DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Representative in the 56th Congress of the United States:

COL. JOHN WALTER SMITH,

OF WORCESTER COUNTY.

RENEWED EFFORTS are being made to secure the extradition of Mrs. Botkin to Delaware for trial.

HALLUCINATION A. PARR, has again appeared upon the political stage. This time he rises to tell a Congressional nominee that he (the nominee) is too busy to make the campaign.

E. H. BROWN, ESQ., it is stated, is unwilling to serve as a member of a committee to investigate the books, vouchers and general financial condition of Queen Anne county.

THE WINTER PROPHET is having his inning, and because snow has fallen and banked on far-away Mount Hamilton, in New Hampshire, a severe winter is predicted for Kent and Queen Anne.

DREYFUS, the martyr of rotteness in the French army will be given a rehearing and will doubtless be vindicated. Little wonder that so great a birth of justice in France should cause a revolution.

LOCAL REPUBLICAN STATESMEN are not now anxious to discuss the question of whether the Hispano-American war was conducted according to democratic or republican ethics. Of course they are not.

ON THE front page of this issue will be found a graphic description of army life in Cuba, by Mr. W. B. Freyburger, a Kent county boy who did service throughout the great fight before Santiago.

THE LITTLE HOME-MADE lovefeast which Delaware republicans enjoyed some few weeks ago has had a rude interruption. The anti-Addicks volcano has burst forth again and the fight still rages as to Addicks or no Addicks in the State.

OLIN BRYAN, ESQ., formerly of Centreville, is being spoken of as the democratic congressional candidate in the second district. Mr. Bryan is favorably known in Kent, having frequently visited Chestertown in the practice of his profession. He is a good democrat, a strong lawyer and a forceful speaker.

DR. J. B. SCHWATKA is putting up a strong campaign in the third congressional district. The prospects for a republican congressional walkover are growing beautifully less in Maryland. The democratic hosts are showing a disposition to avoid the rocks of division upon which the party has been wrecked in two campaigns.

SO, COL. JACKSON is a converted democrat? Yes, he has been converted by a tariff which enabled him to place a barrel of money into a campaign, instead of the money having been made to follow its legitimate channels of commerce into the pockets of the people. Certainly he is converted to republicanism. The same law has converted a vast percentage of factory owners who are protected at the people's expense.

HOBSON, our Merrimac hero, has floated the Spanish cruiser Maria Teresa and now states that he will raise the cruiser Colon in a week and will enter New York harbor on the prize. The Almirante Oquendo and Vizcaya are total wrecks. With two of the four fine cruisers constituting Cervera's navy in commission in the United States navy, Constructor Hobson will add new laurels to his already cumbrous crown of glory.

KANSAS TROOPS will this year vote for State officials and congressmen in mid-ocean. The Kansas regiment is now at San Francisco but will soon start for Manila. Secretary of State Bush is preparing the ballots, which will be sent to San Francisco. The State officers did not want to take chances of sending the ballots to Manila, fearing that the regiment might not arrive there by election day. With the ballots in possession of Colonel Funston, the soldiers may vote wherever they may be on election day.

IN REFERRING to future improvements in Chestertown, the ladies of the Town Improvement Association, state that they are as hopeful and as earnest in their desire for a sprinkler for Chestertown as any citizens could possibly be, and that they are hopeful, too that next summer may find the town amply protected against this year's experience with the intolerable dust nuisance. The ladies did not, however, deem it wise to divide their funds and energies this year along too many lines of work. Doubtless all citizens and the town authorities will lend their practical support to a move for a street sprinkler for next summer.

MR. LLOYD WILKINSON, secretary of the Democratic State Central Committee, after a personal review of political conditions in the first congressional district, says: "I have never seen the democratic party on the shore in better condition than it now is. I went pretty well over the district, and I am confident that I am not far out of the way when I say that Colonel John Walter Smith will be elected to Congress by one thousand majority. We shall not be caught napping this year, as we were two years ago, when Mr. Miles was unexpectedly defeated. Below the Choptank there is absolutely no disaffection in the party. In Wicomico I was assured that Colonel Jackson, although a native of that county, will make no inroads on the democratic vote. I anticipate that Worcester will give Colonel Smith the largest majority it has ever given him. The free silver sentiment in Dorchester seems to be satisfied with Col. Smith. I do not look forward to many Talbot votes for Mr. Willis, the free silver candidate. There are some Populists in Caroline, and they may vote for Mr. Willis. Queen Anne democrats were never more united. The same is true in Kent. We have made up our minds to redeem the district, and in that determination we shall succeed."

APROPOS OF THE DEATH of Winnie Davis, there is a story told of her by a resident of Philadelphia, which shows why she was held so dear by the veterans of the Confederate Army. The man who tells it was a colonel under the stars and bars, and is now a rich man. "But five years ago I wasn't," he says. "I'd lost every penny I'd had before the war, and I had not made many since. A big slump in the West had done for me, and I put up at a New York hotel with just enough to pay my bill and no more. My nerves gave way and I was taken ill. The doctor said I must have a long rest and a complete change of scene. I said I might rest in the grave and change this scene for that of the next world, but that I had no money or friends and would never leave the city any way but feet first. Well, Miss Davis was stopping at that hotel. She knew I wouldn't accept money from her, so she got the doctor to pretend he was lending me his own. I went abroad and came home cured and already on the way to wealth. It was only then that I found out to whom I owed my life. You know her book, 'The Veiled Doctor?' Well, for me there is an equivocal significance in that name."—From the Philadelphia Times

NOTES FOR THE FARMER.

Great Damage Being Done to Grain by "Weevil"—A Positive Remedy Given by Prof. W. G. Johnson.

Prof. W. G. Johnson, State entomologist, writes as follows:

For the past week or ten days my office has been besieged with inquiries for information regarding the grain moth, known sometimes as the "weevil," "white fly," "stack fly," etc. As several of these inquiries have come from Kent the editor of the TRANSCRIPT has asked me to give a brief account of the remedy used to combat it.

Many things have to be taken into consideration before a general statement can be made for the suppression and control of insects in stored grain. Much depends upon the tightness of the building or bin; the nature of the insect to be destroyed, and the intensity of the attack. At other times, it is better to begin in the field, even before the grain enters the granary or bin. This is especially true of the grain moth.

For a number of years, bi-sulphide of carbon has been a standard remedy for insects in stored grain, and in mills and ware-houses. This chemical is a foul-smelling liquid, as clear as water and very volatile, that is, evaporating very quickly. Its fumes are heavier than air, and will penetrate every crack and crevice, when used in sufficient quantities. It can be thrown directly upon grain without injuring its edible qualities and will not affect its vitality in the least. It is a powerful insecticide, the atmosphere produced by its vapors being sure death to insects, even rats and mice. I know of no instance where the slightest deleterious effects have been realized by persons applying it, although they unavoidably inhale some of the fumes.

A number of methods for the application of the bi-sulphide of carbon have been suggested and tested, but the most effective manner of applying it in granaries and bins consists in simply pouring the liquid in shallow dishes, such as soup plates or pans, and distributing them over the surface of the grain.

One pound of the bi-sulphide is all that is necessary for a hundred bushels of grain in store, and where used in an empty bin or room, one pound to every one thousand cubic feet of air space is all that is necessary. In most instances, in bins, empty rooms and store houses, double the quantity can be used.

"The chemical is not expensive when bought in large quantities. * * *

"In applying this material, great care should be taken not to have any lights or fires about the building during the operation, as the fumes of bi-sulphide of carbon are very explosive, when mechanically mixed with air. The liquid itself, however, is no more dangerous or explosive than kerosene or gasoline, but when the fumes of either of these materials become mixed with air, they are very explosive, and every precaution should be taken to prevent accident while they are being used.

"If a bin or granary containing wheat or corn is found infested with either of these insects, it should be treated immediately with bi-sulphide of carbon. It is an easy matter to estimate the number of cubic feet in a room or bin, if the exact number of bushels is not positively known. It is usually good practice to fumigate wheat or corn in the fall as soon as it is put in the bin or granary, where there is the least suspicion that either of these insects are present. Seed wheat can be completely cleared of these insects by fumigating it once in the fall and again in the spring. The grain moth goes into the field where she deposits her eggs in the wheat and corn, and the young are carried into the granary or bin after threshing or husking, as the case may be. It is imposible, of course, to tell at this time, unless the insects are seen, whether or not the grain is infested, but a careful fumigation will remove all doubt, and insure the protection of the grain from these ravenous pests. Some farmers keep their seed wheat separate from other wheat, paying especial attention to it, fumigating it in the fall and in the spring.

"While on the Eastern Shore last fall, I was informed by a number of people that some farmers in Dorchester county protected their corn from the attacks of the grain moth by covering the bottom of their granaries with a common weed, known as Jerusalem oak in that locality. This weed has a very peculiar odor, and it is supposed that the insect is repelled, and that the female will not deposit her eggs in corn or wheat where it is placed.

W. G. JOHNSON,
Md. Agr. College, College Park, Md.

Mr. F. H. Harper threshed wheat last week. Some farmers still have their crops in the stack, while one gentleman in the first district has his wheat crop in the shoch in the field.

A prominent Kent county grain buyer estimates that four-fifths of the Kent county wheat crop is being held for higher prices.

The cabbage worm has almost entirely destroyed the late cabbage crop of the county.

Mr. H. L. Boyd has already ordered five tons of cabbage the partially fill the local shortage.

Messrs. Price & Topping have further improved their Chestertown mill by putting in the latest and most approved machinery for cleaning seed wheat. This will be a great convenience to farmers who desire their wheat clear of all foreign substances, such as cockle, onions, etc.

Col. W. J. Vannort is certainly the early wheat seeding bird of the county. He seeded a portion of his crop on Wednesday of last week. He availed himself of the dry weather to seed several big bottoms.

The late potato crop is a failure. One gentleman states that from one pound seeding he harvested forty pounds, while another says he planted a peck and got less than a peach basket full.

STILL POND NOTES.

The Fall Trade of the Up-the-County Town Ready to Boom—News Items.

The large store room of F. H. Harper & Son is nearing completion. This, when finished, will make one of the finest store rooms on the peninsula. They moved in on Tuesday and have gotten the room filled with new goods. The old building was destroyed by fire on July 28th, thus making only sixty days from the time the original store was burned until they moved into their new quarters. The contractors, Messrs. Stavely & Bowers, of Lynch's, are hustling men as evinced by the rapid work done here.

Our merchants are laying in their fall and winter stock. It is surprising to note the enormous business done here. People from all parts of the county come here to take advantage of the liberal inducements offered by our merchants. At Messrs. Harper & Son's and Wm. Medders & Co., you can get almost anything you may call for in the general merchandise line, while Mr. Wm. Parr keeps a general line of harness. Isaac Robinson has always on hand a full stock of hardware and farming implements. Mr. Geo. W. Covington, a full line of drugs, and Miss D. Crossley is the headquarters for the ladies, always having in stock a full line of millinery.

Mr. Howard Parrott, from this village, who has been quite sick with typhoid which he contracted while on a visit to Baltimore, is reported much better.

Mr. Harry Price and family, and Master Harry Stanley, have returned from a pleasant visit to the mountains of West Virginia.

Mr. Frank Rasin, of Baltimore, has been visiting his father, Mr. Clinton Rasin, for the past week.

Miss Maggie Harper, of Baltimore, and Miss Annie Wilson, of Laurel, Md., have returned after a pleasant visit at Mrs. Wm. Parr's.

Mr. Geo. W. Harper and family, left recently for their home in Brooklyn, after spending the summer here. Mr. H. is prominently connected with one of New York's largest insurance companies.

The Rev. E. P. Roberts, pastor of the M. E. Church here, is giving a series of lectures on Methodism, every Friday evening in the lecture room. The lectures are highly interesting and are the result of a long and careful research on the part of the reverend gentleman. It is to be hoped they will be largely attended.

Several from here took advantage of the opportunity to visit Cambridge last Saturday, and took the Susquehanna from Betterton. OCCASIONAL.

DEATH TO WEEVIL.

I expect to have by the latter part of this week a supply of FUMA BI-SULPHIDE OF CARBON, which is certain death to weevil, fly and all grain insects. Cheap in price and Easily applied. GEORGE W. SMITH.

A CRITICAL TIME

During the Battle of Santiago.

SICK OR WELL, A RUSH NIGHT AND DAY.

The Packers at the Battle of Santiago de Cuba were all Heroes. Their Heroic Efforts in Getting Ammunition and Rations to the Front Saved the Day.

P. E. BUTLER, of pack-train No. 3, writing from Santiago, de Cuba, on July 23d, says: "We all had diarrhoea in more or less violent form, and when we landed we had no time to see a doctor for it was a case of rush and rush night and day to keep the troops supplied with ammunition and rations, but thanks to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, we were able to keep at work and keep our health; in fact, I sincerely believe at one critical time this medicine was the indirect saviour of our army, for if the packers had been unable to work there would have been no way of getting supplies to the front. There were no roads that a wagon train could use. My comrade and myself had the good fortune to lay in a supply of this medicine for our pack-train before we left Tampa, and I know in four cases it absolutely saved life."

The above letter was written to the manufacturers of this medicine, the Chamberlain Medicine Co., Des Moines, Iowa. For sale by M. A. Toulson, druggist.
