ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS.

[From the National Intelligencer.]

The Rump Congress has adjourned.—Its session of eight harrowing months, boding ill like an impending pestilence, has at last gone past, and is of the dismal things that were. Convolving clouds have darkened our sky; the lightnings of a fell revolutionary purpose have flushed across the gloom, but the bolt has not descended, and the wild sweep of the storm of civil war is, thanks to God, for a time arrested.

This Congress will ever be most conspicuously infamous in the category of the worst organizations having governmental functions that have dishonored and shamed enlightened society in all the world's history. Its dispersion from the capitol to widely separated and remote localities is a welcome relief to apprehensions arising from the bodily presence of concentrated mischief, such as in the material world takes to itself the form of the "plague that stalketh at noonday."

History, says the Albany Argus, may be searched in vain for a parallel to the corruption, extravagance, and profligacy of this Congress. It is a vast job of aggregation of jobs. It is controlled by jobbers, kept in session by jobbers, and every measure that it passes is more or less a job.

At the fall elections there will be an uprising of the people that will overwhelm these persons and supply their places with honest men. The political events since the war have fully aroused the masses, and the iniquities of this Congress will be the issue at the elections. Nothing can save these congressmen and the parties which uphold them. They must meet their constituents face to face at the polls and receive the popular judgment upon their transgressions. Then let them explain their jobs and profligacy, if they can. No loud talk about copperheads and sustaining the war will save them now. They will no longer be able to divert public attention from their corruption by shouting themselves hoarse with denouncing traitors and hypocritically praising the patriotic soldiers, in whose company they are not worthy to exist. They must face the issue which they have themselves created. Elected as Union men they have proved to be the worst disunionists; pledged to economy and reform, they have indulged in the most licentious extravagance.

THE NATIONAL UNION CONVENTION.

The New Nork Journal of Commerce, an able and temperate journal, favors the Philadelphia National Convention, among other reasons, because it will be the first gathering for many years of the people from all sections of the Union. It well says that for this reason, if for no other, it will be a remarkable assembly. Not since the first blow at Sumter, in 1861, have the representatives of all the States met in any council, either ecclesiastical or civil, or come together for any purpose upon a common platform. We shall be greatly mistaken if the fact has not a marked influence upon the spirit of those who, for the first time in six years, shall greet each other as brethren. Over the intervening graves, stronger than the memory of the bitter strife, hushing the tumult of sectional animosities, will come the hallowed associations of the earlier days, and the hearts of old time brethren will once more flow together. The blood that has been shed will rest in the grave of buried controversy; and the warmer current of a fresher life will be quickened in the hearts of those who still own the tie that makes them one, and meet to kindle anew the glow of patriotism that binds them in a common allegiance. The Journal adds:

It is a happy circumstance that the convention as a body will have no party ties, and owe no allegiance to any platform except the implication in the call under which it assembles. It is significant—and we may hope an augury for good—that the first gathering of the people from all sections, after such a period of waste and desolation, may enlist the sympathies of every true patriot without distinction of political divisions. Those who love party more than country have tried in vain to prevent this meeting of brethren long estranged, and will doubtless make still another effort to keep alive the hatreds and jealousies of the past, and to sow the seeds of fresh dissensions. All such attempts must fail in presence of the better spirit which has been invoked, and which, we trust will rule in all hearts. Some selfish and unscrupulous men will doubtless find their way into the convention, but they will be powerless for evil if the good and the true of all parties are only resolute and will act in concert.

Information has been received by the Navy Department of the capture of a slaver in Pensacola Bay, Florida, by the United States Sloop Augustine, having on board one hundred and fifty freedmen from Mobile, Alabama, and bound for Cuba. The system has been to enlist colored laborers about Mobile, run them up the railroad to Greenville, Alabama, switch on to the Pensacola road, and run down to a plantation in Florida, near the Escalabia river, place the negroes upon flatboats, float down to tide water, ship them on board sloops, and, passing by Pensacola, gain the sea and land their human freight in slavery. Persons in New Orleans, Mobile and New York are implicated in the affair.

REJOICING OVER THE ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS.—The conservative men of Paterson, N. J., celebrated the adjournment of Congress on Saturday afternoon by firing a national salute. The salute was fired by returned soldiers. The people of Paterson favor the restoration of the Union, and are opposed to the radicals very generally. Transparencies were exhibited in the evening complimentary to the Union policy of the President. Much excitement prevailed in the crowded streets, and all classes heartily rejoiced.—N. Y. Times.

A Washington letter writer says that the "boot-licking Radicals in Congress vie with each other who shall help in feeble old Stevens to his seat. One offers an arm, another takes his hat, a third holds up his coat-tail, and old Thad. the stage father, says, "Bless ye, my children, bless ye."

THE ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH SUCCESSFULLY LAID.

Peace Between Prussia and Austria.

The news of the successful laying down of the new Atlantic cable was received here yesterday morning, in a dispatch from Cyrus W. Field, Esq., dated Heart's Content, Newfoundland, July 28th. Successive dispatches were subsequently received, furnishing details of the voyage, which will be read with interest. It appears that after laying the shore end of the cable, 29½ miles long, at Valentia, on the coast of Ireland, the Great Eastern and three smaller steamships commenced their voyage across the Atlantic on Friday, the 13th of July, at 2.40 P. M., and arrived at Heart's Content, Newfoundland, July 27th, at 8 A. M. The entire distance run was 1,669 miles, and the length of cable laid was 1,864 miles. The total slack was less than twelve per cent. The average speed was five miles per hour, or 120 miles per day. The weather was remarkably pleasant during the entire voyage of two weeks. The news from Europe was received daily and posted up on board the Great Eastern.

The cable across the Gulf of St. Lawrence, connecting Newfoundland with the mainland, which, it will be remembered, has long been broken, will be immediately replaced with a new cable, to be laid by the steamer Medway, one of the vessels which accompanied the Great Eastern. The want of this connecting link has probably occasioned the delay in the reception of dispatches from Heart's Content Mr. Field states, however, that the Atlantic Telegraph line will be open for business in a few days. The Great Eastern and the rest of the fleet, after taking in coal, will proceed to the point where the last year's cable was broken, and if successful in raising it, the parties engaged having a sufficiency of new cable on board, will splice it, and, returning to Heart's Content, complete the second line.

The perseverance and energy of those engaged in this great undertaking has at length, after five attempts, been rewarded with present success. If permanently successful, it will realize a great event in history. The enormous charges which the Atlantic Telegraph Company has established for the transmission of messages, it is thought, will greatly diminish its usefulness, and the fact that the line is exclusively in English hands, with both ends on British soil, has also tended greatly to diminish that public enthusiasm in connection with it which was formerly so ardently manifested. But still, its permanent success must be devoutly wished by every one having at heart the interests of civilization and progress, and nowhere more so than here in America, when we remember that what has already been achieved is as much due to the energy and untiring perseverance of an American citizen as to the enterprise of British capitalists.

The present success of this great triumph in the face of obstacles that have been overcome only by years of scientific labor and herculean toil is cause for additional congratulation, when we are enabled to report that amongst the very first news received through its agency is the announcement of the termination of a bloody conflict by the signing of peace between Austria and Prussia. In the hope, then, that this happy intelligence may receive early confirmation, and that the agency through which it is given to the people of this continent may without peradventure become a settled fact, we wish it God speed.—Balt. Sun.

THE "SO-CALLED WHITE RACE."—In one of the many black bills introduced recently into the United States Senate by Sumner, occurs the following section:

"Section 5. That any citizen who has been a slave, or is the descendant of a slave or who does not belong to the so-called white race, that may hereafter be unlawfully deprived of his vote by any person, may maintain a suit or suits, and recover damages of any such person in any district court of the United States for the district in which such person may be found."

The bill was ordered to be printed.

The Nashville Press and Times says that Governor Brownlow is popular in Natches, Miss. If this be true, remarks the Louisville Courier, he certainly ought to move there at once, for we do not suppose there is another spot on the habitable globe where he is not regarded with loathing and contempt.

TO THE Unconditional Union Voters OF KENT COUNTY.

IN accordance with a resolution passed by the Unconditional Union State Central Committee, on the 18th day of July inst., the voters of the State who sustain the policy of the present Congress in its effort to keep the National Government in the hands of its friends—those who have stood by it in the hour of its peril, against a combination of its deadly enemies—are requested to send delegates from the several counties and the city of Baltimore, to a State Convention, which will assemble in said city on WEDNESDAY, the 15th day of August next, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Comptroller of the Treasury; and the said City and County meetings are also requested to appoint delegates to nominate Candidates for Congress, for the 1st District at Cambridge, on the 22nd of August. R. M. PROUD, Chairman.
S. M. EVANS, Secretary.

In pursuance of the above call of the State Central Committee of the Unconditional Union party, all voters of Kent county, possessing the manliness and patriotism to sustain the majority of the present Congress of the United States in their demands for a sure guarantee against another attempt, by traitors, to ruin the republic, and who denounce and treat with contempt the political tricksters who are continually howling about negro suffrage and negro equality, whether for or against it, are requessed to meet at the Court House, in CHESTERTOWN,
