THE Bonus Bill passed the House of Representatives Thursday 333 to 70. All of Maryland's representatives voted for the bill. President Harding's attitude on the bill is uncertain.

THE House of Delegates refused to concur in the amendment of the Senate for a referendum on the dry enforcement act. The state law, therefore, will remain as it now is. The Anti-Saloon League opposed the referendum measure.

TO IMPROVE FARM CONDITIONS

In a speech at Chicago last week, Julius H. Barnes, former director of the United States Wheat Corporation, prophesied greatly improved conditions for the American farmer if the treaties of the Disarmament Conference are ratified. He said in part:

"No industry would feel this result again so quickly as agriculture and surely there must be ratification of this effort to provide the method of making effective commercial and financial remedies.

"The American farmer can be told today that the day of opportunity for agriculture has arrived. He can be told that thrift and energy in agricultural pursuits may now count with confidence on the reward of those fundamental qualities.

"Industry may be told that on basis of revived agriculture now assured, it may begin to frame its productive program afresh. At home and abroad, the skies are definitely clearing and the record of progress in the healthy restoration of our industries will be, I believe, day and day, increasingly clear."

Mr. Barnes cited the following developments as the reasons for his belief that the chief problems of agriculture are assured of solution:

"The consumer market abroad for all products of farm and industry is now reviving.

"The market for farm products at home and for the products of our industry is beginning to stir.

"Wheat has increased 40 per cent; sheep have doubled; cotton has doubled; hogs have almost doubled.

"Steadily advancing foreign exchange values show that the era of exchange speculation has passed and the era of legitimate export and import trade has begun.

"A Europe whose trade channels were cut and closed by new frontiers has reconstructed by the comercial flow across the boundaries by trade agreements that are restoring the healthy life of Europe.

A Europe that conceived reparations to be collectible beyond the current productive capacity of a people is learning that the burden must be readjusted to the limit of endurance.

"A Russia that is recovering from its destructive debauch of communism is plainly approaching saner relations with the world.

"Our national Congress has, perhaps insufficiently, eased the stifling pressure of taxation."

Whether this is mere propaganda favoring the ratification of the Disarmament Conference treaties we are unprepared to say. Any news which points to the improvement of agricultural conditions is greatly welcomed in a community such as this.

LEGISLATIVE NOTES

News Of Interest That Has Occurred At The Maryland Legislature Since Our Last Issue

The House of Delegates of the General Assembly, by vote of 53 to 48, on Tuesday rejected the Senate referendum amendment to the State Enforcement Act, and, by employing the usual parliamentary tactics, killed all possible hope of reconsideration. Less than an hour was used by the House in considering and voting on the motion to concur in the Senate amendment. Action on the amended bill followed immediately after the vote on the repeal of the Full Crew Law; when the title of the bill was called by the reading clerk, four members of the Baltimore city delegation who had voted to repeal the Full Crew law and who have consistently opposed the State Enforcement Act, left their seats and walked out of the House chamber and did not vote on the motion to concur with the Senate in the referendum.

The Maryland Senate, in the midst of the hard grind of work incident to the last few weeks of the session, in the midst of a fight that was being hotly and even bitterly fought, paused recently long enough to pay a last tribute to its former members who have been called to the "Great Beyond" since the body last met. The stage could not have been better set and the recalling to mind and memory those whose counsels had once been potent in shaping the policies of our state and to whose worth and ability many public measures bear mute but glorious testimony, was an inspiring scene.

Following the suggestion of Senator McIntosh, the Senate on Wednesday terminated a legislative combat between Senator Robins, of Somerset, and Senator McDaniel, of Talbot, by killing both of their amendments to the bill providing for the expendure of the proceeds from the sale of the 4th Regiment Armory lot at North and Maryland aves., Baltimore.

A total reduction of $250,660 for the two fiscal years covered by the state budget was agreed upon Wednesday at the joint meeting of the House Ways and Means and the Senate Finance Committees.

The so-called "blanket legislation bill," giving women equal rights with men, was killed in the Senate Wednesday afternoon on a motion by Senator Frick to lay it on the table.

Under the provisions of a bill introduced in the Maryland Legislature last week, individuals who construct homes after April 1, 1922, providing the construction cost does not exceed $5,000, would be exempt from taxation for the next five years. The bill is intended to stimulate home building. Similar measures are now in effect in several other states.

Without a dissenting vote, the House of Delegates recently passed the General Education Bill.

The following bills have been introduced by Senator Russell this week:

Five local bills, directing the County Commissioners of Kent Co. to pay $300, $2000, $700, $300 and $600 to the towns of Betterton, Chestertown, Rock Hall, Gaelna and Millington, respectively, for road purposes.

Authorizing road bond issue of $100,000 for Kent Co.

Amending local game laws of Kent and Cecil counties.

Repealing certain local game laws of Kent and Cecil counties.

Authorizing Kent Co. Commissioners to deed certain land to William H. Cooper.

Amending local game laws of Kent.

Mr. Bowers introduced the following bills in the House:

To permit the town of Millington to purchase fire equipment.

Imposing $250 fine or 60 days' imprisonment for dealing in fireworks, igniting them or having them in possession.

Worton Grange Notes

Although our little town has been practically isolated for several weeks on account of muddy roads, yet a few brave grangers have been holding regular meetings. Now that we may expect better weather conditions, we hope for a better attendance, however. Next Monday night being the regular feast night, the graces will be on hand provided with something to please the inner man and the lecturer, as usual will be out with a splendid program. Monday night week, April 3, the literary program will consist of a "spelling match" by the school children. Prizes will be awarded and the teachers of our school have kindly consented to be present and assist. So all be on hand for this promises to be a big affair. Other interesting events to take place as the season advances, so to keep up with these good things be present at every meeting.

WEDINGS

The wedding of Willie Mitchell Pardee and Miss Lydit Medora Foreman took place Thursday night of last week at the bride's parents, near Tolchester Beach.

The wedding of Norman D. Massey and Miss Lillian C. Evans took place at the M. P. parsonage on Wednesday evening of last week, Rev. N. O. Gibson officiating.
