The Kent News.

CHESTERTOWN:

SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 21, 1866.

THE NEWS.

A Washington despatch says that "it can be positively stated that the Attorney General is busily engaged in arranging for the speedy trial of Jefferson Davis.—He will be arraigned before one of the Circuit Courts of the United States upon the charge of high treason. The attorney General holds that there is no such thing as constructive presence in the crime of treason, and on this account the trial will probably be either in Tennessee or Virginia. William M. Evarts is the only gentleman whose name has yet transpired who is to assist the Attorney General in the prosecution, though several other eminent lawyers have been retained by the Government. Charles O'Connor and James T. Brady, of New York, William B. Reed, of Pennsylvania, and a lawyer of Mississippi, are to conduct the defence. The intention of the authorities is to secure a speedy trial, not only for Davis, but for several other noted Rebels."

There seems to be a general expectation of the cholera in this country the coming summer. The New York board of health on Friday declared its opinion that pestilence is impending, and agreed to request the Governor to issue a proclamation announcing the approach of the epidemic, preparatory to the assumption of unusual powers by the board.

The naval appropriation bill has finally passed both houses of Congress, and contains a provision for purchasing from the State of Maryland the Governor's house and grounds, and other grounds, and for erection of extensive buildings for the accommodation of the students and other uses of the institution. The passage of this bill sets at rest the agitation for removing the Naval Academy from Annapolis to some other site.

The President on Monday nominated to the Senate Henry S. Stansbury, of Ohio, as Assistant Justice of the United States Supreme Court in the place of Justice Catron, deceased. As the House has passed a bill, which is now in the Senate, reorganizing the court, and which only provides for eight judges besides the Chief Justice, the confirmation of his nomination will probably depend upon the fate of the bill in the Senate.

The Tennessee laws prohibit free negroes from keeping tippling saloons or billiard saloons. In the Common Court at Memphis several of these cases have lately been brought up. The counsel for the defence pleaded the Civil Rights bill in abatement, contending that all were on equal footing. Judge Hunter reserves his opinion. It is thought that a test may be made of these cases.

President Johnson was serenaded on Wednesday afternoon last by a deputation of soldiers and sailors, in acknowledgment of his recent order in relation to their employment in the public service. In response to the courtesy the President spoke with his usual freedom and earnestness in defence of his reconstruction policy, and in denunciation of those who oppose it.

Clement C. Clay has been released from imprisonment at Fortress Monroe, on parole.

THE MASSACRE IN PHILADELPHIA.—Mr. Christopher Dearing, who, together with his family, eight in number, were murdered in Philadelphia on the 7th instant, resided for two or three years on the farm now owned by Capt. John Walmsly, near Travilla's landing, in this county, and removed from there to Philadelphia some nine or ten years ago. The murderer began his work in open daylight, while Mr. Dearing and his neice were absent from home, and before their return he had dispatched Mrs. D. and the five children in the house, only one of the family, a little boy, named Willie, who was not present, escaping the terrible massacre. Mr. D. and his neice returning home before the miscreant had time to complete his search of the house, he laid wait for and killed them also. Mr. Dearing was a dealer in cattle, and the murderer supposed he was in the habit of keeping large sums of money in his house, but only a few hundred dollars were there at the time, several thousand dollars having been deposited in bank a day or two before. The name of the murderer is Antoine Probst. He has been arrested, and confesses his implication in the crime, but asserts that he had an accomplice. This is one of the most horrible butcheries on record.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—It having been reported that the public schools in this county would shortly be suspended, for a time, for want of means to continue them, we are requested by the President of the Board of Commissioners to state that he expects to be able to keep them in operation throughout the scholastic periods of the year. The law directs that they be closed during the months of July and August in every year.

AFTER Monday next, April 23d, the steamer Commerce will leave Philadelphia for Sassafras river at 2 o'clock P. M.

COURT.—The April term of the Circuit Court for this county commenced on Monday last, before the Hon. John M. Robinson, Judge; William S. Lassell, Esq., prosecuting. The following gentlemen compose the Juries:

Grand Jury—Geo. W. Spencer, foreman, Isaac Rogers, Isaac Gale, Alfred Crisfield, Joseph Morris, Simon Wickes, Nathaniel W. Comegys, Jacob Highley, James Glenn, Stephen Boyer, John S. Hurlock, John Duyer, David C. Blackiston, James R. Jones, John M. Hudson, Benjamin H. Startt, David Jones, John T. Dodd, John R. Gray, John Greenwood of Wm., William B. Wilmer, Isaac Parsons, James H. Hurtt.

Petit Jury—Thomas I. Britton, Franklin Dyre, William C. Meginniss, Robert S. Griffith, Wm. T. Spry, Joshua Clark, Pere L. Lynch, Jacob Sutton, William Janvier, John Gale, Jas. A. Roseberry, Wm. W. Parks, Henry T. Jump, George N. Hines, Thomas Baker, Samuel Clark, Thomas Lusby, Geo. B. Westcott, Geo. W. T. Perkins, Thomas W. Ringgold, Samuel W. Caleb, William T. Adkinson, Horatio Beck, Richard W. Jones, James H. Edes.

The following cases have been disposed of:—Thos. E. Norris, assault and battery on J. H. Jump, fined $5 and costs. W. Hudgins, presentment for an assault on R. Smyth, not guilty. John McFee, assault and battery on Samuel Colwell, fined $1 and costs. Thomas Stewart, presentment for an assault and battery on Joseph L. Merch, not guilty. State vs. Dennis Vickers, appeal from a Judgment by Jas. E. Blackiston, Esq., imposing a fine for shooting trespassing hogs on the Sabbath—judgment reversed. S. W. Comegys, tried for obstructing the public road, was fined 25 cents and costs. W. S. Salisbury, assault and battery on J. S. Wood, fined 25 cents and costs. Dennis Vickers vs. John Judefind—appeal from Blackiston, rendering damages—judgment reversed. Wm. Dugan, assault on Henry Blake with a knife, fined $10 and costs. Thos. Senickson, obstructing public road, fined $1 and costs. Eliza Scott, presentment for persuading a bound apprentice to Horatio Beck to abscond from his master; not guilty. John B. Kilpatrick, assault and battery on John Kilpatrick; fined $1 and costs. John Kilpatrick, assault and battery on John B. Kilpatrick; fined 25 cts. and costs. Jos. O. Rasin, assault and battery on Wm. Conyer; fined $20 and costs. Chas. Berryman, assault and battery on Jas. Murray; fined $1 and costs. Alfred Jervis and Ellwood S. Eaton, presentment for keeping a gambling table; not guilty. W. J. Hurlock and Sam'l G. Smith, presentment for illegal voting in 1863; guilty, and fined $10 and costs each.

Wm. Ellis vs. Geo. E. Hurtt; jury trial. Suit to recover damages for the loss of a house by fire. Vickers for pl'tff; Hynson and Lassell for def't. This case was commenced Thursday morning, and had not been concluded at the time of our going to press yesterday afternoon.

It is expected that Court will last the whole of next week.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE DEATH OF THE LATE JUDGE RICAUD.—Tribute of Respect.—In the Circuit Court, on Tuesday, the following resolutions, adopted at a meeting of the Bar on the previous afternoon, were submitted by Judge Chambers, who accompanied them with some appropriate and feeling remarks:

Resolved, That the members of this bar deeply feel the loss they have sustained by the lamented death of the late Hon. James B. Ricaud, whose uniform urbanity and cheerful deportment always assured to us the most agreeable intercourse.

Resolved, That we most gladly pay to the memory of our departed brother the just tribute of respect to which he had so fully entitled himself, by a life-long exhibition of intelligence and integrity, in all the various departments in which he had served at the Bar, in the Senate of the State, in the halls of Congress, and on the Bench, as well as in the many positions he has held, not attractive of public notice, or productive of pecuniary gain, but yet fair fields for the exercise of true and liberal Christian benevolence and charity.

Resolved, That in these several situations, to which his intellectual, moral and social merits, and the consequent estimate of a confiding community had introduced him, our deceased friend and brother discharged his duties with marked ability and integrity.

Resolved, That in the calm, serene, resigned and peaceful close of a long and lingering illness, so beautifully exhibited by our deceased brother, we gratefully recognize the appropriate fruits of a life professedly for many years devoted to the duties of a Christian man—a child of God.

Resolved, That we sincerely condole with the afflicted family of Judge Ricaud, and tender them our warmest sympathy in their deep distress.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be communicated to the family of the deceased.

After the reading of the resolutions, George Vickers, Esq., made a short address, in which he spoke of the many ennobling qualities of the deceased, and the loss sustained by the Bar and the community in his death. He was followed by Judge Robinson, who also spoke very feelingly of the deceased, concluding by directing the resolutions to be entered upon the record, and adjourning the Court in respect to his memory.

RAILROAD MEETING.—The meeting at the Court House on Wednesday afternoon was rather slimly attended. We learn that a committee was appointed to solicit subscriptions to the small amount of stock remaining untaken, and the meeting adjourned to meet at a future day, of which due notice will be given.

Correspondence of the Kent News.

TRAPPE, April 18th, 1866.

Messrs. Editors:—We have read with so much interest the communications which have recently appeared in your valuable paper, in which the local improvements, &c., of the respective neighborhoods of Bell-Air and Worton have been so charmingly presented to your readers, that we are almost deterred, from a conviction of incompetency, to enter the gladiatorial contest, and maintain against such odds the rightful claim of this section to equal, if not greater advancement. "Faint heart never won fair lady," is a received maxim, we are informed, of the juvenile portion styled "Young America," the sentiment of which we are determined to adopt in this instance, regardless of consequences.

But a few years ago, the entire lands, with one or two exceptions, bordering on either side of the public road from Perkins' (now Beck's) mill, to Shaw's (now Connelly's) mill, were one uninterrupted waste or commons. The sole denizens of this extensive tract were the rabbit, the fox and the owl. Its chief productions were blackberries, sedge and gallinippers. The soil was so poor that an acre would not healthfully sustain a killdeer. The general appearance of the country would have impressed the conviction upon a stranger that it was abandoned, and that its population had from necessity been obliged to leave it, to escape starvation. But how changed is the aspect of affairs? These sterile wastes have been reclaimed, and rendered highly productive by the native energy and skill of its industrious inhabitants. The rabbit, the fox, the sedge and the blackberry have almost entirely disappeared from our midst; whilst our midnight slumbers are no longer disturbed by the melancholly notes of the screech-owl. Fine mansions, commodious barns and stables, beautiful lawns, adorned with ornamental trees, nice fences, extensive orchards, the general introduction of the most approved agricultural implements, the unsparing use of fertilizers, are some of the many achievements of which this section can proudly boast, during the last fifteen years. Its male population is eminently distinguished for intelligence, industry, sobriety, hospitality, liberality, and political fidelity to the Constitution of their country; whilst the fair sex are unsurpassed in their personal charms, and those mental and moral adornments which endear and beautify domestic life.

During the last few years a very handsome and commodious Church, called Hynson's, has been erected near the intersection of the main road to Rock Hall and the new road which runs toward Bell Air. Another new road, parallel to the former, running from the Broad Neck to the Bell Air road, intersecting the latter near the gate of Josias Ringgold, Esq., will be opened in a few weeks. The traveling community are chiefly indebted for this public improvement to the perseverance and industry of Messrs. J. W. Crew and I. Cordray.

Within the present century the village heretofore known as the Trappe has sprung into existence, and now numbers a population less than a thousand. This place has latterly received the additional and euphonious titles of Bakersville and Jerusalem, contrary to the wishes of its old residents, who unanimously insist upon the retention of its original name. Its population, although not all of Celtic origin, are proverbially quiet and industrious, and though "tanglefoot" is sold here, it is unusual to find any one in the condition of the "aged negro" referred to by your Worton correspondent. We defiantly assert that we have as good a smith, horseshoer and cart-wright, as Bell Air, Worton, or any other town in the county.

The Trappe, of late, has derived considerable celebrity as a great Fur emporium; notwithstanding it has no direct business connection, that we are aware of, with the world-renowned Hudson's Bay Fur Company. Gentle reader, be not amazed when we inform you that large quantities of this valuable commodity are collected here from the counties of Queen Anne's, Caroline and Talbot, as well as from the State of Delaware, preparatory for domestic and foreign shipment.

As yet we lack a post-office and an Alderman. Mr. H——n, a most estimable gentleman and farmer, though he does not possess the veteran scars received in battle which increases our veneration for the illustrious Mayor in futuro of Smythburg, yet he eminently possesses the moral, social and physical qualifications of an Alderman; and when he shall complete his "palatial residence," the site of which has already been chosen, we doubt not that our inhabitants will exultingly throw up their hats and bonnets, and proclaim him with one voice, "their honored Alderman for life."

"TRAPPE."

TOWN PROPERTY FOR SALE.—Attention is called to the sale of the dwelling house and garden on Main street, in this town, belonging to Mr. J. W. Hines, to take place at the Voshell House at 3½ o'clock this (Saturday) afternoon.

ATTENTION is directed to the advertisement of Messrs. Parlett & Muhlhofer, Baltimore, offering for sale a large assortment of carriages, &c., and announcing trade sales of horses, carriages, &c.

THE MISSOURI "TEST OATH."—The Rev. A. H. Deane has been arrested in Missouri for preaching without subscribing to the "test oath." Mr. Deane served in the Union army throughout the war as major, and endured many hardships, including the loss of all his property. His "loyalty" now, however, is questioned by some of the radical politicians of Missouri, because he refuses to take the test oath.

VERY SOMNOLENT.—A child at Calais, Me., being troublesome from teething, was given a draft of infused poppies, which put it to sleep. This was on Tuesday night week, and at last accounts the child was still sleeping in spite of all efforts to arouse it. The physician entertains hope that it may recover.

[COMMUNICATED.]

Donations from Kent to the Southern Relief Fair.

The appeal made to the people of Kent County in behalf of the Southern Relief Fair, although made much later than in many other counties, received a liberal response. It would be strange indeed if we could hear unmoved the sad story of suffering and wretchedness which comes to us from every quarter of the South, and coldly view the misfortunes of our own countrymen, without making some effort to relieve them. But there is more than the mere demands of charity—more than the mere instincts of benevolence—which urge us here to free and generous action. The courage and serenity with which our Southern countrymen endure their privations—the entire absence of idle repining and importunity—and their cheerful resort to labor however humble, call upon us loudly to give them, now in the hour of their sorest need, all the assistance in our power. The appeal made by the ladies of Baltimore was eloquent and touching, and must have reached the heart of every one who read it, if not insensible to manly and generous feelings. That it did touch many, we have abundant evidence in the contributions made from every part of the county, and from persons of every political opinion.

As a matter of interest to the community, the aggregate amount contributed from this county, as far as known, is here given: Cash contributions sent to Mrs. Peyton Harrison, treasurer, $465. Box of clothing and fancy articles prepared by the ladies, and estimated by them at from $350 to $400. To the lunch rooms were sent 37 fine hams, 48 dozen eggs, box of butter, one jar of lard, one box of canned fruit, and one large black cake—all of the estimated value of $200. An autograph letter of Gen. Washington was donated to the Fair by a lady of Chestertown, and was raffled for a large amount of money. A citizen of the county sent a valuable mocking-bird, also raffled, as we have heard, very successfully. Doubtless many other contributions, not generally known, have been made, but from those ascertained it may be safely said that Kent county has sent $1,000 to the Fair. It is also true that contributions both of money and provisions were sent from Kent to Queen Anne's before the movement in Kent was organized. It is needless to say that this money goes to a noble end, and where the suffering and poverty is extreme. Charity could never go where more sorely needed, or through a safer channel. Much may still be done, as there is still a wide and sad field for relief. The committee in Baltimore are still receiving contributions, and money or provisions, hams, flour, meal, &c., which may be given here will be forwarded to Baltimore, and will be as effectual in the relief of want as if they had reached the Exhibition now over.

AT a meeting on Saturday, the 7th inst., of the Teachers' Association of Kent co., the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, since the last meeting of this Association the President thereof has been removed by the hand of death from his sphere of active usefulness; therefore,

Resolved, That this Association has learned with deep regret of the decease of Thomas H. Harris, its President, and that we tender to his bereaved widow and orphans our most sincere and heartfelt sympathy, and commend them to the tender mercies of the Father of the fatherless.

Resolved, That the Association hereby tenders to the community in which our deceased friend and brother resided, and especially to the pupils of his charge which he has so long and faithfully served, our condolence on account of the great loss which they have sustained by his demise.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Association be directed to forward a copy of these resolutions to the widow of our deceased brother and president, and to cause a copy thereof to be inserted in the public papers of our county.

DEATHS.

In Chestertown on Monday last, ELIZA, wife of John H. Burchinal, in the 59th year of her age. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

In Chestertown, on the 20th inst., of typhoid fever, JOHN WARE, in the 36th year of his age.

In Still Pond, Saturday, March 10th, ANN ELIZABETH, wife of Simon H. Moffett, aged 18 years and 10 months.

OBITUARY.—Near Smithville on the 7th inst., MARGARET A., wife of James S. Taylor, in the 27th year of her age.

Thus it is, "friend after friend departs." Only a few years ago was this home circle visited by the death-angel and robbed of a precious treasure, which to-day shines in the heavenly world; now again has it been visited and broken by the taking away of the wife and mother. But, though her bereaved husband and friends sorrow, let them not sorrow as those who have no hope, for we trust that while we are endeavoring to pen these feeble lines, she is singing the songs of deliverance, and shouting the praise of God in that world where parting is unknown and where "sickness, sorrow, pain and death are felt and feared no more." During her last hours we could obtain nothing from her relative to her prospects for the future, as she lay in an unconscious state, except at brief intervals, when she seemed too much racked with pain to converse on any subject. But we are happy to say that a few months previous to her death she professed the religion of Jesus, and ever after her chief conversation was about religion and heaven. She sufferred much during the last few months of her life, but the nearer her end drew the more reconciled she seemed to become to it, and when at last it came she passed from this to the spirit world without a struggle or a groan. So calmly did she breathe her last that those who stood by could scarcely realize she was gone. She leaves two small children bereft of a mother's care, one a babe but three months old. May the Lord provide for the children and sustain the husband in his bereavement is the prayer of the writer, and may we all so live that when we come to die our lives may go out as calm as the summer's eve, and our spirits rest with the God who gave them.

Calm on the bosom of thy God
Dear spirit rest thee now,
E'en while with ours thy footsteps trod
His seal was on thy brow. * * *

OBITUARY.—HENRY R. STEPHENS departed this life at Galena, on the 4th inst., after a long and painful illness of ten months, aged 28 years. Though his suffering was severe and protracted, he exhibited a remakable degree of uncomplaining patience and resignation seldom witnessed in youth and such affliction, endearing himself more and more each successive day to those by whom he was fondly loved.

He was generous and affectionate in disposition, of unusual refinement and engaging manners; brilliant intellect and prepossessing appearance; beloved by his numerous associates; the pride and ornament of the home circle; from his boyhood ever thoughtful and kind to the poor and distressed, always ready to comfort and assist when in his power cheerfully, and received with grateful appreciation the universal attention bestowed by his extensive circle of friends and acquaintances throughout his sickness. His love for the bright and beautiful was strong to the last. Birds and flowers lost not their sweetness to him. The day previous to bidding adieu to all earthly scenes and sounds, he silently watched at early morn with interest the faint streaks gilding the horizon, foretelling the approach of day, and his ear seemed to catch with delight the warbling notes of the many songsters, and a few hours to closing his eyes in death he pressed tightly a little flower in his fingers saying, "I always prized them, and prize them still."

During the last week of his lingering on the shores of time, he expressed constantly his resignation to the will of God, and desire of Heaven, wishing no tears shed, but a happy union where the blossoms of hope never perish, and the flowers of affection fade not. He frequently engaged in fervent prayer and appeared to have no wish to live longer than his Maker was willing. He spoke of his little earthly affairs as though arranging for a pleasant journey, conversing most beautifully all day concerning his departure, which he took just as the last lingering rays of the golden sun faded away. So sank the sun of his mortal existence, yielding up his tranquil spirit into the hands of his dear Saviour. As the cloudless day serenely passed, so gradually, calmly and sweetly he sank into his long, long slumber, as the shades of evening gathered around.

While we mourn thy early flight in the spring time of earth, and thy short life when it seemed most desirous and attractive, just as nature was about to be arrayed in her verdant mantle, we will sorrow not as those without hope, but are consoled with the reflection thou hast been transplanted to a brighter and better land, where spring will abide forever, to enjoy with myriads of angels perpetual happiness.—Our sad bereavement is his infinite gain.

Spring flowers emit thy perfume
O'er the fresh made grave,
For low within the silent tomb
Our darling HARRY lays. GALENA.
