MOTHER'S WORK.

Toiling at noon like a busy bee,
Teaching the little ones A, B, C;
Hearing the older ones read and spell,
Smiling and praising when all goes well;
Washing and brushing, 'twixt work and play;
Such is the mother's work day by day.

Sowing good seed in their path along,
Sowing by action, by word and song;
Never once pausing to count the cost,
Knowing that much that is sown is lost;
Bearing a prayer in her heart alway—
Such is a mother's life day by day.

Robing each form for its nightly rest,
Hearing the faults of the day confessed;
Thus at her knee as her flower-buds nod,
Sealing and giving the day of God.
Now, may good angels her watch essay,
Angels have watched o'er her work all day.

The Nation Recovering from its Disabilities Despite the Political Quackery of the times.

Practical reconstruction—it is gratifying to note—makes pretty good progress, despite the obstacles sought to be thrown in its way by the implacable foes of quiet; and when we observe the plain abandonment of positions which only recently were considered as cardinal in the eyes of the radical leaders, it is rather amusing to see how agile are their followers here and elsewhere in adjusting themselves to the changes so constantly taking place. Only the other day, the House passed the famous "third section" in the proposed constitutional amendment, and it was considered quite the thing by those who endorsed Congress as possessing most of the discernment and patriotism, as against the President. A brief period elapses, and the vital clause is killed off with little or no ceremony in the Senate, yet we do not hear any regrets expressed by those who a few days ago endorsed it earnestly as a portion of that great plan which alone could save us from future national convulsions.

The truth is that Congress has not known exactly its own purposes; but has, lacking a policy or a great principle, fallen back upon the doctrine of expediency.—Compelled to modify its views from time to time, as it found that the people did not sympathize with its extreme notions, it has resulted in its being driven to adopt a shifting policy, keeping up the show of condemning the action of the President, when practically it has sanctioned all or nearly all he has done. The people are thus made to see that whatever of true statesmanship has been exhibited, has been exhibited by the President; and perhaps it is as well to let certain professional scolds have their own way, so that it all ends in talk, when we can see every day great results flowing from the brave and at the same time forbearing policy which has the magnanimity and the courage to do right in really restoring the Union.

Let the nation then congratulate itself anew that in the great work of giving us peace, the practical is more than the theoretical. The very fact that Congress has busied itself so long to so little purpose is having its effect, inasmuch as the people, thoroughly wearied of these inconclusive efforts of the politicians, have ceased to greatly bother their brains over any thing they do, or even fail to do. The anxiety which at the beginning of the session was felt to know what they would propose, has been succeeded by a carelessness, an apathy as to their projects, which bodes little success to demagogues; as that peace will finally come of disgust and indifference with so-called "peace measures."—Tired or insensible to political quackery, the body politic will get well of its maladies by virtue simply of a "strong constitution."—Balt. Com.

CURIOUS EFFECT OF WEARING ENAMELED PAPER COLLARS.—A short time since a young man, a clerk in one of our wholesale stores, was afflicted with a painful breaking out of the neck, which he had at first attributed to boils, but the matter getting serious, he applied to a physician, who informed his patient that he was suffering from the poisonous properties of articles used in the preparation of the enameled paper collars, which, by the sweating process or otherwise, was absorbed into the system; that he had another similar case, &c. Upon inquiring it was found that some half dozen other clerks, all of whom wore these collars, were affected in a similar manner.—Boston Traveller.

CARD PLAYING.

I HAVE all my days had a card-playing community open to my observation, and I am yet to be made to believe that a game which is the universal resort of the starved in soul and intellect, which has never in any way linked with itself tender, elevating, or beautiful associations, the tendency of which is unduly to absorb the attention from more weighty matters, can recommend itself to the favor of Christ's disciples. The use of culture and genius may embellish, but can never dignify it. I have this moment ringing in my ears the dying injunction of my father's early friend: "Keep your sons from cards; over them I've murdered time and lost heaven."—Springfield Republican.

"WHEN an individual treats me with want of respect," said a philosophical man, "I comfort myself with the reflection that it is not myself that he slights, but an old shabby coat and hat, which, to say the truth, have no particular claims to admiration. So, if my hat and coat choose to fret about it, let them, but it is nothing to me."

A WESTERN WONDER.

The greatest wonder in the State of Iowa and perhaps any other State, is what they call the "Walled Lake," located in Weight county, twelve miles north of the Dubuque and Pacific Railroad, and about one hundred and fifty miles west of Dubuque City. The water is from two to three feet higher than the earth's surface. In most places the wall is ten feet high, width at bottom fifteen feet, and at the top five. Another fact is the size of the stone used in its construction; the whole is of stone, varying in weight from three tons down to one hundred pounds. There is an abundance of stone in Weight county; but surrounding the lake to the extent of five and ten miles there are none. No one can form an idea as to the means employed to bring them to the spot, or who constructed it. Around the entire lake is a belt of woodland, half a mile in width composed of oak; with this exception, the country is a rolling prairie. The trees, therefore, must have been placed there at the time of building the wall. In the spring of 1856 there was a great storm, and the ice on the lake broke the wall in several places. The farmers in that vicinity were obliged to repair the damages to prevent inundation. The lake occupies a ground surface of 1,900 acres, depth of water as great as twenty-five feet. The water is clear and cold, soil sandy. It is singular that no one has been able to ascertain where the water comes from, and where it goes to, yet it always remains clear and fresh.

Separating a Mother and Child.

In the Circuit Court in Morgantown last week, a deeply affecting scene took place. It occurred in the matter of the habeas corpus granted at the instance of Clark Everly against his wife for the rendition of the body of a child born to the parties prior to their separation. After a full hearing, the Court gave judgment that the mother should deliver the child to the father. The Morgantown Post says: "It was then that a scene occurred that beggars description. The mother pressed her infant to her breast and clung with all the tenacity of life to the object of her fond hopes. Her loud sobs and agonizing shrieks sent such a thrill of sorrow to the hearts of the bystanders as only the voice of woman in distress can impart. The husband endeavored to wrest it from her arms, but could not do it, when the Sheriff stepped forward to carry out the order of the Court, and succeeded in obtaining the child. The loud cries of the mother thus doubly widowed, were heard for several squares form the court house, as she was led away supported by her father and brother."

HOW TRUE.—What plowing, digging, and harrowing is to land, thinking, reflecting, and examining is to the mind. Each has its proper culture; and as the land that is suffered to lie waste and wild for a long time will be overspread with brushwood, brambles, thorns and vegetation, which would have neither use nor beauty, so there will sprout up in a neglected, uncultivated mind a great number of prejudices and opinions, which owe their origin partly to the soil itself, the passions and imperfections of the mind of man, and partly to those seeds which chance to be scattered in it by every kind of doctrine which the cunning of statesman, the singularity of pedants, and the superstition of fools shall raise.

THE Government has awarded a contract for raising the vessels in the river and harbor of Savannah, which were sunk by the rebels to obstruct the channel. The gunboats and other vessels were scuttled and sunk at the time the city was evacuated. There are in all about twenty, some of them valuable, with all their guns and armament on board.

A TOPER'S SOLILOQUY.

Leaves have their time to fall,
And so likewise have I;
The reason too's the same—
Both comes of getting dry.
But here's the difference 'twixt you and me—
I falls more harder and more frequently.

LICE ON CATTLE.—A correspondent of the New England Farmer finds that a mixture of lard and kerosene oil—a little more lard than oil—well mixed and thoroughly rubbed into the hair of lousy cattle once or twice, to be a dead shot not a louse will escape.

Two boys were conversing about Elijah's ascent in the chariot of fire. Said one, "Would you not be afraid to ride in such a chariot?" "No," was the reply, "not if God drove." Might not many old Christians learn a lesson of faith from the above?

SOME paper having made the statement that butter should not be kept in a room with kerosene oil, as the kerosene would spoil the butter—giving it a peculiar flavor—the Elmira Advertiser remarks that some of the butter now-a-days is enough to spoil kerosene.

How few of us realize that as we rise each morning, and commence our various avocations, we are one day nearer our final home!

THERE is a negro in Virginia who is turning white. Poor fellow—he won't be noticed any more by his "friends" in Congress.
