PROCLAMATION
BY THE GOVERNOR.

STATE OF MARYLAND,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
ANNAPOLIS, November 11, 1864.

The time-honored custom of the past reminds us that we should appoint a day of Thanksgiving and Prayer for the blessings which Almighty God has permitted us to enjoy,

We should prepare for its observance with unabated interest, for though deploring the necessity that still constrains us to save the life of the Nation by the vigorous use of its arms, we feel that this war, lamentable as in most of its aspects it is, sorely as it at times afflicts our dearest individual interest and feelings, is still so qualified by other considerations as to prompt us to approach the Throne of Grace with even deeper devotion towards Him who has its issues in His keeping. He has suffered neither pestilence nor famine to aggravate its inflictions, but has blessed our whole country with abundant harvests and extraordinary health.

He has subjected the patriotism of our people to the severest trials, and made it all the brighter for the ordeal. He has given victory to our arms on sea and land in innumerable instances, demanding our earnest thanks for His favor, and our prayers for the gallant men that have suffered and bled therein. He has rescued our State from the ravages that have frequently threatened it, with a merciful interposition that calls for our especial gratitude. He has crowned the labors of all our industrial classes with a success calculated to make us almost forget at times that a war of such magnitude is around us. And now as the year draws towards its close, a new era dawns upon us, unfolding brilliant prospects of future progress and prosperity. For these and other untold blessings let us offer up the praise and thanksgiving so justly due.

To this end, I, Augustus W. Bradford, Governor of Maryland, have appointed THURSDAY, the 24th day of November, instant, to be observed throughout the State as a day of general Thanksgiving and Prayer, recommending to its people to abstain upon that day from all secular pursuits, and assembling in their respective places of public worship, to unite with meek hearts and due reverence in thanking God for the blessings of the past, and imploring their continuance in the future.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State, at the city of Annapolis, this 11th day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, and of the independence of the United States the eighty-ninth.

A. W. BRADFORD.

By the Governor:
WM. B. HILL, Secretary of State.
