CHESTERTOWN, - JULY 18, 1891.

THE 4TH AT FORT MONROE, VA.

Situation of the Fort—Distance from Other Points—Great Winter and Summer Resort—Development of Virginia Since the Rebellion—The National Salute The New Ensign.

EDITOR KENT NEWS:—The advent of the 4th ushered in its usual gay and brilliant crowds here. They were here from the hills and the valleys, from the mountains to the sea. Excursions by all sorts of craft—by the sail and the steam yacht, by the large schooner, by the tug boat, and by the palace steamer; bent on sport, frolic, sight-seeing and health.

The fort is beautifully located on a point of land which was originally ceded by Virginia to the National Government for military purposes, and which shores are washed by the waters of Chesapeake bay and Hampton Roads, and commands a very important position in case of an attack by the enemy. By its position in the mouth of the Roads it is a protection to Richmond, Newport News and Norfolk, if forts of the present day are a protection at all with the modern steel dynamite cruiser.

The fort is only distant from Newport News about ten miles, which is situated at the mouth of the James river, and which promises to become a city of 25,000 inhabitants in the next ten years; and from Norfolk about fifteen miles; from the capes of Virginia about eighteen miles.

As a winter and summer sanatarium or resort, it takes rank with Long Branch, Saratoga, Coney Island or Cape May, and surpasses them in point of climate, being rid, in a great measure, of the extremes of cold and heat. The Hygeia hotel, which has been the main dependence for many years, is totally inadequate to the demands on it, for it is filled the year round. To meet the increased demands for more accommodation there is now being built, near the Hygeia, a modern hotel, possessing all the latest improvements and advantages in architectural design, and costing, approximately, a half million dollars. In point of fare it is not surpassed by any hotel in the whole country, as upon its tables are those good things that make the most fastidious epicurean dance with delight.

Perhaps the greatest development in the "New South" of today is nowhere more noticeable or decernible, than within a radius of fifty miles around Norfolk, Virginia. Many will be skeptical when I assert that within this circumference is located the greatest ship-building plant in the United States of America. The immense plant is located at Newport News, Virginia, on a splendid site over-looking a broad and majestic sheet of water—the James river—where its waters commingle with those of Elizabeth river, or Hampton Roads, and here on this beautiful expanse of water, is sufficient room and depth to float the combined navies of the earth, without being crowded. The selection of the Roads as the place of rendezvous for the navies of the world in 1893 is a forcible recognition of its superior fitness for such an important event. Norfolk is frequently dubbed the New York of the South. Its proximity to the sea (being only thirty miles distant) renders it the finest seaport harbor on the Atlantic seaboard. Not only has Virginia awakened from her lethergy, but the entire southland is imbued, enthused and permeated with new life and energy, and with face to the rising sun, is marching on to meet and reap that reward which awaits her. Never before, since the British yoke of tyranny has been unshackeled and thrown aside, or since those memorable words, "Give us liberty, or give us death," were proclaimed, has this beautiful southland realized what she has been capable of. Everywhere towns and cities are springing up; the hum of busy machinery is heard; the whistle makes music, and the saw and the hammer supercedes the sword and musket; thousands of miles of new railroads are built; new mines are opened and developed; and in many instances, upon the site of hard fought battles, there is today prosperous towns and cities, and the end is not yet. "The half has never been told." Contrast, kind reader, this condition with that when Lee, at Appomattox, delivered his sword to Grant, and ask yourself the question: "What meanest this?" "Why this happy change?" Your answer echoes back, saying: "The abolition of slavery with its attendant evils." The South produces today more iron than the whole country did in 1870, according to recent statistics. This is highly gratifying. It iridescent dream, judging from the past, that each succeeding decade will find us enjoying greater prosperity, greater political privileges, broader liberty and rights, breathing a truer and purer spirit of concession for those who differ with us.

For the first time in 115 years, since the foundation of our government, at 12 o'clock today, July 4th, 1891, amid sweet strains of music and the beating of drums, there was a new national salute of forty-four guns thus representing the number of States comprising our federal union.

At the same hour and minute there was a new ensign wafted to the breeze. May this emblem of increased beauty and strength inspire us to greater deeds of valor; may it be as invincible in the future as in the past, and whether foes within or foes without shall attack it, may it ever remain that ensign of which every loyal American shall feel justly proud! In the words of another, who has truly and eloquently said:

When Freedom from her mountain height,
Unfurled her standard to the air;
She tore the azure robe of night,
And set the stars of glory there!
She mingled with its gorgeous dyes,
The milky baldric of the skies,
And striped its pure celestial white
With streakings of the morning light;
Then, from his mansion in the sun,
She called her eagle-bearer down,
And gave into his mighty hand
The symbol of her chosen land! J. W. R.

Cure for Round Shoulders.

Round shoulders are almost unavoidably accompanied by weak lungs, but may be cured by the simple and easily performed exercise of raising one's self upon the toes, leisurely, in a perpendicular position, several times daily. Take a perfectly upright position, with the heels together and the toes at an angle of forty-five degrees. Drop the arms lifeless to the sides, animating and raising the chest to its full capacity muscularly, the chin well drawn in. Slowly rise up on the balls of the feet to the greatest possible height, thereby exercising all the legs and body; come again into a standing position without swaying the body backward out of the perfect line. Repeat the exercise, first on one foot, then on the other.—New York Herald.

WHEN a woman wants to drive anything out of the house she "shoos" it. A man usually boots it.

Farm Notes.

Partially rotten fruit or vegetables are generally poor feed for stock.

Fly nets should be put on the work teams in good season to protect them from flies.

Keep a few sheep at least, if you cannot keep many. If they do not pay it is because they do not have proper care.

Grooming the horse aids to keep the pores of the skin open, and in this way aids materially to keep the animals in good health.

Better go twice than to overload the team. This overloading is a most fruitful case of unsoundness. When loaded, stop often. It pays.

Do not use paris green on potatoes too frequently. It requires but a small quantity to prevent damage from beetles, which should only be applied when required.

Put wood ashes and salt where the hogs can get at them every day and hour in the day to take a lick. If pulverized charcoal and sulphur added no harm will be done.

Keep the burdocks down. They delight in plenty of food, and a plant of dock will rob the soil for yards around its base. As fas as they show their shoots above ground they should be chopped off.

Dairyman have discovered that feeding cows with cottonseed meal improves the butter for summer use, by raising its melting point and causing it to remain solid in hot weather. Spoon butter, therefore promises to be out of fashion.

A slow, easy-going horse should never feel the whip upon him except to hurt him. Ladies and tender-hearted drivers often do a great mischief to such horses by constanly flicking at them, until the horse cares no more for the whip than he does for his own tail.

It is undoubtedly true that the eggs of fowls that have laid freely all winter are less vigorous (and less fertile) than those of fowls that have laid few eggs or none at all, because the egg-laying has been a drain upon the physical stamina of the fowl, and she, herself, is less vigorous in spring; consequently her eggs are similar.

It is discouraging when even a little grain is given a cow in summer at pasture to have her begin to fatten instead of increasing the milk flow. But if the cow be of that kind, the sooner her owner discovers it the better. If graining fattens her she probably is not worth keeping without the grain. So fatten her as rapidly as possible, and get a better cow in her place.

Useful for House-keepers.

Vinegar is better than water for moistening stove polish.

Two or three rose geranium leaves put in when making crab apple jelly will give it a delicious flavor.

Sponge faded carpets with a strong solution of salt or alum. It will brighten the colors and help to keep for months.

If a cinder has found lodgment in the eyes, gently draw the lid away from the ball and pass the fold of a silk handkerchief two or three times between them.

When lemons are cheap buy a quantity, slice them and pack them in fruit cans with alternate layers of granulated sugar, when full cover the top with sugar, and seal. They will keep indefinitely.

The pungent odor of pennyroyal is very disagreeable to ants and other creeping things. If the herbs cannot be obtained, get the oil of pennyroyal and saturate something with it, and lay around places infested with these pests.

Jelley that has sugared can be used to sweeten cottage and batter puddings, and will add very much to their flavor. Where it has refused to jelley it can be used in the same way. This fruit sugar also makes very nice syrup for cakes by putting it on the stove and adding some water to it. Make it about the consistency of maple syrup.

A QUEER combination of "two" is presented in the case of a prisoner sent to the Ohio penitentiary recently. He was arrested February 22, lay in jail two months, was convicted and sentenced for two years for stealing two horses, being received at the penitentiary April 22, and his serial number is 22,212, and he had two fits on the second night after his arrival.

Boys' Footwear! Child's Footwear!

'Square Dealing Means Success.'

HONEST TRANSACTIONS!

THIS is our motto, and one we have had hung up with the people of Kent and Queen Anne's counties for the past ten years. One suit justly sold sells another, and by selling the quantity we handle, we do not have to add a big margin on any one suit, but moderate profit will aggregate in quantity, consequently we are satisfied with small margins and larger sales. We claim to deal as justly with the man who is not a judge as the one who has had the opportunity of being better posted, and in these days of perplexities, when cotton is so blended with wool that even the closest scrutiny fails to reveals the fact, then it is even more important to buy where such an announcement as we make is fully substantiated, for our effort in business is to make permanent trade, and not sell a man one suit and lose him when in want of another. Come and see us and if we don't show you a line of goods to suit you, and give you prices in harmony with a limited purse, it will not be our fault, for we have visited the largest manufactures in the country and ground them down to the lowest possible prices on a line of goods that cannot fail to please the most fastidious, consequently we are in a position to please you.
