THE BUFFET CAR.

How Elaborate Menus Are Prepared at Short Notice.

Washington Star.

The room was not more than six feet by three, but the colored servitor in neat white apron and cook's cap seemed to get along as comfortably as if he had the kitchen of a hotel to operate in. Plates and dishes as well as tin pans and other utensils, were hung upon the walls, and a gas stove that was the ultimate expression of the "multum in parvo" occupied only a small part of the available space. There were convenient lockers for various sorts of edibles in cans, and behind the glass of a cupboard were attractively displayed oranges, bananas and grapes. The presiding genius was performing his culinary duties as composedly as if the train were not rocking with a speed of 60 miles an hour.

"Yes, indeed!" he said, in response to a question from a Star writer, "dar is mo' money in runnin' a buffet than in a dinin' car. In de fus' place, when de passenger pays a dollar in a dinin' car he's a-goin' to get his dollar's wuf of grub afo' he's t'roo. But after he's paid a dollar fer grub from de buffet he's still hungry. Dat's 'cause de buffet is a la carty, an' de dinin' car is table-de-hoty.

"Yes, sir! dat's jus' about it. Anudder p'int is dat de buffet only cooks what you order, so dat there ain't nothin' wasted. It looks kinder cramped in here, but there's lots of room. I kin cook as fine a meal right here as you can get in a dinin' car. You'll notice I've got in de top of dis gas stove four receptucles. Dey is lined wid porcelain. Dis one is fer coffee, an' dis udder for tea. The udder two is fer hot water—to do eggs an' sich like. Underneath am ovens fer heatin'.

"You don't see how we get up such a 'laborate bill of fare? Well, sir, there ain't no myst'ry about dat. It's 'cause so many things come in cans. Mos' folks don't 'magine how many sorts of vittles kin be got canned. You'd nebber s'poseed, p'raps, dat de breezy beef you hed for lunch was out of a tin. Here' de bill of fare, now: Breezy beef, chicken soty, yeal soty, Vienna sausage and calf's tongue wid souce pickanty.

"All of dem t'ings comes in cans. Here's tomatter soup, veg'tubble soup, bullion an' clam chowder. They are all canned. So dat you see we don't hab to cook so very much. Eberyt'ing is in tins nowadays, from Boston baked beans to milk. Fresh fruits, eggs, cheese, an' even charlotte rushes we git in Washington. Oysters, too, jus' the same way. I open 'em right here, an' serve 'em on de half-shell or in any udder way dat may be wanted. De shrimps fer today's salid comes canned.

"There ain't hardly any fus'-rate hotel dat has a longer bill of fare dan dis buffet. Here's cold meats—roast spring chicken, roast beef, ham or tongue, sardines an' wild boar's head. How's dat? We buy e'm in Washington. I do all de caterin' fer dis car—dat is, fer fresh fruits, veg'tubles, an' so fo'th. I buy de bread an' butter in Washington ebery day. De canned t'ings am purchased by de company.

"As fer liquors, there ain't nothin' we havn't got. Here's five kinds of champagne, two kinds of white wine, two clarets, one Burgundy, one hock, an' whiskey, rum, gin, brandy, cream de menthy, ale, beer, cordials, ginger ail an' sody water. Cocktails are put up in little bottles. Drinks ain't cheap on de buffet car. You pay $125 a pint for American champagne an' 25 cents fer a cocktail. I dessay de seegars ain't wuf de charges. But when a gen'l'man wants a drink on a train, he wants it bad, an' is usually willin' to pay fer it. Of co'se we have real imported champagne, too. It only costs $2.00 a pint. We keep de wines in an icebox. On Sundays we ain't supposed to sell drinks, but we do it jus' de same. De company has a rule agin it, but it's only a fake. If anybody complains, de buffet man is laid off fer a week or two. He gits a holiday fer punishment. Yes, sir; de buffet has a license, an' it is good in any State in de Union."

To Love-Bewildered Girls.

Elizabeth Stuart Phelps writes:. This one thing I write unto you, love-bewildered girls: All men make good lovers while they are about it. The expressions of courtship go for little. How many roses does he bring? How many kisses does he give? These are not the questions. Are his vows ardent? Are his letters affectionate? These matter less than it would be possible to make you believe. But what kind of a son is he to an aged or lonely father? Is he patient with an unattractive, an ailing, even a nagging mother? Do you know how he treats his sister?

One Little Word.

"When I broached matrimony, she dismissed the subject with a word."

"What did she say?"

"Yes."—Chicago Mail.

He Knew.

"Name 12 animals of the polar regions," said the Professor, and the despairing student wrote:

"Six seals and six polar bears."—

PERFECT THROUGH SUFFERING.

God never would send you the darkness
If He felt you could bear the light;
But you would not cling to His guiding hand
If the way were always bright.
And you would not care to walk by faith
Could you always walk by faith.

'Tis true, He has many an anguish
For your sorrowful heart to bear,
And many a cruel thorn-crown
For your tired head to wear.
He knows how few would reach heaven at all
If pain did not guide them there.

So He sends you the blinding darkness
And the furnace of seven-fold heat;
'Tis the only way, believe me,
To keep you close at his feet.
For 'tis always so easy to wander
When our hearts are glad and sweet.

Then nestle your hand in your Father's,
And sing, if you can, as you go;
Your song may cheer some one behind you
Whose courage is sinking low
And, well, if your lips do quiver,
God will love you better so.

Killing English Sparrows.—At least two hundred sparrows, says the Annapolis Evening Capital, were strewn about the State House grounds to-day. Janitor Boucher said English sparrows been such a source of annoyance he determined to fill the crevices in the front of the capitol with cayenne pepper. He supposed the birds had partaken of too much pepper and in a bewildered way had killed themselves by blindly flying against the building and trees. Others had been attracted by the electric lights and were found dead in other parts of the city.
