Frederick Female Seminary

FREDERICK CITY, MD.

The Scholastic duties of this Institution will be resumed on Tuesday, the 1st September next.

The State of Maryland appropriated $50,000 for the founding of this School, with the intention that it should be in all respects a Seminary of the highest order—a School where the daughters of Maryland and other Southern States could receive an education adapted to the advanced refinement and intelligence of her people and the institutions of the States, which should be highly moral and religious in its character, but not sectarian.

It is located in one of the most healthy and beautiful valleys in the State, and is accessable to all parts of the country by railroad and telegraph. The extensive and superb building; the spacious halls, and professors rooms—the commodious lodging rooms elegantly furnished and well ventilated,—baths of the purest mountain water—extensive Chemical and Philosophical Apparatus and all other desirable educational conveniences, a faculty well known at home and abroad for refinement, professional skill and learned ability, are some of the evidences before the public that the Frederick Female Seminary is all that the Legislature contemplated when they made the appropriation, and 12 years of unprecedented prosperity have secured for it a high reputation at home and abroad.

There are ample grounds for exercise in the open air, and the whole of its basement, (which is above ground,) is fitted up for a Gymnasium for the Young Ladies to exercise in during inclement weather. The new edifice just completed will afford accommodations for from 40 to 50 more Boarding Scholars. These improvements make it one of the most extensive and complete establishments in the U. S., and parents from a distance may rest assured that no effort will be spared to sustain the high reputation that the School already enjoys.

For Board and Tuition, including furnished Rooms, Lights, Fuel, Washing, etc., $200 per Scholastic year; payable half yearly in advance.

For Circulars and other particulars, address,

H. WINCHESTER,
aug 8, '57. President.

VALUABLE

FARM FOR SALE

The undersigned will offer at public sale, at the hotel of John McDaniel, in Chestertown, on the 30th October, instant, at 11 o'clock, A. M. all that valuable tract of land, lying in Morgan's Creek Neck

FRIDAY,

It is beautifully situated on the new road leading from Millington to Chestertown and about 4 miles from the latter place. It adjoins the lands of Joseph Newton and others, and contains more or less—the fencing is good.

The buildings are a commodious two story frame dwelling, with a kitchen and STORE HOUSE attached. This place offers rare inducements on account of it being a good place for public business—it is convenient to Churches, Schools, and Mills and within a half mile of a good landing on Chester River—the ground is all in cultivation for the first year, with the exceptions of a few acres. The neighborhood is one of the best in the county—persons desiring to purchase would do well to examine the place.—For further particulars address.

Grist and Saw

MILLS

FOR SALE.

IN view of a contemplated change in his business, the undersigned will sell at Private sale his Grist and Saw

MILLS,

with

46 Acres of Land,

attached. The Location of these Mills are highly favorable; they lie on the head waters of Fairlee Creek, in Kent county, Maryland; are within ½ mile of navigable water for grain boats, while flat boats or scows may be loaded at the door of the Grist Mill.

They are convenient to places of public worship, and a good school; and are surrounded by some of the most highly improved and best timbered farms in the county. Of the 46 acres of Land, there are 3 or 4 acres of

and two acres of thriving Chesnut,

the balance is arable and in a high state of cultivation. There are also

TWO ORCHARDS,

one Apple and the other Peach.

Both Mills are in complete and substantial order, having been thoroughly rebuilt within a few months. There are other improvements, such as a with Kitchen attached, Corn house and Stable, all in good order.

Frame Dwelling House

It may be asserted with the utmost confidence that in view of the advantages of the location of these Mills, their present complete order, and the fair and easy terms upon which they may be purchased, no better bargain has been offered for many years in this county, to the man of enterprise and small capital.

POETRY.

NEVER BE MEAN.

Be honest and upright—be loving and kind,
Whatever is noble pursue;
And seek after virtue—the gain of the mind,
What is good, and faithful, and true.
Oh! never do seek after miserly pelf,
There is something better, I ween;
Nor seek thou to live alone for thyself:
Be anything rather than mean.

Oh, never be slave to the wealthy or great,
Nor cringe to the centralized few
Who deprive man of right, with merciless hate
Would trample him in the dust too.
Ne'er be to thy fellow a truckling knave,
But let thy true manhood be seen,
And let life with thee some good purpose have,
But never have aught that is mean.

If honest, though poor, thou art noble indeed;
If love with thy actions doth blend,
Thine will be a soul-enlightening creed
Which to the world's progress will tend.
Though poor, though may'st be the light of thy
And have a most beautiful sheen; [clan,]
In all things act thou as become'th a man,
But never do ought that is mean.

JOHN BOOKER.

MOCK AUCTION

Everybody has heard of the "mock auctions," presided over by the Peter Funks, of New York city, and many a verdant provincial knows what these establishments are by sad experience.—Let us, however, illustrate their character by a graphic sketch.

A greenhorn named Mr. Jones, from Hartford, says the New York Tribune, is stopped while careering down Broadway by the sound of a stentorian voice from within crying "going!" He hears the whack of the auctioneer's mallet, and sees six gentlemen standing round a table. "Things are selling mighty cheap in there," says he, and goes in. Peter Funk holds a piece of linen in his hand, and is just on the point of knocking it down at six cents a yard: 'Fifty-five and a half yards, going at six cents!—an awful sacrifice.' 'Seven,' says Jones, eagerly. 'Eight,' says Stool Pigeon, 'Nine,' says Jones. Whack goes the mallet. 'Sold,' says Peter. 'Mr. Jones, fifty-five and a half yards of linen, at fifty-nine cents' (touching lightly on the fifty.) The attentive clerk beckons to Jones, who steps behind a mysterious desk with a screne in front. Clerk begins to make out the bill, while Jones lays down a five-dollar bank note to pay for the linen; the money goes into the drawer. The clerk hands Jones the bill which reads thus:

"Mr. Jones bought of Peter Funk 65½ yds. of Irish linen, at 59 cents per yard $22 74.'

Jones opened his eyes; clerk points to the sum, and holds out right hand with the remark; 'Balance, twenty-seven dollars and seventy-four cents.' Jones opens his mouth and essays to speak, but is dumb founded, he has hearn of these pesky mock auctions, but never dreamed that he should ever blunder into one in so respectable a place as Broadway. Mr. Jones ruminates, and pinches himself to see if he is dreaming: he is awake—he is n New York; Broadway. But Jones, tho' green, had his presence of mind: he forks the balance demanded, takes the linen under his arm, and gapes at the auctioneer until that functionary gets nervous & announces that the sale is adjourned for the day. Mr. Jones accordingly, to prevent being housed with the precious scamps, steps out and travels toward the Tombs, where he finds a Metropolitan Policeman, and tells his tale of woe. In a few moments the swindling shop and the inmates—which, meantime, have got under full head-way again—are taken all aback with an apparition—it is Mr. Jones with the linen under his arm, and a person with a brass shield on the lappel of his coat. The man with the shield takes the clerk by the nape of his neck, and starts him towards the Tombs; clerk remonstrates; explains; exclaims, and so on, but keeps moving up Broadway and through Chambers Street, when all of a sudden he concludes to disgorge the thirty-two dollars and seventy-four cents—which Jones takes, thanks the officer and vanishes.

☞ Lord Dorset writing to Lord Buckley the morning after his marriage, thus addressed him:

"Dear Buckley,—I am the happiest dog alive. "Dorset."

To which he received the following laconic reply.

"Dear Dorset,—Every dog has his day,
"Buckley."

☞ Brown is a married man. A few days since he thought of taking a trip to Paris. One of his friends meeting him in the street inquired—

"Well Brown, my boy, when are you off?"

"To-morrow."

"Do you take your wife with you?"

"No! it is a voyage of pleasure."
