LOCAL MATTERS

Serious Outbreak of Cattle Disease—With thousands of cattle infected with foot and mouth disease throughout the midlands of England the country is faced with the most serious outbreak it has known in 30 years.

Don't Want Women On The Jury—Queen Anne's women don't want the law passed legalizing the placing of women on the juries, according to a poll taken by the Centreville Observer. Of the 127 ballots cast, 109 opposed jury service and 18 were in favor of it.

Feeding Corn To Hogs—How can the American farmer best dispose of the surplus 500,000,000 bushels of corn? This question, so vital to the great corn belt of the Middle West, and correspondingly important to the rest of the nation, is answered by the Secretary of Agriculture H. C. Wallace, who recently stated that corn ought to be fed to hogs in larger quantities than at present.

Schedule Being Arranged—The Shore Transit Co.'s line of auto busses, it was recently announced, would have its schedule arranged by the opening of the spring season, calling for three daily trips between Salissbury and Elkton. A big item of the system's maintenance cost will be the revenue paid the state, each bus paying $2300 a year for operating over the 210 miles of its route, and the fleet of 25 a yearly total of $57,500 for bus tags, according to the report.

Rich Neck Farmers Buy Stallion—With a view of raising a type of horse more adapted to present and future farming conditions, a group of aggressive Rich Neck farmers have purchased from the Piney Creek Stock Farm in Cecil county the dark chestnut Percheron stallion, Maxima 98928. Those who made the purchase were: W. I. Walker, J. T. Smith, C. E. McKee, J.B. Newnam, R. W. Robinson, J. C. Smith, Walter Wright and James P. Brown. Maxima is reputed to be one of the finest looking stallions ever owned on the Eastern Shore.

Third National Bank Elects Director—At the meeting of the Board of Directors of The Third National Bank of Chestertown on Thursday, Mr. Thomas G. Wroth was elected a director to succeed Mr. W. W. Hubbard, who resigned. Mr. Wroth is one of our most successful and conservative business men and no doubt will be quite an addition to the business interests of that institution. The bank is to be congratulated upon securing Mr. Wroth as a member of its Board of Directors. He has the full confidence of the people of the county.

SAD ACCIDENT IN CHESTERTOWN

Youngest Son Of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney P. Townshend, Colliding With Wall On Washington Avenue, Dies In Baltimore Hospital

One of the saddest and most unusual accidents that have occurred here in recent years happened last Friday, when Henry Beck Townshend, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney P. Townshend, of Chestertown, collided with the wall at the foot of what is known as Eliason's Hill, Washington avenue and Maple avenue, stricking himself a teriffic blow in the head, which caused concussion of the brain and resulted in his death later in the Maryland University Hospital, Baltimore on Thursday morning at 10.30 o'clock.

It seems that the little fellow was coasting on the hill, while on his way to school when the accident occurred. Although terribly stunned, the little fellow showed real courage and responded to the call of the school bell and took his accustomed place in his class. His teacher, Miss Fannie Stuart, excused him from study and sent him to his home, upon noticing his suffering condition.

His condition, which at first was not considered serious, grew worse and a physician, Dr. H. B. Simmons, was called in to see him. Gradually growing worse, he was taken to the Baltimore Hospital mentioned above, where an operation was performed on Monday in an effort to save his life. For a day or so some hopes were held out for his recovery, but he failed to rally and gradually sank.

Henry Beck Townshend was a little fellow of particularly bright and attractive ways and was the general favorite of all who knew him. He was particularly popular in the school room, both with the teacher and among his little companions. With his lessons he was particularly interested and seldom missed a day from school.

His parents and family, in their time of deepest sorrow, have the sympathy of the whole community.

The remains were brought home on the evening train on Thursday and interment will take place today, Saturday, at 11 a. m., from the home, conducted by Rev. C. L. Atwater, interment in Chester cemetery. Undertaker C. L. Dodd. The bearers will be: Rolph T. Townshend, John E. Townshend, Belt Townshend and Milton Townshend.

Meeting Of Kent Produce Exchange

The second annual meeting of the Kent County Produce Exchange will be held next Tuesday, Feb. 28, at 1.30 p. m. in the Court House.

The Produce Exchange is only two years old, yet has accomplished much. Its influence in regard to the tomato industry of Kent County has been felt sharply since its organization. During the 1920 season the effect of the Produce Exchange was felt on the price of tomatoes, while during 1921 the Produce Exchange discouraged the growing of tomatoes for the purpose of helping the overstocked market to be cleared up, and thus prepare for a goodmarket during 1922. In addition, the Produce Exchange assisted farmers in marketing 4000 pounds of wool, in the form of blankets and motor robes, at a saving of about 40 cents per pound over the market price of wool. Other county-wide matters of importance have been taken up by the Produce Exchange.

The annual meeting will take up the growing of tomatoes this year and discuss the price situation. It is planned to have an outside speaker address the meeting. Marketing of wool for 1922 will also be taken up. Only members of the Produce Exchange are invited to attend this meeting, however, any farmer desiring to join can do so by paying dues of one dollar. This can be done at the meeting.

Grange Notes

A meeting of Kent County Pomoan Grange was held at Kennedyville Saturday, Feb. 18. Quite a number were present and an interesting progrm rendered. Resolutions were unanimously adopted favoring the passage of the Anti-Race Track Gambling Bill now before the Legislature. The secretary was instructed to communicate the request of the grange to the Kent County members of the Legisalture, urging them to support the bill. Grangers were asked to write letters to the members from Kent, making a personal appeal to them to vote to abolish race track gambling in our state.

Believing that degree work is an aid to building a strong organization, a committee was appointed by Worthy Master Leonard Price to arrange for giving the Fifth Degree to Kent Co. members. Interesting subjects were discussed by members. Some very helpful suggestions were made by our State Lecturer, Mrs. Harry Williams, who hopes to hold a conference of lecturers when weather and roads permit.

A fine program, consisting of music, recitations and discussions was then rendered.

Mr. Jervis, of Still Pond Grange, reported that from old records he had found that the first subordinate grange in the state was at Kennedyville and the first state grange meeting was held at Still Pond.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE

In the spring, or as soon as the weather shows signs of approaching spring, there appears all kinds of birds; birds that catch the first worm and birds that catch the first swim. Of the latter Washington College claims three. Messrs. Sparklin, E. Kaiser and Tim Crowe opened the swimming season in Chestertown on Wednesday, Feb. 22. The weather was very mild and approached very nearly the ideal swimming weather. Yet, despite the warmth of the day, several people, who had gathered around the swimmers, slightly shivered when they saw the boys jump off the steamboat wharf and thought of the ice breaking up on the river only the previous Sunday. The fellows dived off the wharf twice and then hurriedly came out with skins the color of beets. When asked if the water was cold, they answered, "No, we were too cold to feel the water."

The Adelphia Literary Society met in one of the class rooms on Monday, Feb. 20. Mr. K. Sungawa offered a violin solo. Impromptus were delivered by Messrs. Wright, Sparklin and Bischopf. Mr. C. Bankard had a very appropriate reading for the week in the subject, "George Washington's Birthday." A very good "Moonbeam" was offered by Mr. R. J. Bounds. Mr. Lewis Sasser II applied for membership in the society.
