FINE CRAFT JOINS LOCAL FLEET

"Claytonia," Crosby Built Yacht, The Property of Captain Albert Hartman, Arrives Here After 800-Mile Voyage

On Friday evening last, after a voyage of about eight hundred miles, the "Claytonia," the property of Capt. Albert Hartman, who recently purchased the Sappington home across the river, dropped anchor in the quiet and peaceful waters in front of the owner's home.

The "Claytonia" had recently been purchased by Capt. Hartman from a party at Quincy, Mass., not many miles from Boston, and Capt. Hartman, accompanied by Captain A. L. Moisson, who spent 12 years in the U. S. Navy, and 12 years in foreign service, and Mr. George White, an employe of Capt. Hartman's, went to Quincy and brought the craft to the local waters. The voyage was a long and tedious one, but was not without considerable pleasure. Two hundred miles of the voyage was around the coast, where some blustry weather was encountered, but the rugged little boat stood up manfully under the heavy pounding which, quite frequently the boat was compelled to endure.

The crew of the "Claytonia" were met at Chesapeake City by Messrs. Wm. G. Smyth, R. Hynson Rogers and Hugh Hartman, who accompanied the owner home. Messrs. Smyth and Rogers are quite familiar with the waters of the Eastern Shore and had no difficulty in piloting the "Calytonia" to her new home. The Claytonia makes the third craft in the Chestertown fleet of sailboats, the other two being owned by Messrs. R. Hynson Rogers and Wm. H. Truslow and son.

Unlike the other two, however, the "Claytonia" is equipped with a 10 horsepower, 4 cycle Ideal engine, to be used when the wind is not blowing, which pushes her ahead at the rate of about six miles an hour. With sails up and with a good breeze, she booms along at the rate of about ten miles or better an hour.

The "Claytonia" is a neat craft, sturdily built, and can stand considerable rough weather. The boat is fully equipped for long voyages with sleeping quarters and comfortable room in which to stay during the rough weather. The boat is what is known to those familiar with boat-building as a Crosby-built boat, being 34 feet long, 11.6 feet wide and drawing three feet of water. The "Claytonia" will make a most valuable addition to the local fleet of yachts and will afford Captain Hartman and family considerable recreation and pleasure.

COLOSSAL ENGINE ARRIVES

To Be Placed In Radclice Mill, Chestertown, Shortly

The mammoth engine which will furnish the power for Radcliffe Mill filled an entire car and arrived here Tuesday. This engine will develop 85 horsepower and is the largest engine of its kind in Kent county. It will burn oil or gasoline either. Mr. Brooks' 35-horsepower engine, which he has used at the mill for seven years has been sold. It gave universal satisfaction and runs "like a clock" now, but Mr. Brooks' mill has grown to such an extent in recent years that the engine would not develop the power to drive the great amount of new machinery which has been installed satisfactorily.

Mr. Brooks has a large force erecting a foundation for the new engine, which will be put in place before the other engine is ungeared.

Few people realize the magnitude of Mr. Brooks' business, which has developed to the extent that makes necessary an engine of this capacity. Mr. Brooks is a hustler and a man of progressive ideas. When he sees the need of something in his business he loses no time in installing it. He employs about half a dozen men steadily, and the mill never closes, except for repairs of some kind, or the installation of some new machinery. Enterprises such as Mr. Brooks' are a convenience and a necessity in a community where agriculture is the basis of the life and industry.
