To Our Subscribers —Please look at the date on your paper and see how you stand. If the date on your paper is 1 Jan. '08 you owe the NEWS one dollar.

SEVERAL interesting articles are crowded out of this issue, including Sassafras letter. They will appear next week.

THE Peninsula Horticultural Society's convention and fruit exhibition is to be held in Wilmington, Del., January 12-14. A splendid program has been arranged.

BOSTON's bean bill amounts to $10,000,000 a year. There are factories or bakeries which handle nothing but baked beans, one of which bakes 14,000 quarts a week. Wonder how many they would eat if they knew how well Kent countians cook them!

IT IS the purpose of the Good Roads Commission to begin work simultaneously in practically every county in the State just as soon as the remaining surveys are made and the spring weather permits road construction. This is the statement of President Tucker of the commission.

ARRANGEMENTS for a big "harmony" dinner on the night of January 7, at the Hotel Rennert, Baltimore, are being made by local Democratic leaders. It is proposed to have represented all elements of the party in the city and State. Governor Crothers and United States Senators Rayner and Smith will be invited as well as a number of other men, prominent in the councils of the party. It is also expected there will be representatives of the independent element of the party on hand.

JOHN KENNARD ALDRIDGE.

Chestertown and Kent county have lost a valued citizen in the death of John Kennard Aldridge, whose death is noted elsewhere. He was a man of liberal impulses and never turned away from those who needed assistance. He was a man of upright walk and high character, of fine business acumen and beloved by many close friends. He lavished upon his family everything that he thought they would want and leaves them all provided for. We shall miss our friend and brother, but hope to clasp hands with him in that Haven where partings are no more.

THOMAS J. SHALLCROSS.

This prominent Kent countian, known generally as Judge Shallcross, died near Locust Grove on Tuesday in the 81st year of his age.

Judge Shallcross was of a distinguished Pennsylvania family of large wealth and influence. He came to Kent county in early life and acquired a handsome estate in Kennedyville district where he spent all the balance of his life. He engaged in agriculture and like most others in that calling at the time was unfortunate and lost nearly all his property.

Judge Shallcross was one of the most remarkable men in Kent. In many respects he was a wonder. His mathematical mind and performances frequently astonished those with whom he came in contact. A system of figures which he invented for large and quick calculation was probably the greatest product of his wonderful genius in this respect, and yet it was never of practical value to the world, and of very little profit to him. The Judge himself could with this system do the work of a half dozen of the most expert accountants.

For a great many years Judge Shallcross has been conspicuous in our county affairs. His activity and quick perception of all surroundings, his ability to read men and understand motives, all served him in good part and gave him great influence in his county. He was as liberal as his purse would allow in all public enterprises and his zeal in any cause in which he took interest knew no bound.

In the building of the Locust Grove M. E. Church he was the leading spirit, and from that time to his death he was among that church's most devoted members and practical supporters.

The most important official position held by Judge Shallcross was that of County Commissioner. As president of the Board of County Commissioners he was quick to unravel the most intricate problems and would dispatch business with wonderful promptness.

Judge Shallcross was generous to a fault. He was ever the obliging neighbor, the true friend, and servant of all. He never came to Chestertown without errands innumerable and duties without number for his people.

As an evidence of the Judge's activity in late years we recall the fact that only last year Chief Judge James A. Pearce designated him to be foreman of the grand jury which position he filled with an efficiency equal to the youngest and best.

For years there have been few more conspicuous characters in Kent county than THOMAS J. SHALLCROSS. Since he left the commissioners office he has lived somewhat a retired life though he could not be eliminated from public affairs, and his death will be a shock to the whole county and a sad affliction to his particular section.

On another page of this issue of the NEWS will be found the report of the auditing committee for Kent county. This committee consisting of Messrs. Philip G. Wilmer, E. Thomas Massey and James H. Baker, have presented the financial affairs of the county in a comprehensive and intelligent manner. They found the books of the county's officials in good shape and correct to a cent and the delay in publishing the report has been no fault of the committee. They finished their labors in 25 days shorter than ever before and the result of their work is here shown.

WITH a roll of $15,000 in his pockets, with which he intended to return to China, a Chinaman died of starvation on a Southern Pacific train Monday shortly before the Arcade depot was reached. The man has not been identified yet, but railroad employes stated that he had worked a small vegetable ranch near Colton for several years. He had denied himself sufficient food to keep alive, in order to have as large a sum as possible when he got to his native country. This poor fellow has many a companion right here in Kent—people with a plenty and yet grinding their lives away in the effort to get more.

A GREAT CALAMITY!

Rome, December 30. — [Special]—A second earthquake shock and tidal wave which visited Messina today has completed the destruction of that place. Practically all of the survivors of the Monday morning shock who were waiting to be removed from the scene of the disaster were killed, according to the meager reports received here.

It is said that King Victor and Queen Helena were in the city at the time of this final shock, but there is no report that either received an injury. According to the refuges from the stricken city, there were only a few buildings left standing after the first terrible quake, and these were thrown down this afternoon.

This new addition to the horror that is being described as the greatest calamity in the history of man has raised the death list and it is believed now that the total number of dead will be between 125,000 and 150,000. In Reggio and Messina alone the death list will reach 75,000. Bagnara, a city of ten thousand people, has been totally destroyed, and it is said that there is not a survivor from that once prosperous place.

AN EVENING OF HUMOR and PATHOS

AT STAM'S HALL

MONDAY, JANUARY, 4TH, 1909

MR. AND MRS. SPAFFORD give an entertainment that positively has no prototype in this or any other country. Mr. Spafford has had for years a wide reputation as an artist of the platform. Mrs. Spafford, well-known in lyceum circles as "Miss Heine, the Original Lyceumite Girl" is also a versatile entertainer.

The entertainment consists of cartoon and landscape drawing, music on foreign and ancient instruments, fire pictures, sculpture and clay modeling, humor and pathos, with an undercurrent of solid thought which combine to make an entertainment that is entirely unlike any other ever presented to the entertainment going public.

Reserved Seats on Sale at Stam's Drug Store, 35 and 50 Cents.

☞ One-half the net proceeds of this entertainment is to be donated for benefit of Ladies' Improvement Association. d26-2t

You expect your watch to do thus and so for you

But what abour your side of the question? Do you give it the attention it deserves?

It isn't as though this watch care would cost you much, because it wouldn't.

Just the other way, in fact—one of the wisest strokes of economy that any one can practice is to let a competent man take a peep into his or her watch occasionally.

You ask how frequently.

Once a year, anyway—oftener wouldn't hurt.

We are well fixed to look after all your repairing needs.
