LINCOLN MEMORIAL ORATION.

The memorial oration on the life and character of the late President Lincoln, by the Hon. George Bancroft, for which arrangements were some time ago made by Congress, was delivered in the Hall of Representatives in the national Capitol on Monday. The audience was a very distinguished one, and included President Johnson and his Cabinet, the members of both houses of Congress, the Chief and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, the foreign ministers, officers of the army and navy, Governors of States and many others of prominence, besides an immense throng of ladies.

Hon. George Bancroft arose and commenced his address by a reference to "God in History," saying that the deeds of time are governed, as well as judged, by the decrees of eternity, and that the fleeting existence bends to the immovable omnipotence, which plants its foot on all the centuries, and has neither change of purpose nor repose. He then proceeded to review the marvelous growth of the American republic, and noticed various prophecies as to the consequences of slavery, which appeared from time to time in our early history.

The Speaker then reviewed the Presidential campaign of 1860, the election of Mr. Lincoln, and gave a detailed account of the President's origin, early years, life, education, progress, and inauguration as the President of the United States.

He next referred to the commencement and progress of the rebellion, and the conduct of Great Britain in relation thereto, which he condemned; alluded in complimentary terms to Russia and China; and passing to the consideration of the position of France on the occasion, alleged that the act of recognizing the rebel belligerents was concerted in Paris. In this connection he spoke of the origin of the Monroe doctrine, and said the desire of Louis Napoleon was to erect in North America a buttress for imperialism which would transform the Republic of Mexico into a secundo geniture for the house of Hapsburg.—A free State once properly constituted should be as undying as its people; the Republic of Mexico must rise again.

The speaker then referred to the action of the Pope of Rome during the rebellion, in being the only one among temporal sovereigns who recognized the chief of the Confederate States as a President, and his supporters as a people.

The emancipation proclamation of President Lincoln was next eulogised, and the deep interest he manifested in the successful progress of the war, and his earnest desire for a re-united Union highly commended. If words of mercy, uttered as they were by Lincoln on the waters of Virginia, were defiantly repelled, the armies of the country, moving with one will, went as the arrow to its mark, and, without a feeling of revenge, struck a deathblow at rebellion.

The assassination was then referred to, and the speaker said that not in vain has Mr. Lincoln lived, for he has helped to make this Republic an example of justice, with no caste but the caste of humanity. The assassination of Mr. Lincoln, who was so free from malice, has by some mysterious influence struck the country with solemn awe, and hushed, instead of exciting, the passion for revenge. It seemed as if the just had died for the unjust.

In his character, Lincoln was through and through an American. He is the first native of that region west of the Alleganies to attain the highest station; and how happy it is that the man who was brought forward as the natural outgrowth and first fruits of that region should have been of unblemished purity in private life, a good son, a kind husband, a most affectionate father, and, as a man, so gentle to all. As to integrity, Douglas, his rival, said of him. "Lincoln is the honestest man I ever knew."

The habits of his mind were those of meditation and inward thought rather than action. He excelled in logical statement more than in executive ability. He reasoned clearly, his reflective judgment was good and his purposes were fixed; but, like the Hamlet of his only poet, his will was tardy in action; and for this reason, and not from humility or tenderness of feeling, he sometimes deplored that the duty which devolved on him had not fallen to the lot of another. He was skillful in analysis, discerned with precision the central idea on which a question turned, and knew how to disengage it and present it by itself in a few homely, strong old English words that would be intelligible to all.

The speaker closed his address with a glowing tribute to the "character of Mr. Lincoln."

TWENTY-SEVEN CHILDREN DROWNED.—The Dayton (Ohio) Journal of the 9th says:—"The engineer on the Dayton and Michigan railroad yesterday learned at Wapakoneta that 27 children were drowned in the reservoir at Celena on Wednesday. They were attending school in the vicinity of the reservoir, and at noon all the scholars but two—twenty-seven in number—went on the ice to slide, when it broke with them, the whole party drowning before help could reach them.

CORN & OATS.

BERGER & BUTZ'S EXCELSIOR SUPER-PHOSPHATE OF LIME,

—AND—

Berger & Butz's

AMMONIATED

SUPER-PHOSPHATE OF LIME.

WE OFFER TO THE FARMERS OF KENT and the adjoining counties, these well known FERTILIZERS, for the Spring seeding. BERGER & BUTZ'S EXCELSIOR SUPER-PHOSPHATE OF LIME has for the last five years undergone the most rigid tests upon all crops, and has never been excelled.—It not only acts immediately upon the crop but is certain to produce a heavy growth of grass. BERGER & BUTZ'S AMMONIATED SUPER-PHOSPHATE OF LIME we guarantee to be a good article.

We give a certificate from one of the most reliable Farmers in New Jersey, showing the effect upon Wheat, Oats and Corn:

HOPEWELL TOWNSHIP, Cumberland Co., N.J., August 7th, 1860.

MESSRS. BERGER & BUTZ:

I have now used your Super-Phosphate of Lime for two seasons. Last fall I used it upon part of my wheat, which has turned out as well as where I manured with good barn-yard manure. This last spring I put in my oats with it; the oats were sown upon poor ground, still the yield was most excellent, far better than I had any reason to expect.

I also used it upon Corn alongside of another well known fertilizer. The drought has been very severe this summer, and the corn is therefore backward, still your phosphate has done very much better than the other, and does not seem to have suffered so much from the drought. I consider your Super-Phosphate of Lime not only a good manure, but better than any other fertilizer I ever used.

Yours, respectfully,

ROBERT JONES.

We will say to Farmers and Dealers, that by the introduction of new and improved machinery into our factory, our article will be much better prepared than heretofore, and if it is not found to be in every way equal to the original standard we will not demand one dollar for our article.
