Blades has a new filing cabinet.

The boys are planning to make over the coal bin into a dressing room with showers! Just a minute and I'll explain. The coal is going to be removed and, thanks to Mr. Robinson and the School Board, it is going to be put in a new coal bin. When the boys clean out the old bin they'll have a place for the dressing room.

Monday a field ball team composed of experienced and new players went to Galena for instruction and practice under Miss Miles of the P. A. L. The girls enjoyed the visit very much and appreciated Galena's hospitality.

Wednesday Cecilton will play field ball against the Chestertown girls on our field.

On October 15th, Footlights and Fancies, the C. H. S. Dramatic Club plans to present three one-act plays in the school auditorium. Miss Peacock, Miss Riches and Miss Bryan will each coach.

FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY LAW POPULAR

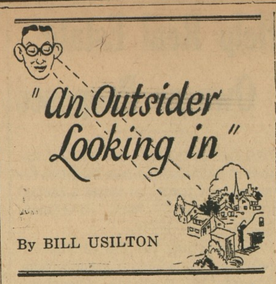
Narth Carolina, following the lead of California and other States, has adopted a Financial Responsibility Law for motorists.

The law, of the familiar pattern, provides that a person failing to satisfy a judgment shall have his license suspended until he gives proof of financial responsibility, either thru an insurance policy or a personal corporate surety bond.

This type of law is finding increasing support thruout the nation, and it is noteworthy that demand for unconditional compulsory automobile casualty insurance of the Massachusetts kind, is seldom heard. The experience of the Bay State, with its congested courts, rising accident record, faked claims and increased insurance rates has acted as a warning to other commonwealths.

One can find little fault with the Financial Responsibility Law. Its principal virtue is that it puts the responsibility and cost where it belongs—on those who cause accidents—and does not penalize the careful, responsible driver. The negligent motorist holds the financial sack, as he should.

In all probability it will not be long before an appreciable number of States have similiar laws to the benefit of the public at lorge.



By BILL USILTON

I spent feverish hours Saturday night and Sunday checking up on radio announcers and sporting pages to verify the statement that Maryland had only defeated the Alma Mater by thirteen measly points. After check and double check I was satisfied with the result, and then sat me down to ponder over the magnificent showing of the local gridders. Needless to say I was exeremely happy, and hereby tender my congratulations.

It certainly looks as though the Kibler-Ekaitis combination, with a few husky but inexperienced youths thrown in, is right there with the goods. I hope I will have more surprises as the season progresses.

Broadway at nine-fifteen in the morning is a comparatively deserted place, far different in appearance than the Broadway of Nine-fifteen after the sun has set and teeming millions are greeted by just as many lights enticing them to part with their dough. Yet at the aforementioned time on Tuesday (I mean Tuesday morning) we ran into Polk Bramble and the Mrs., in front of the Hotel Astor. I didn't know whether they were just going out to paint the town, or if they were just returning from the night before, but I was glad to see them Polk confided that he had seen the "Scandals" the night before (of course the Mrs. was along) and they were out at the moment to see the old street with the lights turned off.

I promised not to mention the meeting in this column and rushed across the street for my orange juice—and to work.

And speaking of Broadway, the other night on the way home from an outing I paused on the corner of Broadway and 14th street (Union Square, the hotbed of Communism) to listen to a real Curbstone Diplomat. I heard Mellon, Morgan, Vanderbilt and others of wealth torn limb from limb by this ungrammatical agitator, who was endowed with just enough logic to make Communism seem the Uptopia for all mankind.

Birds of this type, and in fact all propagandists, do not bother to point out the benefits of their system over our present one but are merely content to condemn what we have and imply that Communism is what is needed; but it's advantages are of such marvelous proportions that a mere man can't describe them.

And to add a touch of irony and hypocrisy, these fellows' soap boxes are always draped with an American flag to bespeak loyalty for them while they are dragging into gutters the very ideals and principles that made the land over which the flag waves; and a land to which they have come to make their living.

I always wonder why they don't go back to their old haunts if they are not satisfied with the way we do things over here. We wouldn't miss them.

****

Feeling a little charitable I will divulge the latest statistics of the New York speakeasy census for Will Collins, the Court Street playboy. All manner of reform leagues, and those of you who might be planning a trip to these parts. There are 64,000 of them (bars and all) in the Metropolitan area of New York. 23,000 of them have entertainers and orchestras; while the remaining 41,000 serve free lunches.

So, taking 8,000,000 as the total population in this area blanketed by the "talk-softies," we find that there is an open portal (with a hole in the door) for every 125 men, women, and children in New Pork City. And if you weed out those youngsters under sixteen-plenty below that should be included but I'll continue to be charitable—you will agree that most of them have to indulge in order for the joints to make a profit. Really, the whole thing is beyond mycomprehension.

A brother space-filler—I will not call him a columnist for he scoffed the word himself—takes me to task for being so sweet in my pen portraits of Famous Kent Countians; at the same time using the idea for his own sheet. He says that my characters are too puritanic to live. In some instances, if I had written about some people I can think of at the moment, I would agree.

In the same paragraph he challenges the womanhood of Kent County to stand the test of beauty against the fair denizens of his community, throwing in the rather sarcastic crack that Kent is too far North for its natives to be called belles of the South.

The gentlemen who wrote "them thar words" is that old stay-out-late Doc Clarke. And I think you'll agree that he surely has become a water logged Worcester-saucer in a hurry after using these parts for many years to steep himself with knowledge for his missionary trek to the lower reaches of the Shore.
