Locals

By the will of Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Newnam, of Queen Anne's, Beverly N. Sparks is left $4,000.

A mule at the Marvil Package Company's factory here ran away, throwing the driver, Tobe Mitchell, colored, out of the wagon, which ran over him, crushing his shoulder.

Mr. Dorsey, of Prince George's has rented the Stam farm, owned by W. A. Hendrix, near Chestertown.

Plans are taking shape looking to the colonization of a large tract of land in Queen Anne's county, near Chester bridge. No better locality could be found.

Fox hunters here have been enjoying rare sport in this and Queen Ann's counties during the past week. In one of the most exciting chases of recent years Charles B. Nicholson's fine hound from this county lead a pack of some fifty dogs in a recent chase near Centreville.

G. E. Noland has accepted the position at Tolchester Hotel made vacant by Fred. Eliason's death. This position will suit Mr. Noland and no better man could have been picked for the place. Mrs. Noland, that connoisseur of experience and skill, will be his helper. During their absence in the summer Conlyn Noland will have sole charge of the business here.

Charged with criminally assaulting Mollie Grollman, thirteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Grollman, of Stevensville, Alexander Grollman, 32 years old, veteran of the World War, a former Kent Island merchant, and well-known in Kent county, was arrested last Tuesday by police of the northern district, Baltimore.

A great improvement has been made to the Blackiston property on Vashington avenue. The shrubbery has been removed and fences taken away. The house is to be painted and put in up-to-date condition. Several applicants are already mentioned for the property.

The local fire company was called out on Monday morning about eight o'clock to subdue a fire in the chimney of Mrs. E. F. S. Jarrell's home on Corner Maple avenue and Queen street. No damage was done and the blaze soon extinguished.

A rare musical treat will be missed by those who fail to hear the University of Maryland Glee Club, at Lyceum Theatre on Monday next, April 2nd. The entertainment is being given under the auspices of the Young Men's Bible Class of the M. E. Church and a crowded house is anticipated.

A. Cohen, the Sandy Bottom merchant, will close his store today at five o'clock and remain closed for the balance of the day, on account of the Easter holiday.

The Sallie C. Lewis will case, at Georgetown, in which Wallace Harper, of Greensboro, was one of the interested parties, was settled by compromise last week. According to the will, Mrs. A. W. Mather, of Seaford, was the sole beneficiary of the estate amounting to $15,000 or $20,000. Mrs. LeRoy Lingo, of Seaford, and Mr. Harper sued for their share. It is said that by the terms of settlement the contestants will receive $1,000 each.

Plans for the construction of a large feed warehouse, and eventually the erection of a commodious grain elevator in Centreville, progressed materially toward consummation, when Dudley G. Roe, of Sudlersville, purchased 70,000 square feet of ground, comprising a portion of the property owned by the heirs of the late William McKenney, fronting on the roadway and property of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, between Railroad Avenue and Kidwell Avenue. It includes the large double dwelling house on Railroad Avenue. The purchase price was $8,000.

Shad were caught at Rock Hall on Monday.

In many sections of Kent the farmers are joining in scraping the roads.

Five years ago Millington was swept by a disastrous fire that destroyed $50,000 worth of property, including dwellings, stores, bake shop, drug store and other valuable business places.

The shed on Robert Johnson's farm near Golt was destroyed by the wind of Friday catching a carriage under it and damaging it.

Howard Strong has greatly improved his property on Kent street by removing fence, burning filth and making building lots.

The monthly meeting of the Kent County League of Women Voters will meet in the Business Men's room next Tuesday, April 3rd at 2.30 p. m.

R. Lee Robinson has purchased of Robert G. Nicholson the vacant lot on Philosopher's Terrace adjoining his home.

An examination of the fruit buds in the county shows that no damage was done by the recent very cold snap. There is a fine prospect for all kinds of fruit here, especially strawberries.

The public schools of the county and Washington College closed on Thursday for the Easter holidays.

A colored man, alone on an oyster buy boat in Long Cove, went ashore in a small boat Sunday afternoon, got a barrel of water and started back to the larger vessel. He was heard to cry for help but could not be found. It is supposed the boat sank with him. His hat and the barrel were afloat. The vicinity has been dragged without success. The master of the vessel, Capt. Taylor, returned from Baltimore on the ferry and helped.

Peter the Great, famous racing sire of the stable of Stoughton A. Fletcher, died Sunday, following a stroke of paralysis. One of the greatest money earners on the track during his racing career, the famous trotter, who held a mark of 2.07¾, was retired several years ago by Mr. Fletcher. Peter the Great sired 549 standard track performers, which is said to be more than twice the number sired by any other racing stallion. He was 28 years old and was purchased by Mr. Fletcher in 1916 for $50,000.

CORRECTION

The article appearing in the News last issue as the action of the last meeting of the Kent County Agricultural Council was a mistake. The Council did not discuss the tomato situation at all, or anything else mentioned in the article. The Tomato situation is being cared for by the Kent County Produce Exchange. The only discussion before the last meeting of the Agricultural Council was in regard to the Farm Bureau, a report of which is elsewhere in this issue.

ENTHUSIASTIC POULTRYMEN

A year or so ago Roland B. Day moved to Kent county and purchased the Bartus Trew farm on Lankford's bay. He tried the experiment of making a living on raising wheat and corn as well as small crops, and was barely able to make both ends meet at the end of the year.

Last year he decided to try the poultry business and purchased a flock of Barred Rocks and Leghorns and built a number of poultry houses. He cleaned up $1,000 clear profit the first year, and this year he has decided to increase the capacity of his plant and also to engage in the raising of geese. He has 1,000 young chicks almost ready for broilers and will buy a flock of 25 geese, besides a large number of turkeys.

He has turned his entire farm into a poultry plant and expects to make more money in one year than he could have made in five in growing wheat and corn. Others here are following Mr. Day's experiment and in a very short time there will be considerably less cereals raised on the farms here and much more poultry and milk. These are the paying crops here now.

Announcement was made last week that new candidate for Sheriff has entered the field in Queen Anne's. Mrs. Edward K. Everett, of the First district, has unequivocally declared herself a candidate for this office. This news has caused much interest throughout the coun'y, owing to the fact that it is the first time in the history of Queen Anne's politics that a woman has aspired to the honor. Kent had one but she soon changed her mind.

SAFE BLOWERS AT KENNEDYVILLE

Kennedyville, that quiet and beautiful town on the Pennsylvania railroad, was shocked Tuesday night by a professional yeggmen. The garage of the Kent Motor Company was entered and a bran new Ford sedan stolen. The safe was neatly blown open but the Sutton Bros. had removed their money to their home so that the robbers failed to get any cash.

They next went to the railroad station and "jimmied" the ticket box and other cases in search for money but Harry T. Jewell, agent, says he has missed nothing.

Sheriff Hadaway and State's Attorney Beck went early to the scene and State officers are at work on the case. There were two men in a Chevrolet car towed into the garage Tuesday afternoon and left no address. A tag bearing the name of a Philadelphia machine shop was found in the car. The stolen automobile bore Maryland license No. 5,470 and was the property of the Kennedyville garage owners.
