ROCK HALL

This section was shocked on Friday last by the drowning of young Lindsey Joiner, while oystering in Chester river. It seems that he was standing on the washboard of the canoe and was taken suddenly with catalepsy and fell overboard. The wind was blowing so hard that it was impossible to reach him. This is the second son of John Joiner lost by drowning. Another son was killed by being run over by Shallcross' truck a few years ago. Every effort was made to recover the body by dragging with grapnels. So far, the body has not been recovered. The community greatly sympathize with the family.

Geo. Ashley is dressing his dwelling with a new coat of paint.

The Official Board of the M. E. Church are making further improvments in front of the parsonage.

Kite flying and marbles are claiming the attention of our youngsters, while grown-ups are gardening.

There was a small size bread famine here last Saturday, owing to the late arrival of the steamer at her dock, which was caused by the extremely low tide. Some failed to get their bread supply before Sunday morning.

Hiram Crew and Edgar Hague and families spent Easter with the Ryan families here.

Max Alexander has made considerable improvement in the interior arrangement of his store as to display of commodities. Everything is in full view. No need to ask if he has what one wants.

"Grandpap" is also trimming up the ice cream and confectionery parlor with paint, etc.

The Young Men's Bible Class of the M. E. Church will meet next Friday evening, April 13th, at the home of Clark Davis.

Strength and Safety In the Body of Steel

DODGE BROTHERS BUSINESS SEDAN

Never was the word "safety" so frequently heard in motoring circles as it is today. Never was the need for safe traffic regulation safe driving and safe motor car construction so obvious to the public.

Dodge Brothers foresaw the urgency of the safety factor eight years ago, when they began building the car which now bears their name. Instead of making touring car and roadster bodies of wood, as has been the almost universal custom, they built these bodies of steel. And, adding to value and appearance as well as safety, they developed their now famous permanent enamel finish, which can be applied only to steel bodies because it is baked on at a temperature which would instantly reduce wood to ashes.

From this vital contribution to greater safety in motoring, came the even more important development of today — the closed body of steel, as exemplified by Dodge Brothers Business Sedan and Business Coupe.

In the construction of these sturdy closed cars, safety has been brought to is highest possible development. For the first time in closed car history, wood has been eliminated from the main structure of the body. Every panel, every rib, every pillar is steel. Even the door sills and window mouldings are steel.

Moreover, instead of being merely riveted or screwed into place, these steel parts are electrically welded together, with the result that the entire body is one substantial unit.

The result is a Sedan and a Coupe as nearly like all-steel Pullman coach as it is possible to build a motor car. And yet, so skillfully is the car designed that this vital element of safety has been added without any increase in weight, and without impairing that beauty of grace of line which has always characterized Dodge Brothers closed cars.
